NIXON BANS ALL PREDATOR KILLS

Antipoisoning Legislation Put Into Force Immediately By Executive Order

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today banned the poisoning of eagles, hawks, coyotes, falcons and other predators on federal lands, and proposed legislation to prevent shooting or trapping them as well.

The ban on poisoning was put in force immediately by an executive order. Ranchers in the West have been killing these animals and birds because they attack livestock.

"We're extremely disturbed about the poisons in public lands," Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton told reporters.

Reports of mass shooting of eagles from helicopters and small planes, brought out in congressional hearings last year, created a storm of indignation in some parts of the country.

In an environmental message to Congress coinciding with issuance of the executive order against killing predators on government owned lands, Nixon also called for prompt action to identify endangered species rather than waiting until they are near extinction.

Nixon expressed concern about dwindling population of some animals and birds — "starting with our national symbol, the bald eagle."

The executive order protecting eagles and other predators on public lands specified the only exceptions could be "for emergency situations."

The kinds of emergencies were not fully spelled out.

Nixon's environmental message also:

Urged Congress to penalize states, in the form of a 7 per cent cut in federal funds, if they fail to regulate location of airports and roads. This would be part of a pending bill to require states to regulate development around such sites.

Called for legislation to regulate disposal on land of toxic wastes so pollutants barred from the air and water will not contaminate underground waters through indiscriminate dumping on land or in wells.

Asked Congress to pass a law to require states to regulate earth runoffs from building and road construction so sediment will not pollute waterways.

Urged enactment of the first federal "pollution tax," a levy of up to 15 cents per pound on sulfur oxide emissions from the smokestacks of power plants, smelters and other industrial facilities.

Called for more research to develop "clean" energy sources, less poisonous pesticides, quieter airplanes and ways to combat lead pollution in ghettos where children eat flaking paint.

Proposed tax changes to discourage development of swamps and other wetlands.

The executive order on predators reverses a decades old policy under which the government has subsidized poisoning of coyotes and other animals which prey on livestock.

The government owns vast amounts of western rangelands which it rents to ranchers.

Nixon said in his message to the House and Senate: "The old notion that 'the only good predator is a dead one' is no longer acceptable as we understand that even the animals and birds which sometimes prey on domesticated animals have their own value in maintaining the balance of nature."

During Senate testimony last year, a helicopter pilot testified that he helped kill about 800 eagles at the request primarily of sheep ranchers. The eagles — both golden and bald —were said to have been killed mostly in Wyoming and Colorado.

Fixed wing aircraft also were said to have been used in killing eagles and other winged predators, as well as coyotes.

THE BOOTY

San Anselmo Police Inspector Bernard Del Santo looks over a haul of stolen property taken from the residence of one of two San Anselmo youths accused of a series of San Anselmo burglaries. The two boys, aged 14 and 15, were cited to juvenile authorities Sunday. Police estimated the value of the stolen property at between $3,000 and $4,000, and said that so far it had been connected with five residential burglaries and 12 vehicle burglaries. Some of the property has not yet been identified and officers said they believed it may have been taken in burglaries not yet reported to police. Identity of the boys was withheld on order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

Lomax Job Future Still Not Certain

W. Robert Lomax Jr.'s future as executive director of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council remained uncertain today in the wake of a vote of confidence from his staff, criticism from his board and a report that he will be asked to resign before being fired.

The question of the antipoverty program chief's future employment with the agency is expected to be discussed at an adjourned, closed meeting of the EOC board at 8 p.m. tomorrow. The session will be held in the board room of the Marin County Chapter of the American Red Cross, 712 Fifth Avenue in San Rafael.

"I don't see how we could avoid discussing his future," board vice chairman Adelaide P. Wilson told the Indepfent-Journal today.

Last week, Lomax came under fire while a bgard committee complained of poor leadership and other board members complained of lack of accountability for EOC spending.

Two board members, who asked not to be identified, told the I-J he had been asked to resign before formal action to fire him is taken.

Board chairman Robert P. Simmons told the Independent-Journal, "I suggested that his resignation woud be a good idea. Simmons said he made the suggestion to Lomax last Wednesday "to avoid a major flap which could only hurt the organization (EOC) and Mr. Lomax's career."

Simmons declined to discuss specific reasons for his request saying as far as he was concerned "it's a matter between the board and Mr. Lomax that should be handled in executive (closed) session." He added that "it's a matter of administration of the agency" and does not include any question of misappropriated funds.

"No matter what the outcome of this personnel problem is," he continued, "the EOC programs will continue with no major change. I've been assured by the regional office of the Office of Economic Opportunity (federal funding source for the EOC) that this matter will not affect our application for federal funds."

The question of whether the executive director plans to resign the post he has held for three years remained a mystery.

Following last Wednesday's board meeting, Lomax told the I-J he might resign. "I've just had it. I've been here long enough," he said.

But yesterday EOC staff members who held a press conference in Marin City in support of their leader, said Lomax has decided to remain in his job, fight "the attacks" against him and "clear his name."

Lomax could not be reached yesterday or today to discuss his intentions.

Richard Nielsen, EOC director of nutrition and health services, and Anthony Rust, director of the agency's youth program, acted as spokesmen for the agency's 25 employees at yesterday's conference and said the staff stands 100 per cent behind its director.

Nielsen said Lomax is currently under fire "from political elements in the community who want to see the local EOC

Nixon Urges Golden Gate Parks Area

Proposal Sent To House 'Gives Breathing Space'

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — President Nixon gave formal blessing today to creation of a Golden Gate National Recreation Area stretching along 30 miles of Marin and San Francisco coastline.

The White House asked Congress to establish a 23,174-acre facility that would include Angel Island, Forts Barry and Cronkhite on the Marin Headlands, about one-half of Fort Baker and the Marincello lands once proposed for a huge residential development.

The Nixon proposal, which will be heard soon by the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, is said to differ little from bills already introduced in Congress to create the recreational area.

Under the Nixon plan, introduced in the form of legislation in both houses by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Reps. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, and Phillip Burton, D-Fifth District, the area would include 8,021 acres of private lands, 7,497 acres of state property, 3,840 of state water acreage, 3,618 of federal lands, and 198 acres of county or Marin Municipal Water District property.

The President issued a statement which said the new facility would "provide breathing space and recreational opportunities" which are a "major concern to this administration."

Among federal lands that would be included, aside from Marin fort property, are Alcatraz Island, Baker Beach and Crissy Field at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Nixon's proposal, however, doesn't include extensive private holdings in Olema Valley designated in bills already under consideration. Mailliard sponsored one of the bills, Burton and Cranston the other.

Mailliard's adminstrative assistant, Robert Busha, said the congressman introduced the Nixon plan as a companion to his own measure. "Although there are differences," Busha said, "we may submit amendments when the committee considers the matter."

Although striking the Olema Valley lands, which had been citd for earthquake danger, the President's version does include a quarter-mile-wide offshore strip along the Marin and San Francisco coastlines — a feature that is a part of the Burton proposal but not Mailliard's. The Alcatraz feature, while in the administration and Mailliard plans, is not in Burton's bill.

It was not immediately known which half of Fort Baker would be included. Busha said

A Kiss — And Her Keys Stolen By Hitchhiker

A 23-year-old Mill Valley woman reported to San Rafael police yesterday that a hitchhiker she had picked up had stolen a kiss.

That wasn't her problem, though. The hitchhiker had also stolen her keys.

The woman told police she had picked up the man, in his late 20s, in downtown San Rafael.

She gave him her address and phone number after he said he'd like to take her out sometime.

She parked at the Fidelity Savings and Loan Association lot at 1200 Fifth Avenue, and they both got out of the car, but not before a kiss. He disappeared a few minutes later and she then discovered her keys were missing.

She told police she was sure he had taken them "because he was trying to divert my attention by kissing me — successfully, I guess."

Settlement Reached In Dock Strike

BULLETIN

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Negotiators announced a settlement today in the longest dock strike in American history — the 123-day walkout of longshoremen in 24 ports on the West coast.

Negotiators said all economic issues had been settled and "certain specified, non-economic issues" will be submitted to arbitration.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union and the Pacific Maritime Association, representing shippers, told a news conference settlement had been reached at 11:50 a.m.

ILWU President Harry Bridges said the settlement will go to a union caucus Saturday, which may call for a ratification vote next week.

Asked if he would recommend ratification, the 70-year-old union leader said, "I always do."

PMA President Edmund Flynn said the shippers were satisfied with the settlement "or we wouldn't have agreed to it."

If the settlement is ratified, it

Creek Project's Future In Doubt

The future of the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project was thrown into doubt today by a superior court decision ordering a referendum in Ross and ruling the town has the right to halt work.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson, in deciding in favor of Peter B. Valentine of Ross, said, "The act organizing the district (Marin County Flood Control District) does not empower the district to construct projects within a city without regard for the city's views."

He ruled the town must either hold a referendum or repeal a resolution of July 8, 1971, appgving the alignment of the concrete project from near the Ross Post Office to the San Anselmo border.

He said he could find no legal reason why the project should not be subject to referendum "simply because a determination adverse to the project might be disruptive."

Flood control officials, in previous public statements, had said the referendum, even if it failed, could set the project back years. If voters turn down the multimillion-dollar project's extension, the part done is worthless, they said.

13-Year-Olds Stage Maryland Kidnapping

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (UPI)—A pair of 13-year-olds who escaped from a juvenile home and held an elderly woman hostage at knifepoint during a 12-hour automobile ride, were captured today and returned here to face juvenile charges.

The teen-age couple was identified as Donald Richman of Waynesboro, Va., and Susan J. Baker of Covington, Va., who at 13 may be the youngest persons ever involved in a kidnapping.

Their hostage, Mrs. Gladys Tucker, 70, was released unharmed near Covington, Va., when police forced their car off the highway after a 300-mile drive. Prince George's County, Md., police returned the couple here from Covington, a small community in western Virginia.

The pair had escaped Monday from the Edgemead Training Center here where they were being treated for severe emotional problems. The unfenced facility is located near the home of D.D. Curt Tucker, 77, and his wife, Gladys.

Mrs. Tucker, who said "I've never been through such an experience," said the two teenagers broke into their home about noon yesterday.

"The whole thing started...when they broke into our house and tied up my husband," Mrs. Tucker said. "I was shopping at the time and when I came home they tied me up and threatened both of us with knives.

"They then took all of our money and our car keys and forced us into our car. They released my husband shortly after, about four miles from our home."

Mrs. Tucker said she was driven to Covington where the Baker girl's parents reside. She said from Covington she was then driven to Roanoke, Va., and then back to Covington where the Tucker car was forced from the road.

"I jumped right out of the back seat and into the arms of an officer," Mrs. Tucker said.

Senator Silent On His Shiners

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., maintained silence today about how he sustained two black eyes over the weekend.

Proxmire showed up for work at the Capitol Monday sporting two shiners. He wore dark glasses while presiding at a Joint Economic Committee meeting.

Proxmire turned aside all queries about what happened with a terse "no comment."

Aides to the senator said they were no more successful in finding out what happened.

TV Writers Blast Network Censorship

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A poll of television writers shows most are heavily censored by nervous network executives and are required to write scripts devoid of reality, spokesmen for their union testified today.

Spokesmen for the Writers Guild of America, testifying before a Senate committee hearing on freedom of the press, said a recent poll of its 3,000 members showed 86 per cent had experienced censorship.

Eighty-one per cent, they said, "believe that television is presenting a distorted picture of what is happening in this country today —politically, economically and racially."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Subcommittee on Constitutional Rights, described the testimony "illuminating and intriguing."

David W. Rintels, chairman of the Guild's censorship committee, related dozens of instances when he said writers had been forced to kill scripts dealing with controversial material because the networks were afraid of offending viewers, sponsors, station affiliates and sometimes even the government.

"Writers by the dozens report that they have written characters who are black and have seen them changed to white," Rintels said. "They have written Jews and seen them converted to Gentiles; they have proposed shows about South African apartheid, Vietnam, old folks, mental disease, politics, business, labor, students and minorities; and they have been chased out of the studios."

Norman Lear, producer of the successful "All in the Family" television comedy, blamed the problems on "thinktank

Annapolis To Stay 'All Male' Presently

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Navy Secretary John H. Chafee announced Tuesday rejection of congressional appointments of two girls to Annapolis but said the Navy is opening its college Reserve Officer Training Corps to women.

"Maybe, somewhere down the road," Chafee said when asked whether women ever will be permitted to attend the Naval Academy. "We hope they'll go into the ROTC program instead."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Abortion Stand

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — All 50 states should allow abortions — even self-administered ones — up to the 20th week of pregnancy, the American Bar Association house of delegates said in a resolution passed Monday.

The standing vote on the statement was 200-20 in favor.

The same group rejected calling for "no-fault" divorce laws that would allow a couple to avoid legal fees by dividing up their property out of court.

The proposal to urge liberalization of divorce laws failed 170-72, but the lawyers who voted against it did not mention lost legal fees as a factor.

Seeks Membership

LONDON (UPI) — The Republic of Bangladesh has applied formally for membership of the Commonwealth, a spokesman for the Commonwealth secretariat said today.

The request, contained in a personal message from Bangladesh Premier Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, was handed to Commonwealth Secretary General Arnold Smith Monday by Rezaul Karim, acting head of the Bangladesh mission in London, the spokesman said.

He said the Commonwealth secretariat has forwarded it to all members of the international group of nations.

Sinclair Weeks Dies

CONCORD, Mass. (UPI) — Sinclair Weeks, secretary of commerce in the Eisenhower administration and a former U.S. senator, died Monday at the Rivercrest Nursing Home following a long illness. He was 78.

The son of former U.S. Senator and Secretary of War John W. Weeks, he served as commerce secretary from January, 1953 until November, 1958 when he resigned for "pressing business, personal and family considerations."

A native of Newton, Weeks graduated from Harvard in 1914 and saw military service on the Mexican border and then in France during World War I.

Since his retirement he had lived at Cat Bow Farm in Lancaster, N.H.

Film Director Walter Lang Dead

PALM SPRINGS (UPI) — Walter Lang, who directed many film musicals and shocked Nikita Khrushchev with the sight of female panties, died yesterday of a kidney ailment. He was 73.

Lang

Among his pictures were "State Fair," "Call Me Madam," "The King and I" and "Can Can" for 20th Century Fox.

He directed John Barrymore in "The Great Profile," and launched the careers of Clifton Webb and Yul Brynner.

Lang was the director of "Can Can" in the 1960s when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev was taken to see Hollywood at work. The chorus line did a French-style Can Can, flipping their skirts to expose their thighs and panties. Khrushchev thought it vulgar.

Lang was born in Memphis, and served with the Army in France in World War I.

Prisoners' Union

NEW YORK (UPI) — Because "nothing can be better for the achievement of law and order than making prisoners a part of society," the inmates at a New York State prison have formed a labor union.

The principal aims of the prisoners' union at Green Haven State Prison in Stormville, N.Y., are minimum wages for the inmates, to improve living and working conditions, and to provide better training programs to equip inmates for life in society.

A coalition of civic, political and labor leaders Monday announced formation of the Prisoners' Labor Union at Green Haven. It seeks affiliation with District 65, the Distributive Workers of America, which has 30,000 members in the New York metropolitan area.

Sadat's Trip

CAIRO (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat's recent visit to the Soviet Union has achieved "great success" and will constitute an "important turning-point" in the Arab-Israeli conflict, the semiofficial Al Ahram newspaper said today.

Sadat returned to Cairo Monday after talks in Moscow on the Middle East conflict and with President Tito in Yugoslavia. On his way back home, Sadat stopped in Damascus and Benghazi for consultations with his Syrian and Libyan allies.

Sadat's trip "has realized great success and it can be said that what the president achieved in his trip will constitute an important turning point in the course of the Middle East conflict," Al Ahram said.

Big Vote Margin

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — National congressional returns today appeared to give the ruling Liberal party of Nicaragua a sweeping 10-1 margin, which could jeopardize plans for a constitutional reform this spring.

Political leaders awaited the results of an emergency meeting held Monday night by the opposition Conservative party. Political observers speculated the conservatives might withdraw support from the important "democratization" pact signed last year by Nicaraguan President Gen. Anastasio Somoza, a Liberal, and his traditional opponent, Fernando Aguero, a Conservative.

Aid Bill Signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acting reluctantly, President Nixon has signed into law a $2.7 billion foreign aid authorization bill he described as "below minimum acceptable levels."

The bill covers the fiscal year that began seven months ago. It was passed by Congress last month to end a long and bitter congressional battle. The total was $802 million less than the administration requested and $484 million below the authorization provided in the last fiscal year.

Included in the authorization are $1.2 billion in economic aid and $1.5 billion for military assistance. The bill extends the life of the foreign aid program until June 30, 1973.

Talks Break Off

ROME (UPI) — Maltese Prime Minister Dom Mintoff broke off his talks with Britain and NATO today on the future of allied bases on Malta and said he would return home for consultations. He accused them of trying to treat Malta like a colony and of not negotiating in good faith.

The basic dispute concerned the amount of rent Mintoff has demanded for the use of allied bases there but other points included the number of Maltese to be hired by the British and a NATO demand that Malta deny bunkering facilities to the Soviet Mediterranean fleet.

Troop Pullout

CALCUTTA (UPI) — The Indian and Bangladesh governments have agreed that all remaining Indian troops be pulled out of Bangladesh by March 25, a joint communique said today.

The Communique was signed by Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and Sheikh Mjibur Rahman, prime minister of Bangladesh, at the end of their two-day meeting Monday. It was issued simultaneously today in Calcutta and Dacca, capital of Bangladesh.

Reds Ambush Convoy, Wounding American

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops firing mortars and rocket grenades ambushed an American truck convoy carrying supplies to the Central Highlands today, blowing up a fuel truck and wounding one American before they were driven off by helicopter gunships and fire from the convoy itself.

The attack was one of a dozen or more reported in the Central Highlands some 200 miles north of Saigon. Also Communist commandos tried to sneak into the Pleiku Air Base but blew themselves up when they ran into a Claymore mine 500 yards from the base. Five attackers were killed.

The attackers failed to reach the base but shortly afterward a South Vietnamese A1 Skyraiders laden with 250-pound bombs crashed on takeoff and burst into flames, forcing closure of the base. Visiting former Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky directed the rescue of the pilot from the flaming debris.

The Communist attacks were part of a string of small but significant ones staged from the borders of Cambodia and Laos through the Central Highlands to the China Sea. However, the upsurge of fighting today fell far short of anything like a general Communist offensive.

New fighting was reported in Cambodia near the Communist-occupied temples of Angkor Wat and four soldiers were killed on patrol.

The apparent ambush occurred a few hours after U.S. Ambassador Emory C. Swank visited the nearby government-held town of Siem Reap, headquarters for three government brigades operating near the temple ruins.

There has been speculation in Phnom Penh that troops loyal to deposed Prince Norodom Sihanouk, now in exile in Peking, were trying to set up a Sihanouk government there before President Nixon meets Premier Chou En-lai in Peking on Feb. 21.

New Rounds Of Violence In Ulster

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Gunmen spraying bullets from a passing car seriously wounded two off-duty British soldiers near Omagh late Monday night. Others exchanged fire today with troops in Londonderry, the army said.

The violence was resumed as Roman Catholics united in plans for a national day of disruption Wednesday with strikes, sit-ins and a mass rally expected to draw 1,000 persons in Londonderry to hear speeches by Paddy Kennedy, member of the Ulster Parliament, and Malachy M'Gurran, alleged head of the official wing of the Irish Republican Army (IRA).

Both Kennedy and M'Gurran are on the security forces' list of men wanted as security suspects.

John Hume, a member of Parliament, said the Catholic people were "fully united" in efforts to make Wednesday a massive protest day throughout the province and that a 24-hour fast would be observed in the Catholic Bogside area of Londonderry as part of the day of protest.

An army spokesman said the machine gunner wounded the two soldiers walking back to their barracks in county Tyrone from a pub in Omagh in the midnight incident.

Two bursts of machine gun fire struck one soldier in the chest and arm and the second in the stomach, the spokesman said.

An army spokesman said British soldiers in Londonderry shot two gunmen who opened fire on an observation post near the Roman Catholic Creggan Estate and in a second gunbattle on Bligh's Lane, other soldiers thought they hit three men.

Omagh, in County Tyrone, is 55 miles east of Belfast and southeast of Strabane, the site of several recent incidents.

In Londonderry, six or seven gunmen exchanged shots with British Coldstream Guards for an hour early today. The army said they thought threa of the gunmen were wounded, but all the men escaped. There were no military casualties.

Wage Curb End Tied To Inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon has pledged anew to end wage and price controls as soon as inflation is halted. He urged America's businessmen, in the meantime, to stop complaining and start working.

"I believe in economic freedom —that the best economy for America is a free market economy," the President told a gathering of industrial executives Monday night. "But faced with the choice of wage and price controls or continued inflation, I chose temporary controls to curb inflation.

"I believe in balanced budgets," he added. "But faced with the choice between budget deficits and unemployment, I chose deficits to create more jobs.

"In the long run, our goal is to remove the controls and get rid of the deficits —once we have brought about price stability and full employment. In the short run, there is going to be a lot of complaining," Nixon said.

Nixon spoke to the White House Conference on the Industrial World Ahead, a gathering called to project the nation's economy into 1990 and to make plans for industrial development in the balance of this century.

"Are you going to crawl into a shell and demand protection from world competition, or are you going to roll up your sleeves and increase productivit?" Nixon asked the delegates. "Are you going to expend your energies complaining about controls, or are you going to adopt wage and price policies that will remove the pressure of inflation and the need for controls?"

A few hours before Nixon spoke Monday, the Senate approved the nominations of two of the principal figures in the President's economic control machinery —Qay Board Chairma George H. Boldt and Price Commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson. Both have been serving since November, but a new law required that they, and any of their successors, win Senate confirmation.

There were only a few senators on the floor when the nominations were approved. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., complained that Boldt was "totally unqualified."

In another development, the American can Medical Association said that some of the nation's doctors are planning to appeal the government-imposed 2.5 per cent ceiling on fee hikes. Some doctors, it said, say that cost increases threaten to outstrip the Price Commission guideline.

How to Stop Smoking February 20 at 3:00 p.m.

On Sunday afternoon, February 20, a group of men and women will arrive — one by one — at the St. Helena Health Center. Most will not know each other. But all will have a common purpose — to stop smoking. Join this group and you will work with our team of experts (physicians, physical therapists and clinical counselors) for five days. You will learn how to overcome the physical addiction to tobacco, how to restore lost breathing capacity, how to cope with the tensions that "call for a cigarette", and how to keep your weight in line. By Friday, February 25, you should be able to return home free of nicotine and in better health than you've been for a long time. (The fresh mountain air, attractive private rooms and good food make the St. Helena experience a real rest cure.) Send the coupon now for more details, or telephone for our brochure.

If you cannot attend our February 20 session, plan to join us March 5 or 19.

KOSYGIN 'BURNS'

About 50 pickets, members of the Jewish Defense League and Ukrainian nationalist groups, chant "Kosygin burn in hell" as they watch an effigy of Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin burn during their protest against the Detroit performance of the Russian Odipov Balalaika Orchestra. The protest came on Sunday.

Crime Reporting Issue Rises Anew

The question of reporting crimes to the press, a point seemingly settled by the Mill Valley City Council Jan. 17, appeared still up in the air last night.

Councilmen agreed to discuss the release of crime information of newspapers, especially information on household burglaries, at the council's Feb. 22 meeting.

The council in January told police to release the statistical number of burglaries occurring each month but to continue the policy of withholding information under certain circumstances.

These included when a burglary victim requested it, when release would hinder an investigation or when it would prejudice a case.

Councilman Robert H. Andersen said last night the council apparently hadn't made itself clear Jan. 17 that no name or address of a burglary victim was to be released, only a statistical breakdown.

Capt. William Walsh said he believed police are obligated by law to make reports available to the press, but City Atty. Leland H. Jordan said it was his opinion the police may withhold any report.

Unlike Andresen, Mayor George E. Wickham appeared to think too few crimes were being reported. He asked a copy of the police department's monthly report, giving the total number of crimes, be made available.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

SALARIES — Decided to discuss at the Feb. 22 meeting whether to place the matter of monthly salaries for councilmen on the June 6 ballot.

PLAYGROUND — Heard an announcement that the Mill Valley Jaycees are conducting a fund drive to raise $3,000 for a children's creative play area at Boyle Park. The city parks and recreation commission will contribute another $3,000.

APPOINTMENT — Confirmed Wickham's appointment of John W. Rutherford to the city's art commission and heard Wickham nominate James B. Arbios to the parks and recreation commission.

SEWER — Approved an $18,000 contract with Yoder-Trotter-Orlog and Associates, the city's sewer consultant, to design a $200,000 improvement project for the city's sewage treatment plant aimed at easing a sewer hookup ban imposed by the Regional Water Quality Control Board.

JOSEPHINE — Approved plans and specifications and invited bids on replacing the Josephine Lane sewer line, estimated to cost $6,500.

TENNIS — Agreed to reserve the city's municipal tennis courts for residents on weekends and holidays and to begin charging $1 per hour per court for a two-month trial period starting March 15.

PARK — Agreed to limit the use of Old Mill Park to groups of 200 but said exceptions could be granted.

PORT — Agreed to let the Port, a collection of 44 shops at 391 Miller Avenue, have an occupancy permit on payment of a $5,000 bond to cover the sewer use fee required by the city, even though the city ordinarily would require a $22,000 fee. Councilmen said they would consider reducing the fee.

CLAIM — Denied a $125,000 claim by Malinda Rowe-Beddoe, owner of the Miller Avenue landslide, for damages allegedly suffered when the city removed the slide.

CODE — Appropriated $900 to pay for printing of additions to the city code approved after Jan. 1, 1970.

Party For Masten Set Wednesday

Sausalito Fire Chief Charles E. Masten will be honored at a farewell party in his honor at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Sausalito Yacht Club.

Refreshments will be served at the no-host party open to all well-wishers of the chief, according to the sponsors.

Masten, Sausalito chief for seven years, will leave the city Feb. 15 to become chief of El Monte, Los Angeles County, a city of 72,000 persons.

Miniboard May Be Abolished

A meeting with the idea of eventually eliminating the Mill Valley Human Rights Miniboard was promised last night.

The Mill Valley City Council agreed to designate a representative to meet with Gerald J. Hood, executive director of the Marin County Human Rights Commission, and the four remaining members of the miniboard. The date and place were not set.

Hood told councilmen last night he's changed his mind about the value of such miniboards since he pleaded for the life of the San Anselmo miniboard Jan. 25. The San Anselmo City Council at that meeting abolished the panel.

Hood said he had had "second thoughts" and now favors retention of the county human rights commission and creation of a 22-man advisory committee, with two representatives from each of Marin 11 cities.

The council agreed to send a representative to meet with Hood and the miniboard members to discuss his proposal.

Miller Dropping Plans To Run

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Democrat Russell R. Miller, who won 47 per cent of the 1970 vote against Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, apparently has dropped plans to run again this year.

His decision, to be announced tomorrow, would leave only two candidates for the Democratic primary election, San Francisco Supervisor Roger Boas and Alan Douglas French, a 25-year-old seeking public office for the first time.

Miller apparently also will endorse Boas, since word of his press conference came in an announcement issued by Boas's campaign headquarters.

Industry Safety Unit Blasted On Car Use

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The state Division of Industrial Safety, still burning from charges of failure to protect California workers, now has been accused of personal misuse of state-owned automobiles. "Many of the violations were committed by supervisory and administrative personnel who should be preventing such violations," said Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, chairman of the joint Legislative Audit Committee.

The San Pedro Democrat's charges came Monday after a two-volume report was submitted to the legislature.

In the first volume, the division was accused of failing to deploy enough men to protect workers, but the personal use of state-owned cars by division employes, including "inaccurate and incomplete" automobile logs, was singled out for criticism in a second report.

Auditor General William Merrifield said a "significant" number of employes have permanently assigned state cars "which are used primarily for traveling between home and office" and bridge tolls and parking fees are paid by the state "even though the employe incurs these costs in a commuting capacity."

"State cars are used sometimes on weekends and holidays for personal uses," the report said. "Rental cars are sometimes used for non-business activities."

Thomas said one division official who was paid a "relocation" allowance to move has been driving each weekend at state expense during working hours between Eureka and the division's headquarters in San Francisco.

"This has been going on for years," he said.

Charged with enforcing safety provisions of the state Labor Code, the agency has been criticized severely by a special Assembly committee established to investigate the Sylmar tunnel explosion last year in which 17 workers were killed.

It also has drawn fire from the Reagan administration itself, and the governor has ordered two separate investigations of the agency.

Its director, Jack Hatton, resigned under fire after hearings by the Select Assembly Committee on Industrial Safety.

Merrifield called the new charges "extreme violations."

He cited one administrative official who "regularly uses a state-owned car to commute to and from his home on weekends." Each round trip is 550 miles and the official spends about eight hours driving on "state time."

He also said two San Francisco division employes, each permanently assigned a state car, logged 13,500 miles in six months, while over "10,000 of these miles were driven for non-business purposes."

Miller Ave. Plans Due More Study

The first phase of a comprehensive plan to renovate Miller Avenue between Reed and Willow streets encountered stiff resistance before the Mill Valley City Council last night and was sent back to the drawing board.

The council referred the costly project, which eventually may total $160,000, back to the planning commission for further study of salvaging parking in the phase one area between Evergreen and Locust streets.

Merchants and businessmen along the five-block segment of Miller Avenue protested the plan primarily because it would eliminate parking in the thoroughfare's median strip, a loss of 55 of the 84 parking spaces.

Councilmen Edward N. Boessenecker and Robert H. Andresen questioned the project because of the parking and also the cost, which has risen from an estimated $60,000 to about $160,000.

"This project started as a way to get traffic signals at one of the most dangerous intersections in the city" but mushroomed to include landscaping and other matters, said Andresen. "Where did we go wrong?"

Several merchants and a spokesman for the city's chamber of commerce argued against eliminating the parking. The chamber's board of directors yesterday voted to ask the council to create new parking for that lost.

The council finally returned the plan to the planning commission to look into locations for replacement parking.

Councilman Jerome C. Hauke said the delay of the project will cost the city $21,000 in federal funds.

STRIKE

will end a strike which the government estimates has cost the economy nearly a billion dollars and which western agriculture and business leaders say may have caused irreparable damage to foreign trade.

It had been going on since July 1, interrupted by a Taft-Hartley injunction in October but resumed in January when the court order expired.

"I am authorized to announce that the ILWU and PMA negotiating committees have reached agreement on all economic issues," veteran arbitrator Sam Kagel, who sat in on final sessions," told newsmen.

"Certain specified non-economic issues will be mediated and if necessary, arbitrated, by Sam Kagel."

Kagel said details of the agreement will not be disclosed until "the negotiators return to work.

The negotiators bargained until 11 p.m. yesterday and showed up today at PMA headquarters, where the meetings were held, smiling broadly.

At 10:20 a.m. they held a six-minute meeting, and then broke up into committee sessions for work on specific parts of the contract.

The settlement represented what could be a historic breakthrough in labor relations on the docks and settled dozens of issues, some of them insoluble for a decade.

Among them was a jurisdictional dispute between ILWU and Teamsters Union members about handling container cargo at locations off but adjacent to the docks.

CREEK

the project's future and whether it will be appealed, Valentine hailed the decision as "a victory for the grass roots movement. It just goes to show that if the people of a small community like Ross want to take the opportunity to control their own destiny, they can."

Ross Mayor Frederick S. Allen said, "It just means another possibly year's delay to the solution of the flooding problems" and added the problem "has to be solved to stop the flooding. You can't just leave it where it is."

The town had argued that the project was not subject to referendum because the legislature delegated authority to carry out the project, but Judge Wilson said that authority had been delegated only to the flood district.

Campaign Set Thursday For New Members

Kickoff date for the 1972 membership campaign drive of the Marin County Equal Opportunity Council has been set for Thursday at a party to be held at the home of Betty Borruso, 8 San Pablo Drive, San Rafael at 8 p.m.

The party is open to the public, she said.

The council is much more dependent upon membership support this year, she said, because presidential vetos of bills funding the Office of Economic Opportunity take effect June 30.

The Marin EOC presently sponsors such programs as the Youth program, which provides jobs for youth, a tutoring program, the Neighborhood Youth Corps and health and legal services for those unbale to obtain aid through other means.

School Board Meeting Today, Not Thursday

The Larkspur School District board, which was scheduled to meet Thursday, will meet at 8 p.m. today at the district office instead.

Date of the meeting was changed because some members could not attend Thursday, according to Virginia B. Davison, the superintendent's secretary.

Among items to be discussed are support of a measure on the June statewide ballot to provide $350 million for school building, the 1971-72 audit and the dates for the 1972 summer school.

High-Speed Wreck Was Saturday

A high-speed wreck in which a Sausalito policeman was injured and his car almost demolished occurred Saturday. The Independent-Journal erred yesterday by reporting the wreck occurred yesterday.

Officer Michael Patrick was hospitalized overnight with a leg injury after his car hit a pole while chasing a speeding Corvette through Sausalito.

Plays For Festival Announced

"Twelfth Night" and either "Hamlet" or "Romeo and Juliet" will be among the offerings for the 1972 Marin Shakespeare Festival season, it was announced last night.

John Brebner, festival creative director, told the festival board of directors the season would run from July 2 to Sept. 3 at Forest Meadows Theater, opposite Dominican College, San Rafael.

A children's production, "The Wizard of Oz," also has been scheduled, the board was told.

In other business the board set May 6 for the second annual Fortune Faire, a festival fundraising event, and to mark William Shakespeare's birthday. The event is tentatively scheduled for 2 p.m. at the Forest Meadows site.

Report On Ridge Lands Tonight

A report on negotiations to gain a measure of control over valuable ridge property in Marin City from a New York development firm will be presented at a joint meeting of the Marin County Housing Authority and Redevelopment Agency boards tonight.

The negotiations, held Jan. 27 and 28, resulted in an agreement with California Development Co. and Marin City residents that the community would share in the planning of and profits from development of 167 ridgeland acres into housing.

The redevelopment agency board, meeting alone, also will hold its annual election of officers. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in the planning department at the Marin County Civic Center.

Teacher Firings To Be Reviewed

Acting on a request by the Sausalito District Teachers Association, the newly revamped Sausalito School District Board agreed last night to review dismissal cases against three teachers — James Pockrus, James T. Toliver Jr. and Clifford Munger.

Trustees set a closed session for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the district office, according to Supt. Lawrence A. Lindberg, to review the firings and other pending litigation.

The teachers group voted last week to ask the board to drop all charges against the teachers, fired last year by the former school board. They are currently appealing their dismissals in Marin Superior Court.

Alioto Will Seek Mistrial On Fees

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Mayor Joseph Alioto said Monday he will ask for a mistrial in his $2.3 million feesplitting case because the trial judge died.

Alioto is being sued by the state of Washington and 12 Washington public utility districts for recovery of $2.3 million in attorney's fees he was paid while representing them in an antitrust suit in the early 1960s.

The plaintiffs charge that Alioto shared his fees with former Washington Attorney General John J. O'Connell and one of his aides, George K. Faler, without informing them.

Faler has already filed a brief with the Washington State Supreme Court asking for a mistrial because Judge Donald L. Gaines died after 19 weeks of trial testimony.

Salesman Held In Forcing Buyers

William Holland Newton, 19, of the Fountain Motel, Mill Valley, was arrested in Petaluma Saturday on suspicion of robbery by forcing women to buy magazine subscriptions.

Newton was booked into Sonoma County Jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court. Police said several women complained that Newton forced his way into their homes and coerced them into buying magazines. Several housewives said he refused to leave their homes until making a sale while another said he held onto her arm until a check was written.

Record In '71

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)— Nevada casinos won a record $633 million in 1971, a 10.2 per cent increase over the previous year, according to the state Gaming Control Board.

mentality" in both broadcasting and government.

"Somewhere, some time ago, someone coined the fict on that the mentality of the American motion picture patron averages between 12 and 13 years of age," Lear said. "And in the think-tanks of American business, not just in the mass media area, but in all of American business, this fiction has been accepted as truth and this 'truth' has been extended to the American public as a whole...

"American thinktank leadership is out of touch with the American people. My personal feeling is that this is also true in government, in business and commerce, as well as in the mass media," he said.

Lear told how "All In The Family" twice was rejected by ABC and once each by CBS and NBC because network chiefs were worried that its frank treatment of race, religion, sex and ethnic origins might offend viewers, sponsors and station affiliates.

CBS finally agreed to air the show in January 1971 — but Lear said the network battled unsuccessfully almost until air time to get him to trim segments involving "explicit sex" from the premier episode. The show was an instant hit and still is running weekly.

One indication "of how out of touch this thinktank leadership is with the needs and desires of the American people," he said, was that CBS hired extra switchboard operators at its major affiliates to handle an expected avalanche of irate calls the night the show was first aired.

Another witness, Time-Life Board Chairman Andrew Heiskell, spoke of another kind of censorship —government making it too expensive for magazines to stay in business.

He said the proposed 142 per cent hike in second-class postage rates over the next five years threatens the magazine publishing industry with disaster.

He said Look, which quit publishing last month, folded in part "because they saw no hope of economic survival in the face of such an enormous increase in postal rates" and hinted more magazines may follow.

The extra postage will cost his magazines alone an extra $27 million, Heiskell said, and the industry as a whole $130 million more by 1976.

Harbor Seeks Permit To Dig And Dispose

The Sausalito Yacht Harbor has applied for a Department of the Army permit to dredge approximately 75,000 cubic yards of material from the harbor and to dispose of it at an approved site south of Alcatraz Island.

Interested parties may submit in writing, in triplicate, any objections they have to the proposed work with notices reaching the Corps of Engineers no later than March 4.

The San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission has issued a permit for the work, and the State Water Resources Control Board has certified there is reasonable assurance that the dredging would be conducted in a manner not violating applicable water quality standards.

Court Districts To Consolidate

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday approved consolidation of all municipal court districts, but said court proceedings will remain in Petaluma.

City officials and attorneys had feared that merging the Southern Sonoma Municipal Court District with the central district would remove court cases from Petaluma to Santa Rosa.

The supervisors said the merger would be only administrative, in order to improve record-keeping, and that Safeguards will be written into legislation to assure that civil and criminal proceedings will remain in the Petaluma courtroom.

Roth Will Head Giacomini's Drive

Hadden W. Roth, San Rafael attorney and former Marin County Municipal Court judge, has been named campaign chairman for Gary Giacomini, candidate for supervisor from the fourth district.

Roth, 42, lives in Woodacre. He was judge of Marin County Municipal Court from 1966 to 1971 and is presently a partner in the law firm of Goldstein and Roth. He has served as vice-president of Marin General Hospital board and has served on the California Council of Criminal Justice.

Commuter Timetables To Change

New timetables for the Golden Gate Bridge District's commuter bus system have been scheduled to start On Feb. 20.

Distribution of the new timetables should start next Monday, reported bus transit manager H. Donald White.

The changeover had been expected this week, but was postponed to incorporate additional changes.

The timetables will be distributed aboard district buses and through banks, chambers of commerce, city and county offices, bus ticket agencies, and at bridge district offices — at the toll plaza and at the bus base at 517 Jacoby Street, San Rafael.

closed down," but declined to identify the "elements."

"This is a political struggle by those who are jealous of Robert Lomax and the job he has done," he said.

The two men also disputed a report presented to the EOC board last week by a board committee assigned to evaluate the agency's various programs. The report, among other things, charged that staff morale is poor.

Rust and Nielsen declared that "morale is good," perhaps better than it has ever been.

They criticized the I-J report of the committee's charges and the board meeting, calling the story "an inflammatory and biased article, full of comments taken out of context."

Mrs. Wilson said the I-J had failed to report that the poverty board has refused to accept the portion of the committee's report dealing with staff morale and had sent it back to the committee for clarification.

"We asked the committee for the basis of its contention, which we felt were nebulous and they were unable to document the charges," Mrs. Wilson said to explain the board action.

Tobacco Tax Is Distributed

Cities in Marin and Southern Sonoma and the two counties themselves Received $75,845 as their share of the January distribution of the cigarette tax.

Marin County received $5,410 as its share, and Sonoma County received $21,873.

Cities in Marin County and the amounts they received are: Belvedere, $425; Larkspur, $2,-164; Ross, $429; Sausalito, $2,-682; Corte Madera, $3,301; Mill Valley, $3,103; San Anselmo, $2,803; Tiburon, $1,467; Fairfax, $1,471; Novato, $6,739 and San Rafael, $15,271.

Cities in Southern Sonoma and the amounts they received are: Petaluma, $6,795; Cotati, $423, and Rohnert Park, $1,483.

Guilty Plea To 'Cycle Stealing

Daniel H. Rama, 18, of Black Point, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of stealing a motorcycle from a home in Black Point on Dec. 17.

He is to be sentenced next Monday.

Rama was arrested after being stopped for a traffic violation by the California Highway Patrol. He was riding a bike stolen earlier from a residence on Crest Road.

Guest Speaker For Quentin Task Force

Allan Moore of the Crittenden Correctional Center in Oakland will be guest speaker at tomorrow night's meeting of the Marin County Task Force on San Quentin and Prison Remorm, to be held at 8 p.m. at the Marin County Public Library, 707 Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera.

Moore, administrator at the center, will speak on vocational training and placement at the meeting which is open to the public.

Housing Element Review Slated

The Corte Madera citizens' committee which drafted the proposed housing element to the town's general plan has called a meeting for 7:30 p.m. today to review the plan.

The statement on housing goals, now being reviewed by the town planning commission, will again be considered by the commission Feb. 14 and the citizens' group wanted to consider changes before then, according to Elizabeth Long, planning commission secretary.

NIXON

the Army, which holds the forts, and the Department of the Interior, which would manage the recreational area, have been negotiating property exchanges.

The future of the Presidio has been a stumbling block in the park's creation. At a hearing conducted by the House interior panel in San Francisco last August, speakers from San Francisco, endorsing the Burton and Cranston proposals to turn over to the Interior Department at once about 550 of the Presidio's 1,558 acres, expressed fears over Army development plans at the facility.

While proposing to deed Baker Beach and Crissy Field to the Interior Department, the Nixon plan would prevent new construction on Presidio lands left with the Army, other than developments already approved.

The Army planned future housing developments for the Presidio, although it had said the units could be built at Fort Baker.

Details were unavailable immediately on how the Nixon plan treats transportation problems cited by Marin officials. A proposal to construct a parkway along the Marin headlands to West Marin has drawn criticism from conservationists, and the Marin County Board of Supervisors has asked Congress to study the issue.

The board of supervisors is on record in favor of the Burton bill.

Two Engineers Decorated For Asia Action

Two flight engineers with the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron, Hamilton Air Force Base, were decorated recently for action in Southeast Asia.

S/Sgt. G. B. Warren received the Distinguished Flying Cross for a mission in Vietnam in November, 1969. His assessment of damage to his aircraft by enemy rockets and monitored aircraft systems for malfunction, prevented a crash, the Air Force said.

M/Sgt. Ronald Anderson received the Air Force Commendation Medal for service with the 53rd Weather Reconnaisance Squadron, including 14 missions into hurricanes.

12-Month School Report Due Tonight

A progress report on the possibility of extending the school year to 12 months will be heard at the Petaluma Board of Education meeting at 8 p.m. today at Petaluma Junior High School.

Dr. Dan E. Montgomery will report on his studies on the feasibility of expanding the school calendar to maker better use of school facilities.

OBITUARIES

ALBERT ROERDEN

Albert J. Roerden, 89, retired ranch worker, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a lengthy illness.

Roerden was a native of Chicago and had lived in Petaluma for 59 years. He had been employed at ranches in Petaluma, Tomales and Two Rock.

Funeral will be at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Private burial will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

C. T. NUNAN

Funeral was held yesterday in San Francisco for Carl T. Nunan, retired publicist for Whitney's playland enterprises at San Francisco's ocean beach. Burial was private.

Survivors included a son, James Nunan, of San Rafael, and a sister, Amy Clerc of San Anselmo.

Nunan, a resident of San Francisco for 79 of his 80 years, died Saturday at a San Francisco convalescent hospital following a long illness.

He was a native of Connecticut, but came to California as an infant. He worked for Whitney's for 25 years. He was a veteran of World War I and a member of Educator Lodge 554 of the Free and Accepted Masons, San Francisco, and Floyd Bennett Aviation Post of the American Legion, San Francisco.

Nunan also is survived by his wife, Eleanor V. Nunan and another son, Ronald Nunan, both of San Francisco; a brother, James Nunan of Brookdale, Santa Cruz County; another sister, Clarita Robinson of Palo Alto, and three grandchildren.

RUTH GUYETTE

Funeral for Ruth Frances Guyette, retired nurse's aide at Ross General Hospital, was held today in San Francisco. Inurnment was at Chapel of the Chimes in Piedmont.

Mrs. Guyette, 78, of Kentfield, died Saturday at a San Francisco hospital following a short illness.

She was a native of San Francisco, but moved after the 1906 earthquake and fire to Berkeley where she lived until moving to Marin County in 1930.

Her husband, Bruce E. Guyette, died about 25 years ago.

Mrs. Guyette began working as a nurse's aide in the late 1930s at Ross Sanitarium, predecessor of the general hospital. Except for service at Fort Baker during World War II, she remained at the Ross facility until her retirement in 1964.

She is survived by a sister, Edith Hewer of Kelowna, British Columbia.

MRS. MAFFIA

Mary D. Maffia, 79, a Petaluma resident for 56 years, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Maffia was born and reared in Italy. She and her late husband, Peter, moved to Southern Sonoma in 1915 where they operated dairy ranches until his death in 1955.

Mrs. Maffia was a member of the Italian-Catholic Federation, Cotati Branch 150.

She is survived by three sons, John Maffia of Cotati, George Maffia of Forestville and Pat Maffia of Tulare; six daughters, Katie Fomasi of Cotati, Minnie Corda, Martha Caletti and Alice Cristani of Petaluma, Elsie Hansen of Santa Rosa and Genny Mazzetta of Nicasio; 27 grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Requiem Mass will be offered at 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Joseph's Church, Cotati. Burial will be at Sebastopol Cemetery. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m.tomorrow at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

Masten To Give Service Status

A report by Sausalito Fire Chief Charles E. Masten on the state of the city's fire service will be presented to the Sausalito City Council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

At the request of the council, Masten will also discuss a proposal to consolidate fire departments in Southern Marin. Masten has resigned for a similar job in Southern California.

The council will also complete its study of proposed regulations for the city's central waterfront and resident commercial zoning districts and consider across-the-board salary increases for the city's 75 employees. City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr said a 5 per cent increase will be recommended.

A NEW 'FACE' FOR PHYLLIS

Comedienne Phyllis Diller has a new look. Miss Diller is shown (left) prior to receiving a face lift. When asked recently by a group of students in Los Angeles how it feels to be a sex symbol, she replied, "It's heaven." She said she had the $4,000 plastic surgery operation because of the shock of seeing herself on television. (UPI Telephotos)

2 Councilmen 'Out To Get Me,' Orr Says

By LARRY MOWELL

Amid concern that failing health may unseat one member of the Fairfax Board of Review, fired Fairfax police Chief James R. Orr testified last night that he was told two city councilmen were "out to get him."

In comment that ranged from the political climate prior to his ouster to the details of charges against him, Orr said he was taken aback by some of the testimony, said he gave up drinking after a pancreatitus attack more than a year ago, and explained he had used proper discretion in police cases he is accused of mishandling.

Orr told the board, which is considering whether his firing was justified, that Bernard Del Santo of the San Anselmo police and a Fairfax resident "told me he had heard Mr. Sousa and Mr. Nelder were out to get my job" after the 1970 election.

Councilmen Lee Nelder and Robert R. Sousa sat impassively during Orr's testimony. Joined by Mayor Cornelis van Vliet, they ratified the firing by City Administrator Robert E. Crowe four months ago.

Orr's third long session on the stand at the Fairfax Women's Club was delayed 20 minutes while the board huddled to discuss what to do if the health of former chairman Frank L. Lawrence worsens, thus forcing him off the board. He stepped down as chairman for health reasons before the exhaustive hearing began 20 installments ago in November.

"Mr. Lawrence's health is not the best," board chairman Freeman Blake said. "He has been to the hospital recently. He has a diabetic condition and his doctor tells him he should not be here. He should be in bed."

Lawrence, however, elected to continue and another session was set for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, the day after the 69-year-old former mayor visits his doctor for a fresh checkup.

The board put off deciding its course should Lawrence drop out until after attorneys for both sides offer opinions.

The attorneys differed sharply on another issue: whether testimony about the political motivations of Sousa and Nelder should be introduced. But the board voted to allow the questioning by Orr's attorney, Leonard Shaw. Lawrence and Alfred J. Daubenfeld dissented.

"If you want to go into things like that, there will be a parade of witnesses until June," the city's attorney, Wallace S. Myers, stormed to no avail. (He later said he will call only one more witness, van Vliet).

In response to Shaw's questions about Nelder, Orr said he had disagreements with the former San Francisco policeman and brother of that city's retired chief. "I guess that was natural," he said.

"r. Nelder was not satisfied with the — call them what you will — hippies, the people that don't conform, congregating on the street," Orr said.

Nelder, according to Orr, wanted them arrested "without regard for the judiciary" so that after posting bail a few times, they would get the message to stop loitering.

Orr said he replied that that method which may have worked in San Francisco, wouldn't work in Fairfax. "I told him, number one, the district attorney's office wouldn't put up with it for a minute. Number two, neither would I."

Myers, who had called Orr as a hostile witness, was told by the ousted chief that he had had no problems with either when Del Santo told him of their opposition.

He didn't recall how seriously he had taken the hearsay threat to his job.

During the three hours of testimony Orr was first questioned by his attorney, then matter-of-factly fielded the rapid fire questions of Myers, whose practice of cutting off Orr's answers drew repeated objections from Shaw.

Shaw asked his client if he had ever gone on duty drunk during his nine-year tenure and Orr replied that he hadn't. Furthermore, Orr said that in the past 18 months since his doctor told him not to drink he had only a couple of drinks to celebrate his daughter's high school graduation.

Responding to questions from Daubenfeld, Orr said he was surprised by the testimony of Sgt. Paul Simpson and Officer Michael Moriarity about low morale. "I really was not aware that the morale problem was what it was. I was quite taken aback by it."

He said he was also amazed by the department's resentment of Marsha S. Kittelman. "As a matter of fact, I've heard them brag to other officers who came to the station about her narcotics work," he said.

Among the charges against Orr are that he had improper social relations with the clerk matron, that he made her a policewoman without authority and that he showed favoritism toward her.

He criticized Crowe for not discussing with him the information gleaned from interviews with officers in a department head meeting before initiating the firing.

In other testimony, Orr said orders were sometimes given outside the chain of command because of a shortage of sergeants corrected just before he was fired, and defended his efforts at education. "I took just about any course that was availablz that I could use at the deparTment," Orr said. He ticked off a list of courses for Myers.

He also said officers were allowed to use their discretion in voiding citations, discretion he himself used in not reporting two violations of liquor laws to the appropriate authority. He is charged with not reporting the violations and allowing tickets to be voided without reason.

He also accused some of his night staff of being "paranoid" about leaving the station's back door unlocked. Orr said it should be unlocked for citizens in distress; his subordinates thought the unlocked door dangerous.

He also denied kicking down a gate inside the police station.

Under Myers's questioning, Orr admitted he had no way of knowing whether hIs men qualified with their pistols and said he himself had gone to the firing range only four or five times in three years.

Orr also is charged with failure to provide adequate training and procedure for the Fairfax police, allowing reports to be filed late, and threatening officers and cadets.

After Myers finishes his case Thursday, Shaw will start on a list of 12 prospective witnesses including Councilman Frank J. O'Connell, former councilmen Adelaide P. Wilson and George Pagni, Del Santo, former city administrator David Sumbardo, Allen Kittelman and various narcotics agents.

Petaluma Hits Coastal Council

The proposed North Coast Planning and Development Commission drew criticism last night from the Petaluma City Council because of financial inequities and lack of representation.

The new district proposed by Sonoma Supervisor Henry Spomer would join Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte counties in regional planning. As in the case of the Association of Bay Area Governments, the north coast group would process state and federal grant applications for member cities and counties.

Under the plan, each county would have two representatives on the commission. One would be a member of the board of supervisors and the other would represent the cities.

A majority of the city council said cities should have a stronger voice on the commission. On the other hand, several councilmen said Sonoma County should be allotted more representatives since it will be paying half the cost. Money paid by each county would be based on assessed valuation with the counties levying a tax of not more than one cent per $100 assessed valuation.

Petaluma City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer suggested the council propose an alternative plan for a regional grouping of eight counties based on the Redwood Division of the League of California Cities. If that were adopted, Marin, Solano and Napa counties would be included.

Sonoma Supervisor Philip L. Joerger said the new commission was proposed as a means of stalling regional government. A bill creating a similar district was approved by the Legislature last year, but was vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Petaluma Planning River Dredge Action

The Petaluma City Council last night vowed to bring pressure on the Army Corps of Engineers to dredge the Petaluma River this spring.

City Engineer David A. Young said dredging appeared unlikely since the corps has said it cannot dredge except from May until August. In agreements with property owners for spoils sites, the city agreed to have dredging completed by May to reduce salt damage to the land.

Young said the corps had enough time to arrange the dredging, but had not done so and now has a scheduling problem. He said the council could arrange for anothr spoils site, but that costs for additional dike work would be $23,000 and that wildlife habitat on marshland would be endangered.

The council said it would visit the corps headquarters in San Francisco to try to speed up the project and would also ask Rep. Donald H. Clausen, R-First District, to bring pressure on the corps headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Heavy siltation along the river and in the Petaluma turning basin has prevented large craft from docking in the harbor and halted traditional visits by Bay Area yacht clubs.

The Petaluma City Council also:

CARS — Awarded the contract for purchase of five police cars to Jim Rose Chrysler-Plymouth at the low bid of $15,879 with two cars traded in. The other three cars will be used by the police department, public works and fire department.

ZONING — Introduced amendments to the zoning ordinance creating a planned unit development district and a planned community development district. A public hearing on the changes will be held Feb. 21 at 7:30 p.m.

STREET — Changed the names of Bridge Street, Hopper Street, Hopper Street extension, Wilson Street and a porlion of Lakeville Highway to Lakeville Street to avoid confusion.

Large Animal Law On Agenda

A proposed ordinance regulating the keeping of large animals in San Anselmo will be discussed again when the San Anselmo Planning Commission meets at 8 p.m. today at city hall.

The ordinance has been under discussion by the commission for several months and was questioned last month by City Atty. John G. Buresh who said it might not be enforceable.

Minor wording changes in the city's zoning ordinance and four requests for variances also will be considered by the commission tonight.

Wife Of Welby Assistant Has A Baby Boy

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—"Dr. Marcus Welby" was in London and his associate, "Dr. Kiley," said he was too nervous, so neither was in attendance Monday when Mrs. Jane Brolin gave birth to a 6-pound, 12-ounce baby boy.

The baby was born in St. John's Hospital, which is used occasionally in filming the television series, "Marcus Welby, M.D." Mrs. Brolin's husband, James, plays the role of Kiley in the series.

A name has not been selected for the boy, the couple's second child.

Robert Young, who plays Welby in the series, was in London and apparently unaware of the event, said a spokesman for Universal Studios, producers of the series.

Annexation Request On Agenda

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission, meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Civic Center, will consider the proposed annexation to San Rafael of a 12-acre computer center site in Terra Linda.

The annexation, requested by the Firemen's Fund Insurance Co., has brought protests from the Marinwood and Terra Linda community services districts.

The Terra Linda district has protested, saying the annexation would mean a loss of about $4,600 in tax revenues.

Marinwood claims the property is the last link between it and Terra Linda and annexation would bar any possibility of consolidating the two communities.

The insurance firms argues the property, located on the southeast corner of Highway 101 and Lucas Valley Road, must be annexed to San Rafael in order to get proper fire protection.

New Lobbyist Group Opens Capital Office

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Western Center on Law and Poverty, the legal group that brought the suit leading to the landmark state Supreme Court decision that California's school finance system is unconstitutional, has opened a legislative lobbying office.

Executive director Terry J. Hatter said Monday the organization hopes to influence legislation affecting the poor, citing the restructuring of school finance as an example.

In addition to school finance issues, Hatter said the center will be particularly interested in laws on wage attachments and will lobby on the "at least 400" measures introduced each year "which affect the daily lives of the state's low income urban residents."

Box Produces Dynamite Haul

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Richard Hulbert, 45, a painter at the Mare Island Naval Shipyard, cleaned out his basement and made a discovery that caused him consternation.

Hulbert Sunday came upon a box marked "Trojan Explosive Company." Puzzled, he did not open it and called police.

Police Sgt. Donald Goad, a bomb squad member, checked the box and found 100 halfpound sticks of dynamite. He called Army demolition experts who took the box to The Presidio Army base.

The Army said the box was destroyed.

Goad said the box had apparently been in Hulbert's basement for three years.

FINALLY HALTED — An arrow points to the bullet holes in the back window of a 1972 Cadillac, driven by Curtis Lee Latta of Detroit, which finally was halted after chasing a Boeing 747 jet along a runway at Detroit Metropolitan Airport and leading sheriff's deputies on a 45-minute high speed race. The chase ended in a nearby field yesterday after deputies shot out all four tires on the car and captured the driver.

Shots Finally End Driver's Spree

DETROIT (UPI)—The driver of a 1972 Cadillac, for unknown reasons, took off down a runway Monday in his car, chasing after a 747 jetliner at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport.

But that was only the beginning, at which time, The pilot of the United Air Lines flight 147 radioed to airport controllers:

"I'm being followed by A car. Help me."

Two fire vehicles and an unmarked Wayne County Sheriff's car gave chase, then, several more sheriff's cars joined in pursuit of the car with the driver and his two passengers.

Before the driver, Curtis Lee Latta of Detroit, was in custody, he had led police on a 45-minute, high-speed chase. Despite repeated gunfire by pursuing deputies, he smashed into seven vehicles, tried twice to run down a deputy sheriff and surrendered only after a fight in a pasture near the airport where deputies had shot out all four tires of his car.

Detective Alex Robinson of the Wayne County road patrol said a warrant would be sought today against Latta for felonious assault with a motor vehicle.

Robinson said further charges may be filed after federal authorities are checked for any other criminal violations Latta might have.

The airliner took off only after Latta was subdued, authorities said.

Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas said, "we have no idea why he chased that jet." He said Latta was "higher than a kite on drugs or alcohol" when he finally was arrested.

"I tried to pull him over and he rammed me," said Deputy Sheriff James Baughman, who was driving the unmarked car.

"Then I got out of my car, and he tried to run me over," Baughman said.

He then jumped back in his car and with two fire vehicles pursued the Cadillac onto a highway leading out of the airport.

Near the edge of the airport, Baughman said, he nudged the car off the road and got out again to make the arrest.

Again, he said, the Cadillac came at him.

Wayne County deputies shot out all four tires on the Cadillac in the following chase. The car stopped and Latta allegedly jumped out and ran to a field where he was subdued by several officers.

The two unidentified passengers were also arrested but charges are still pending, police said.

McGovern Accuses Nixon Aide Of Attacking 'My Patrotism'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sen. George S. McGovern, fueling an angry debate over President Nixon's efforts to end the Indochina war, has accused a presidential aide of attacking "my patriotism" by suggesting that democratic candidates "consciously" were aiding the enemies of the United States.

The South Dakota senator was joined Monday by Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York and Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield in replying to H. R. Haldeman, the White House aide who often is referred to as Nixon's "chief of staff."

In a television appearance, Haldeman said he believed some Democrats were "putting partisanship above peace."

"Partisan critics are consciously aiding and abetting the enemies of the United States," Haldeman said.

McGovern, the first Democrat to enter the race for the presidential nomination, replied with a peace plan of his own. He said Nixon should cut off all aid to South Vietnam by May 1, withdraw recognition of Nguyen Van Thieu as its legitimate president, remove all U.S. troops from Indochina, and end American air strikes. He said these steps would meet Hanoi's demands for the release of American prisoners of war.

"It's an outrage for the likes of Haldeman, whose experience in foreign policy is limited to a few years in the advertising business, to attack my patriotism," McGovern said. "I resent it."

Lindsay said Haldeman's statement was "entirely inconsistent with what this country stands for."

"If democracy can't survive that kind of difference of opinion, then there is something wrong with democracy," Lindsay said.

Haldeman mentioned no names in his remarks but left no doubt he was talking about some Democratic candidates, including McGovern and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine. Later, the White House said Haldeman was expressing strictly his personal views.

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said he could not accept the suggestion that Haldeman was expressing only his opinion. He said Haldeman either should name those he accused and document his charges or retract the statement and issue a public apology.

Mansfield implied that Haldeman was attempting to muzzle Nixon's opposition and said, "the First Amendment still stands and freedom of speech is allowed."

Republican National Chairman Robert Dole said in a letter to newspaper editors that a speech Muskie made last week criticizing Nixon's peace efforts "might well have the effect of prolonging this unhappy war."

In other political developments:

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., charged the administration with "playing election year politics with the American farmer" and urged Nixon to release $75 million in Farmers Home Administration loan money the administration has frozen.

The Civil Service Commission in Washington ordered a four-month suspension of a top Alabama's Air National Guardsman, Maj. Gen. George R. Doster, for soliciting campaign contributions. The CSC said $1,700 that Doster raised went to Gov. George C. Wallace.

Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., the first black woman to run for President, told a student audience t Raleigh, N.C., that she expects a voice in selecting the Democratic nominee even if she fails to win the nomination herself.

Adventurer's Rowboat Goal Now In Sight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—British adventurer John Fairfax and his girlfriend Sylvia Cooke are nearing the end of their attempt to row across the Pacific to Australia, radio reports disclosed Monday.

Fairfax, 33, told a friend here in a radio interview that he expected to land at Brisbane in two months. He and Miss Cooke set out from here 10 months ago in the 35-foot Britannia II.

He said he was on a 2,000-mile course out of Tarawa, capital of a cluster of mid-Pacific coral islands.

He also said his boat ran into trouble on a Tarawa coral reef a month ago. It was dashed on the reef breeching the hull in 10 places, he said.

"Sylvia jumped into the sea and the next barrier carried her over the reef into the lagoon behind," he said. "She was able to touch the bottom and she half-walked, half-swam ashore.

SOLID AMERICAN THINKING:

GREMLIN

The best of American thinking has always been practical. Like our Gremlin. It's just what this country has always needed. It's small where you want it to be. With a longer wheelbase and wider track that still can turn inside a VW Beetle.

And, Gremlin is big where you'd like it to be.

With a solid 232 cubic inch standard six-cylinder engine that out-powers the four-cylinder engine of other small cars. Like Datsun, Toyota, Pinto and Vega.

And with a 21 gallon gas tank that's almost twice the capacity of just about every other small car, you can go up to 480 miles on a single tankful. Drive one. At $1999*, our Gremlin, backed by the American Motors Buyer Protection Plan, is a very Solid American buy.

*Manufacturer's suggested retail price, state and local taxes excluded. White walls $34.35, California destination charges $99, and other options extra.

OUR PROMISE:

When you buy a new 1972 car from an American Motors dealer, American Motors Corporation guarantees to you that, except for tires, it will pay for the repair or replacement of any part it supplies that is defective in material or workmanship.
This guarantee is good for 12 months from the date the car is first used or 12,000 miles, whichever comes first.
All we require is that the car be properly maintained and cared for, under normal use and service in the fifty United States or Canada and that guaranteed repairs or replacements be made by an American Motors dealer.

UBAC Fund Cuts Pose A Dilemma

By MARC NURRE

Some social service agencies in Marin which depend on money from the United Bay Area Crusade have had to either make cutbacks in existing or proposed services or distribute the load on decreased staffs.

A representative sampling by the Independent-Journal of UBAC member agencies in Marin, following an overall 12 per cent cut in funds by UBAC this year, showed that many were affected adversely by the cut.

Faced with the possibility of an even larger trimming when next year's UBAC budget is announced, many of the Marin agencies are looking for sources of additional funds.

"It means serious funding problems for this agency," said Chester F. Villalba, director of the Family Service Agency in Marin.

"It probably will sting, yes," agreed J. Lawrence Norton, president of Marin Aid to Retarded Children.

"We have had to postpone the full implementation of one program which we had proposed to UBAC for adoption this year," said James Looney, executive director of the Young Men's Christian Association in San Rafael.

He said the "Y" had planned a project to be called "Outreach," wherein a worker was to spend much of his time on the streets with youths, determining how existing social services could help them with their problems.

The person developing this program was to have gone to full-time status, but cannot because of the UBAC budget cuts, Looney said.

Mrs. Dorothy Leake, director of the Mental Health Association of Marin, said that the cuts would mean that her agency would be unable to replace a departing staff worker.

Although much of her organization's work is done by volunteers, "one staff person's time means a lot," she said.

Two thirds of the association's budget comes from UBAC funds.

"It means we have to decrease the family counseling as well as the child therapy that we were doing," said Villalba.

"We have to terminate a psychiatric social worker, really decreasing the number of people we can see," he said. A psychiatric social worker, Villalba estimated, provides services to aboue 25 families or clients per month.

The many agencies which rely largely on UBAC financing had similar complaints. Others acknowledged that they would feel a pinch, but said it would mean no curtailment in services offered.

Still others said they did not know what the effect would be and would not until crusade directors announce the budget for the coming year in late April.

Norton, of Marin Aid to Retarded Children, said that last year, UBAC money represented $6,000 of his agency's $42,000 budget.

"In the short term, (services) will not be affected because we want to honor all our commitments. But in the long run, we can't predict what will happen," Norton said.

He said hqs agency recently received a $30,000 grant from a San Francisco charitable foundation which would help it considerably. He added, however, that UBAC should have provided more advance notice of the cuts to member agencies so those agencies could have an easier time of it.

"In one sense," Norton said, "the effect has been beneficial." It has forced us to examine our own priorities — what were the important things we were doing and wanted to continue to do and how could we raise funds to do what we felt was necessary."

Many agencies affected by the current cut or which are concerned by the chance of a continued drop in UBAC revenue are making plans to look for money elsewhere.

"We're just going to go out and raise the money," said William H. Sherwood, Boy Scout executive in Marin County. "It means we have to raise our sustaining membership enrollment. We normally raise about 43 per cent of the budget through sustaining memberships," he said.

Last year, sustaining memberships amounted to $48,000 and Sherwood figures the scouts need to raise $62,000 on their own this year to be in good financial shape.

The methods which can be used by a UBAC member to raise additional money are controlled by an agreement with UBAC, since one of the aims when crusade agencies were formed was to stop repetitious soliciting.

Some UBAC member agencies may feel a squeeze after the crusade's April budget meeting for a reason other than the drop in donations. UBAC is putting into effect its "New Directions" program aimed at meeting the needs of the urban poor.

What it amounts to, according to James P. Mergens, executive vice president of UBAC, is that the agency will take money "off the top" and distribute it to help disadvantaged young persons in a variety of ways.

The money will be used for such things as programs to combat drug abuse, to provide day care centers for working mothers, some forms of health services and some types of "neighborhood services".

The drive for next season will probably begin in mid-September.

Battered Angel Island Yacht Moorings Due For Upgrading

Yacht-mooring facilities at Angel Island, until now in a continuing state of disrepair, are due for partial upgrading and more money is being sought to do the job completely, according to state park officials on the isalnd.

Floating moorings in Ayalya Cove have been breaking off from their chains, and finger slips — dock-type moorings which rise and fall with the tide on pilings — are gradually submerging because the structure of the slips is wood and has rotted, according to Kenneth J. Huddleston, chief ranger for the State Park Service.

Of 40 places for yachts to tie up to floating buoys, four buoys have broken free, he said. The moorings, only two years old, break because seaweed becomes tangled in a swivel which hooks the buoy to its chain and sea action snaps the swivel. The chains sink and cannot be recovered without a diver, according to Huddleston.

Rather than service the buoys, he said, they will be replaced by new ones of a different design.

"When the new buoys are installed, they will be graduated by size. Nearer the shore will be for smaller boats and larger boats will tie up outside," Huddleston said. Boats from 20 to 100 feet in length will be provided for, he added.

Of about 20 spaces in finger slips, only 12 are now left, he said. The slips were put in aobut 20 years ago and the main supports "have rotted to the point where they can't hold any more nails or bolts."

Huddleston said the California Department of Navigation and Ocean Development has asked the state for money to fix the finger slips on the island. About $22,000 has been budgeted to fix the floats.

"The people who are concerned about boating around the island might do us and themselves some good by writing to the department and urging them to get mooring slips around the island," he said. Officials do not yet know what it will cost to fix the slips.

An additional difficulty with the deterioration of the finger slips is that they are the only place where a small boat from a yacht moored out in the cove can land on the island.

"There's no place to land even a rowboat except at the finger slips which gives you access to the island," Huddleston said.

He said an average of 65,000 persons per year use the island, but about 75 per cent of them are brought to the island by ferryboat. Ferryboat service is not affected by the conditions of the mooring slips and buoys, Huddleston said.

One-Year Pot Case Term 'A Good Deal,' Judge Says

A Mill Valley man sentenced yesterday in Marin Superior Court in connection with importing a half ton of marijuana "ought to have enough change left" from the transaction to pay a $2,500 fine, a judge ruled.

In addition to the fine, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner sent Michael Gene Ludwig, 29, to jail for one year and placed him on probation for five years.

The one-year jail term had been agreed to by another judge during a plea bargaining session after which Ludwig admitted possessing marijuana for sale and additional drug charges were dismissed.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas asked yesterday that the plea bargain be discarded, Ludwig's plea of guilty be withdrawn and the case go to trial. Thomas, who asked state prison for Ludwig, said the judge who approved the bargain had not known fully about a subsequent arrest of Ludwig in Santa Monica on cocaine charges.

Gardiner refused to do this, however, but told Ludwig's lawyer the one-year sentence was a "pretty good deal" for his client.

After being told by the judge he could appeal the sentence to a higher court, the lawyer, Michael Stepanian, said, "I'd be crazy if I did."

Ludwig and several other persons were arrested in May 1970 after raids on homes in Fairfax and Tamalpais Valley, where agents seized a half ton of pot and $23,000 in cash.

Charges against some of the defendants later were dismissed. Two men received straight probation and another, Douglas Edward Rambo, 31, has fled and a bench warrant is out for him.

Election Held By Homeowners

Members of the Little Reed Heights-Tiburon Knolls Homeowners Association have elcted Eric J. Schmidt as president for 1972.

Other officers are David W. Murray and Paul A. Gliebe Jr., co-vice presidents; Russell Cunningham, treasurer, and Barbara M. Marshall, secretary.

The association, which participates in city and county planning affecting the Little Reed Heights and Tiburon Knolls areas, is in the midst of its annual membership drive, Mrs. Marshall said.

SHAHEEN FLEES

San Francisco schools superintendent Thomas Shaheen left a community meeting in Chinatown yesterday after being jeered by some of the 250 Chinese-American parents at the meeting. Outside the meeting place, Shaheen again was jeered by about 300 anti-busing pickets. One, John Tsang, climbed atop Shaheen's car as he drove away. A friend tried to pull Tsang from atop the car, but he was thrown to the pavement as it sped away.

Point Reyes Water Plea Due Study

A request by the North Marin County Water District to use Marin Municipal Water District water should an emergency shortage occur in the Point Reyes area will be considered by the Marin Municipal board at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the district office in Corte Madera.

J. Dietrich Stroeh, engineering manager for Marin Municipal, said the North Marin district would use the water requested — approximately 150 acre feet — only if a dry spell exhausted wells the district uses to serve Point Reyes.

"This would be an emergency rather than a regular use," he said.

In other business the board will hear a report on the status of the district's management reorganization plan which it approved early in December.

The reorganization, proposed by the San Francisco consulting firm of Cresap, McCormick and Paget, Inc., divides district functions into five main divisions, each to be headed by a manager who will report only to Gen. Mgr. William R. Seeger.

Directors also will consider a proposal to annex the Marin County Juvenile Hall property in Lucas Valley.

American troop withdrawals from Vietnam began July 8, 1969.

Prison-Lockup Relaxation Is Urged By Grand Jury

The Marin County Grand Jury foreman yesterday suggested that San Quentin Prison officials relax their tight lockup on the prison's adjustment center — but San Quentin spokesman said today he knew of no plan to ease the rules that have been followed since last August.

While praising the prison staff's "remarkable restraint and professionalism" with the adjustment center's inmates, Milen C. Dempster, grand jury foreman, suggested that the staff "arrange soon a schedule of letting the men out of their cells again for a measure of relaxation and recreation."

Since the bloody Aug. 21 uprising in which three San Quentin guards and three adjustment center inmates were killed, the convicts have been locked in their one-man cells 24 hours a day except for showers twice a week and for trips to the visitors' room.

The prison staff has "no plans that I know of right now" to ease the lockup, Joseph R. O'Brien, prison information officer, reported today. "The procedures are still in effect with regard to what they regard as dangerous people." If any exercise periods are allowed, it will be "on an individual basis," O'Brien said.

The adjustment center houses Soledad Brothers Fleeta Drumgo and John Clutchette, charged with murdering a Soledad Prison guard, and Ruchell Magee, charged with murder, kidnap and conspiracy in the August 1970 shoot-out at the Marin County Civic Center.

Late last month 22 adjustment center inmates staged a six-day hunger strike which spurred the Marin County Board of Supervisors to ask the grand jury to investigate conditions in the center.

Dempster made his suggestions yesterday in a written report to the supervisors. He said jurors are making frequent, regular visits to the adjustment center to check inmate complaints of inadequate medical care, food served only on paper plates, withholding of some books and mail and a lack of heat.

"We have not found a new emergency situation," Dempster wrote, but "the men understandably feel aggrieved at being locked up in their cells since Aug. 21."

He reported the staff "presented evidence" the men were getting regular medical attention "and also presented reasonable justifications for most of the restrictions imposed on the men. . . We question whether they help themselves by throwing food and human feces on the officers as they admittedly did during the recent hunger strike, Dempster said.

"As far as we can discover, the staff has shown remarkable restraint and professionalism under very trying circumstances. . . Only one inmate complained of use of force. . .a single incident in which the staff allegedly used gas, which we have not investigated," Dempster wrote.

The jury foreman said his report was confined to the adjustment center situation, but that later reports would contain general recommendations for reform at San Quentin.

Stolen Car Is Found Crashed

An abandoned hit-run car crashed on Sunday into a fence at Sinaloa Junior High School in Novato and police found hair in the car's cracked windshield indicating someone was injured.

The car, owned by Pamela Graham of 489 Gage Lane, Novato, crashed into the fence at the rear of the school between 3:15 and 7:15 a.m., police said yesterday.

Three or four teen-agers may have been in the car and one or two may have suffered head injuries, police said. Local hospitals had no report of anyone being treated for head injuries.

Mrs. Graham reported she had left the car at the Novak shopping center Saturday because it had a faulty windshield wiper.

Plea Made In Stabbing Of Priest

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Carolyne Parsigian, 56, of Santa Rosa, pleaded innocent yesterday in Central Sonoma Municipal Court to a charge of assaulting a Petaluma priest with intent to commit murder.

Mrs. Parsigian waived her right to a preliminary hearing and was ordered to appear in superior court tomorrow at 9 a.m.

Mrs. Parsigian, accused of stabbing Msgr. Clyde Tillman of Petaluma, had been committed to Napa State Hospital on Dec. 24 when psychiatrists said she was mentally unfit to stand trial. The hospital returned her to court Friday, saying she is now well enough to cooperate with attorneys on the case.

State Of City Talk

Mayor Joseph D. Garguilo will talk about "The State of the City of Novato" at a meeting of the Novato Republican Women's Club at 11:30 a.m. next Tuesday at Nero's Restaurant, Ignacio.

Kidnap-Ransom Plot On Banker Is Phony

A demand for $100,000 was made yesterday to a San Rafael bank manager who was told by a telephone caller that his wife was being held captive.

On police instructions, after checking that his wife was not being held by anyone, Glen H. Smith, manager of the Wells Fargo Bank at Northgate shopping center, left an empty briefcase in a parked car in Corte Madera, where he was told to leave the money, but police said no one made an effort to pick up the briefcase.

The car turned out to have been reported stolen in San Jose.

Police said Smith received the telephone call from a young-sounding male at about 2:30 p.m. yesterday. He was told his wife was being held and to put $100,000 in a briefcase and deliver it according to instructions left on his car.

On his car, parked in the bank parking area, an envelope containing directions to a parking lot on Madera Boulevard in Corte Madera was taped to the windshield.

Smith followed instructions in the note, leaving an empty briefcase in the car, which no one approached.

New Home For Famed Cutter

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Coast Guard cutter Taney, the only fighting ship caught at Pearl Harbor which is still on active duty, is being moved to the East Coast.

The Taney, the survivor of three wars, will make her new home at Norfolk, Va., and be replaced in the Pacific Ocean by the Midgett, a 378-foot cutter which was refitted at New Orleans.

During World War II, the Taney handled convoys between New York and North Africa. She was a support ship in the Korean War and in 1969-70 was on duty along the Vietnamese coast.

In peacetime, she served on search and rescue missions, patroled in the Alaskan fisheries and was an ocean station.

RESERVOIRS THREE-QUARTERS FULL

Last week's storm brought four inches of rain to Marin and increased to 12.76 billion gallons the amount of water stored in Marin Municipal Water District's five reservoirs. The reservoirs now holding approximately 74 per cent of capacity were filled by this time last year, with 17.02 billion gallons. The district watershed has had 22.62 inches of rain this year, as compared to 37.18 at the same time in 1971. Ten-year average rainfall for the period is 37.61. J. Dietrich Stroeh, district manager of engineering, said the district is still hoping for enough rain to fill the reservoirs by the time the heavy rainfall season ends in late March

Land On Tamal Vista Boulevard Back To Light Industrial Zone

The Corte Madera Town Council last night reversed its action of a year ago in rezoning land on Tamal Vista Boulevard.

The council introduced an ordinance rezoning 7.5 acres adjacent to the Marin Municipal Water District offices from high density apartments to the original light industrial only. Councilman Edward W. Colthurst voted against it.

The council also instructed the planning commission to make a study of the types of businesses allowed in the light industrial zone. Councilmen said that they did not want just any business in the zone.

The council on Feb. 1 last year rezoned the area from light industrial to high density multiple residential for Vail and Associates of Mill Valley who had an option to purchase the land at 200 Tamal Vista Boulevard for apartments.

This rezoning drew bitter protest from nearby residents. It was referred back to the planning commission on Aug. 2 and again on Nov. 1. The commission cut down the number of apartments from 630 to 540, but failed to take action on the apartment proposal.

Attorney Kenneth McDonald, representing the owners, Weigel and Priest, said that the apartment proposal had failed so the owners were asking that the original zoning of light commercial be restored.

Mayor pro-tem Harold B. Wagstaff asked McDonald if there were plans to use it as a pipe yard (presumably for the water district.) McDonald said he did not know of any such plans.

Three residents of the area said that they favored restoring the light industrial zone.

The council discussed various uses now allowed in light industrial zone, such as a rendering plant. It decided that the town's light industrial zone should be reviewed. It should be changed so that certain uses now permitted, would be allowed only by use permit. It ordered the planning commission to make such a review, but did not set any time for the study.

Kentfield School District Meeting

The Kentfield School District board, expecting another reductpon in enrollment next year, will meet with teachers tomorrow to discuss staffing.

The workshop meeting with the Kentfield Teachers' Association will be at 8 p.m. in the library of Wolfe Grade School.

Supt. Anthony G. Bacich said enrollment is expected to drop 80 to 90 students from this year's total of 1,330 Teachers asked to meet with the board before any reductions are considered, Bacich said.

Town Acts For Possible New Center

The Corte Madera Town Council last night agreed to finance off-site improvements in the proposed 78-acre regional shopping center east of Highway 101.

It unanimously pledged to form a redevelopment agency to finance the improvements if the shopping center is developed.

Under the proposal, the town council could appoint itself or another body as a redevelopment agency. This agency could issue tax allocation bonds to be repaid through sales tax which the town would derive from the regional shopping center.

Ernest W. Hahn Inc. of Hawthorne has proposed a regional shopping center of approximately one-million square feet of sales space on the land adjacent to the present California Highway Patrol office. Tax revenue has been estimated at $750,000 per year for the Town of Corte Madera.

In the resolution passed last night, the town would put in the necessary drainage, streets, and other improvements if Hahn went ahead with the development. The council had rezoned the land for a regional shopping center on Sept. 7.

The council authorized the town manager to proceed with formation of the redevelopment agency-tax allocation bond proposal. No amount was set by the council.

The council then voted to ask the State Division of Highways to plan improvements to the overpass over Highway 101 at Corte Madera.

Improvement Agency Needed For Project

A $156,690 assessment district should be formed for the improvement of San Clemente Drive, the Corte Madera Town Council declared last night.

Preliminary estivates on the project call for the town to pay $48,677 and the owners along the half-mile of street to pay $108,013.

The council set 7:30 p.m. March 20, for a public hearing on it, following bid opening at 10 a.m., March 15.

Plans as prepared by the city engineer call for four 11-foot travel lanes, one 10-foot turn lane in the center and one eight-foot parking lane on the west side of the street.

The council asked staff to review the plans to see if sidewalks, a center median strip nd a railroad guard rail could be altered. The council agreed that it might change the final cost to the city, but wanted these items explored for cost to the city.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

ASSISTANT CHIEF — Promoted Lee Larson from lieutenant to assistant chief in the fire department and increased his salary from $1,067 to $1,777.

OFFICIALS — Passed a resolution placing a measure on the April 11 municipal election ballot making the treasurer and clerk appointive positions. They are now elected.

RULES -- Approved rules for conducting council meetings. The council has been working on this for several months and the rules follow the pattern of present council meetings. The vote was 4-1, with Councilman Edward W. Colthurst dissenting. He said that he did not want to give the impression that when mayor he had "run a disorderly house for several years."

APPO INTMENTS — Reappointed William Gilbert, Morgan Griffith and William Collier to the board of adjustments. It asked the planning commission for a recommendation whether there should be seven or five members on that commission. There are seven members now.

SPEED LIMIT — Passed a resolution reducing from 25 to 15 miles per hour the speed limit in the 300 to 500 blocks of Redwood Avenue. The council received a petition with 15 signatures requesting the reduction in the speed limit.

CONTRACT — Awarded a $10,068 contract to R. G. Pitts and Co. of Campbell, Sacramento County, lowest of six bidders, to install 252 feet of 36 inch concrete sewer and drain pipe in Pixley Avenue. The engineer's estimate on the job was $7,292.

AGREEMENT — Authorized Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels to negotiate with Yoder, Trotter, Orlob and Associates of Walnut Creek to make a study of the town's drainage ordinance. The firm had made a preliminary estimate of $3,500 to $5,000 for the study.

CLASSROOM — Denied the College of Marun the use of the council chambers once a week to conduct a course in adult education. Councilmen felt that too many other organizations would want to use the room and it would disrupt town business.

ADVERTISING — Voted against placing an advertisement in the North Bay Labor Journal's golden anniversary edition as an improper use of public funds.

REPORT — Accepted the report on the activities of the parks and recreation department, but postponed until budget consideration the request of the commission to lower fees in some programs.

TRANSFERS — Transferred $7,230 from the reserves and $12,400 from unappropriated surplus to make up deficits in purchasing of supplies for the town offices and fire department.

Meeting as the Corte Madera Sanitary District board, endorsed formation of a single sanitary district from San Rafael southward by Marin Municipal Water District, but for trunking and treatment of sewage only. Collection mains would still be maintained by the smaller districts.

Alternatives Are Given In Heroin Case

David Brian Denison, 21, of San Rafael, was given a suspended state prison sentence yesterday for having heroin for sale last July.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court also placed the youth on probation for three years and ordered that he spend nine months either in jail or at Napa State Hospital in a drug treatment program. Dennison was told he could have credit on the sentence for the time he has already spent in jail.

He was arrested July 28 at his home after a narcotics agent saw him selling heroin to another person. Investigators said they found about $300 worth of smack sorted into balloons.

Judge Attacks Hiring Policy Of Fire Dept.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A U.S. District judge Tuesday barred the city's Fire Department from hiring any more firemen.

Judge William T. Sweigert ruled the Civil Service Commission which administers the fireman tests, was not able to prove its test was not discriminatory.

The exact opposite, he said, is found from test results.

There are only four black members in the 1,800-member department. In a 1968 test the percentage of whites to blacks passing was three to one.

The commission revised the test after a lawsuit by Western Addition Community Organization.

Sweigert said the results of the test were exactly the same with three times as many whites passing it as blacks.

The future bridegroom is employed by the family firm, E. D. Bullard and Co. in Sausalito. He is a graduate of Redwood High School and the Univeristy of California. He is a member of the Bachelors.

They Abandoned Careers To Become Foster Parents

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Consider the care needed by a handicapped child, then multiply that by six. If you picture chaos you haven't been to the orderly home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hasselberg in Novato.

Having reared their own family, the Hasselbergs abandoned careers to become foster parents to children with handicaps.

The children are all between the ages of 4 and 8. Three are multi-handicapped as a gesult of their mothers having rubella when they were pregnant, two have Downy Syndrome (mongoloidism) and one is mentally handicapped.

THE FOSTER parents' role began for the Hasselbergs in 1968 when they lived in Fairfax. The home where they had lived 15 years was too large for just the two of them and friends suggested they open it to children. They started as a receiving home, offering temporary care for children waiting to be placed in a foster home.

Their first child was an 18-month-old boy, beaten so badly by his father that the child had permanent brain damage and will be blind for the rest of his life. So frightened was the child of a man's voice, according to the Hasselbergs, it took three weeks before Mr. Hasselberg could come near him. The patient couple gave him the attention he needed, and he eventually became so attached to Mr. Hasselberg that when he heard his car he would run toward the garage. The child has since been placed in another foster home.

"Without taking anything away from the natural parents, we call the children 'our kids,'" Mrs. Hasselberg said. The foster parents moved from Fairfax to Novato last fall.

"It wasn't easy finding housing when people found we had six handicapped children," Mrs. Hasselberg said. "But our neighbors in Novato have been wonderful and understanding and have accepted us with open arms."

The children all go to school during the day. Three of them, the rubella victims, who are deaf, blind and retarded, attend a special class at Oak View School in San Rafael. Two of them, with Downy Syndrome, attend Forest Meadows Development Center in San Rafael and the other youngster attends a school in Belvedere.

THE HASSELBERGS gave up their jobs in San Francisco, where Mr. Hasselberg was in the lumber business and Mrs. Hasselberg was a medical claims adjuster, to devote full time to the children.

Their new home in Novato reflects Mrs. Hasselberg's Dutch ancestry — everything is neat and orderly.

"It's easier to put everything in order At the time than to let things pile up," Mrs. Hasselberg said as she showed the dresser drawers where the youngsters find their own clothes.

"We are very lucky if we get one night's sleep a week from midnight until 5 a.m.," she said, adding that two of the youngsters are hyperactive and sometimes only sleep two hours a night.

While she gives the children a bath in the evening, Mr. Hasselberg will be found in the kitchen cooking dinner, Mrs. Hasselberg said.

Mrs. Hasselberg believes many parents of handicapped youngsters keep them at home too long, and that foster parents can work with the children easier than natural parents.

"We have to be patient, and we can't feel sorry for them," Mrs. Hasselberg said.

She added that if there is a school, health or busing problem the youngsters react to it when they come home.

The six youngsters have been with the Hasselbergs for two years. During that time all of them have been bathroom trained and learned to swim in the Hasselbergs' pool.

Mr. Hasselberg said it took 500 to 600 hours to train each of the youngsters to go to the bathroom and to swim.

"There is so much reward in this kind of work," Mrs. Hasselberg said, adding that she hoped more families would become involved in taking care of the handicapped rather than having them placed in institutions.

She is chairman of Foster Parents of Marin County Handicapped Children and a delegate to the facility review committee that screens foster homes.

THE SIX handicapped foster children of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hasselberg work puzzles while sitting around a table at the Hasselbergs' home in Novato. Mrs. Hasselberg (left) helps one child while talking to another. Mr. Hasselberg is in the background. The children have been with the Hasselbergs for two years.

THE SWIMMING pool is a favorite spot for the handicapped children who live at the Hasselberg home. Mr. and Mrs. Hasselberg have taught all the children to swim. It took more than 500 hours for each child to learn.

Some 'Poor Risk' Qualities To Watch For In Prospective Mate

DEAR HELEN:

Several years ago you published lists of "poor risk" qualities for people in love to watch out for in prospective mates. Would you please reprint them? — FACING A DECISION

DEAR FAD:

Be glad to — inasmuch as we've had hundreds of requests for copies of these two columns from both males and females.

Of course, it's easier to say, "Choose a man who is dependable, considerate, loving, kind, conscientious, etc., etc." but here are clues to the poor marriage risks. Beward of the fellow who:

1. Is weighted down by the chip on his shoulder.
2. Browbeats waitresses — or pinches them.
3. Is habitually late. (And if he's constantly, never-endingly early, he's hard to live with, too.)
4. Lives with his widowed mother (if he's over 25).
5. Always knows the amount of change he has in his pocket.
6. Checks himself out in every mirror he passes.
7. Drives like a battering ram in a hurry.
8. Dislikes his family — and yours: vocally.
9. Downgrades his associates. Considers women basically "second-class citizens."
10. Acts superior to "inferiors" and inferior to "superiors."
11. Can't give a compliment or a "thank you" without choking on them.
12. Gets apprehensive when women show their intelligence.
13. Always asks, "What would you like to do tonight?" and ends up at your place or his all evening.
14. Reads the medical column first in the newspaper.
15. Follows guests around emptying ashtrays and picking up crumbs.
16. Third-degrees you about former boyfriends.
17. Remembers every girl he ever dated: vividly and in detail.
18. Says he can't help being moody.
19. Can't hold his liquor but keeps trying.
20. Points out all your faults "for your own good."

Should he fit more than five of these descriptions, date if you must, but marry at your own risk. — HELEN AND SUE

Now for the men:

She's poor wife material if she:

1. Has nothing — but nothing — good to say about her family.
2. Orders the most expensive dinner on the menu and then leaves half of it.
3. On picnics, won't go swimming because she might ruin her hair-do or makeup. Worse yet, won't go on a picnic.
4. Makes fun of your friends.
5. Thinks all your former girl friends are creeps and otherwise lets jealousy sharpen her claws.
6. Wants things her way or not at all.
7. Figures she can win any argument with a tear.
8. Considers herself a sex symbol — or you a male chauvinist (when you're only doing what comes naturally).
9. Can't understand your jokes. Can't even laugh at herself.
10. Is catty about her girl friends.
11. Bores you (when she switches to conversation).
12. Doesn't know what's happening in the world and cares less.
13. Puts you down, or finds constant fault.
14. Can't talk intelligently about anything but clothes on herself. (This is intelligence?)
15. Would be lost without her mirror and brush. (We mean lost, not just inconvenienced.)
16. Thinks your time is her time — every minute of it.
17. Hates sports (if you like them) or loves sports (if you hate them).
18. At a party, either sticks to you like glue, or disappears completely.
19. Goes for "high" society — either kind.
20. Drinks too much. (A good indication that she might, someday: does she only begin to sparkle after the second shot?)

If she qualifies on more than five of these points — you're taking a big chance, man. — HELEN AND SUE

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

One Of America's First Career Women

One of America's first career women was Esther Howland, who introduced valentine cards to this country. Miss Howland, the daughter of a Worcester, Mass., stationer, decided to begin making her own valentines after receiving one from England.

In 1840, a leap year, she put her first cards on sale in her father's shop and quickly sold out. She was soon employing a large staff and in her lifetime designed and sold thousands of valentines.

That Lease Can Become An Asset

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

Sometimes a lease restriction can turn into an asset. At least it did for a young couple with two children who inherited "boring beige" carpet and some gray wall covering in the living room of their newly rented apartment. The story of how they rose above these restrictions was published in a decorating ideas publication and won them one of the coveted Best Dressed House awards from Burlington Mills.

Rather than live with the drab gray walls, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Artman of Western Springs, Ill., bought a supergraphic pop art design of the Statue of Liberty. And since pasting it to the wall was a "no no" they just used dozens of thumbtacks and some pull-off tape to keep it mounted.

Once they established Miss Liberty in the living room, they realized that they could loosen up with other furnishings to keep a fun mood going. So they shopped at the secondhand stores trying to find unusual and inexpensive items. One find was the piece they now use as a coffee table. It is just an old wooden chest. But knowing that storage space is always short in apartment living rooms, they bought it, painted it a bright purple and put it to work.

Instead of heavy upholstered chairs, they found some folding captain's chairs and painted and reupholstered them. So the Artmans found that they could keep the landlord happy while still keeping their own sense of humor. And everything they developed for this apartment can be carried over to their first house or a future apartment.

THEY CAN DO A STRIP: If the day comes when the Townsend Artmans decide to move into their own home, they can quickly strip down their apartment living room. Their ideas won a 1972 Best Dressed House award from Burlington Mills.

MANY OF the other 1972 Best Dressed House awards were presented to this kind of creative family. Those of us who attended the award ceremony were pleased each time that old individual ingenuity reared its head. It seemed that for every elegant, perfectly appointed interior there were four or five representing personal, interesting solutions to a particular life-style.

The judges (a team of knowlegeable consumers) apparently realized that not everyone can afford to have professional help in organizing a decorative scheme. So they singled out families like the Artmans. The big message in these awards seemed to be "don't settle for less than an individual, comfortable environment."

How long have you lived with the landlord's leftovers? You know that the "greige" nondescript carpeting would make a good background for a perky area rug, don't you? And those all-white draperies could be appliqued (using tape or pins) with circles or squares of colored fabric or felt. And fringe in several colors could be added to window shades, chairs or kitchen curtains.

There's even strippable wall covering you can take with you — so the leaseholder need never know you really enjoyed a bit of color while you rented his property.

New President Named For Art, Garden Unit

New president of the Northgate Group of the Marin Art and Garden Center is Mrs. Peter Skaer of San Anselmo, a 10-year-member of the group.

Last year's vice president, Helena Skaer served twice as recording secretary and has been chairman of the al fresco fashion-luncheon series that Northgate Group sponsors during the summer. Other annual activities of the organization are Market Day in May and a table decor and tea in the fall. The group will have a flea market for the center's fair during the Fourth of July weekend. Members also staff and operate Laurel House Antiques and Many Things, a shop selling handmade articles, both located on the grounds of the center in Ross.

MRS. PETER SKAER
Northgate Group president

Mrs. Skaer has been a member of the Camp Fire Girls board, Panhellenic board, vice president of the Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary and is active with Marin Music Chest.

She is a native of Tacoma, Wash., but has lived in California since she was a year old and in Marin County since age 3. A graduate of Lamalpais High School and the University of California, she also attended College of Marin, where she met her husband, an architect. They are the parents of Kathryn Skaer of Boston, Mass., Mrs. Kenneth Wanderer of Portland, Ore., John Skaer of Mill Valley and Peter Skaer, a student at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Her hobbies are knitting, crocheting, needlepoint, cooking and skiing.

Primary purpose of the Northgate Group is to raise funds for the upkeep of the center grounds. Membership is invitational, but the group seeks new members who are interested in working hard to keep the center alive and a lovely place to be, according to Mrs. Skaer.

Serving with Mrs. Skaer are Mmes. William Davis, first vice president; Reed Volin, second vice president; Hugh Paterson, treasurer; Tore Noren, recording secretary; Robert Eschen, corresponding secretary; Albert Vance, business secretary; and James Egger, immediate past president.

Both members are Mmes. Warwick Hayes Jr., Leland Dake, John Scott and Arthur Relfe. Mmes. Fred Herrington, Arthur Feidler, H. Wallace Hickman, John Kirkpatrick and Frank Brown compose the honorary advisory board.

Beauty Salon Brunch Saturday

Roxanne Brodien of Larkspur will reign over Marin's Beauty Salon Week, which will be climaxed Saturday with a brunch and fashion show at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael.

The brunch and a showing of men's and women's clothes is sponsored by the Marin Cosmetologists Association as a benefit for the Kidney Foundation of Northern California.

Miss Brodien represented Marin in a beauty pageant in Los Angeles where she was signed by an advertising agency to make commercials and advertisements.

THE DRAMA takes place in the huge mouth-stage of a young child as "Count Cavity" and "Gooie Louie" challenge "Bobby's primary teeth." Mmes. Harry Humphreys (left) and Gilbert Oliver preview the new children's dental care puppet show they and other dental auxiliary members made and will present to Marin school children.

PUPPET SHOW

A Simple Plot For Good Teeth

Marin school children will be treated to a new show traveling to their school in March.

The plot is simple: the whole stage is a mouth and the poorly cared for Primary Teeth fight it out with Count Cavity and Gooie Louie until the Tooth Fairy appears with a magic toothbrush and instructions on how to use it.

Then the cavity and gooie villains are doomed.

"The Golden Toothbrush" will be shown by members of the Marin County Dental Auxiliary in addition to the auxiliary's traditional show, "The Magic Words," in their continual effort to illustrate good tooth care to children.

The "players" are puppets, and the mouth-stage, puppets and props were all made by Dr. and Mrs. Gary Runes, Mmes. Gilbert Oliver, Harry Humphries, Gery Grey and Thomas Zavaterro.

The women will be the puppeteers, along with Mmes. L. Mtchael Heon, David Deetken, John Kassenbrock, Ronald Plambeck, Harry Stuntz and Fred Zulch.

The show is being previewed now during National Dental Health Week. It emphasizes that the road to healthy teeth lies in continual tooth care and good nutrition.

The Marin County Dental Society and Auxiliary this week is emphasizing dental health through posters, radio and television announcements and appearances. The program in Marin is coordinated by Mrs. Marshall Rothstein of Mill Valley, who appeared on "Romper Room" on television Channel 2 this morning, speaking on children's dental health.

Toy dental units, miniatures of those in dentists' offices, complete with mannequin patient also will be shown by women of the dental auxiliary in Marin schools. The auxiliary women designed and built the units. Mrs. Charles Williams is heading the toy dental unit program.

Drs. Rothstein and Sheldon Schwebel this week have scheduled talks to Boy Scout Troops in the area on dental care. Tomorrow night a program will be held at the Rothstein home for dentists, hygienists and assistants on pit and fissure sealants, a new concept in dental care, will be given by Dr. Philip Baskin of the University of Pacific School of Dentistry in San Francisco.

Michael Tierney, Janice Cypher Are Engaged

The engagement of Janice Lauren Cypher and Michael Lloyd Tierney has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Cypher of Stockton.

Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Tierney of Fairfax.

Janice was graduated from high school in Stockton and from the University of California at Santa Barbara, where she was vice president of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. She is employed by the Santa Barbara Recreation Department.

Michael is the brother of Sharon L. Tierney of Los Altos and William M. Tierney of San Jose. He is a graduate of Sir Francis Drkae High School and is in his senior year at UCSB, where he is also employed as an intern in the office of the dean of students.

Boyd Museum Guild Has A New Leader

New leader of the Greenbrae Guild of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science is Mrs. Robert A. Ryder of Kentfield.

During her four-year membership, Carol Ryder has served as guild festival chairman and cochairman of the all-guild Festival of Trees last December.

She said that this year the Greenbrae guild will participate in the all-guild theater party in May and co-sponsor the annual Ski Swap with the Ross Guild of the museum. It also will make gift items for the Festival of Trees.

Mrs. Ryder is a native of Glen Cove, N.Y., and has a degree in early education from the State University of New York at Cortland. A Marin resident for four-and-a-half years, she also is a member of the Sierra Club, Wolfe Grade School Parent-Teacher Association and she volunteers at Wolfe Grade School, teaching the junior great books class for third and fourth grades.

The wife of a vice president of Kennedy engineers in San Francisco, Carol Ryder and her husband have three children, Ted, 12; Jane, 10; nd Suzanne, 5.

Other new guild officers are Mmes. Rodman Stark, vice president; Mario Delchini, treasurer; James Rohde, recording secretary; Peter Siewert, corresponding secretary; James Smith, Festival of Trees chairman, Robert Fisher, Ski Swap chairman; Thomas Harbinson, staffing; and Lucille Suckle, publicity.

Guarded Statue Moved Indoors

CHICAGO (UPI)—A statue erected in 1887 in the memory of seven police officers killed in the Haymarket Squad riot, has been moved inside Chicago police headquarters.

The 9-foot-tall statue was moved during the weekend from its near West Side location, where it had been under guard since January, 1971.

A 24-hour police guard was ordered on the statue when it was bombed from its pedestal in 1969 and 1970, but the cost of guarding it was $68,000 a year.

OPENS WITH CLUB

South craftily opened with one club in the hope of stopping a lead in that suit if he eventually played the hand in three no-trump.

As it happened, West had reason to be suspicious about the opening bid. He opened the king of clubs to find out what was going on.

East signaled encouragement by playing the five of clubs, and South followed suit with the four.

WEST WAVERS

Now West wavered. It was quite possible that South had started with A-J-4-2, in which case a club continuation would cost a trick.

West therefore shifted to the jack of spades, and South heaved a sigh of relief. Declarer won and knocked out the ace of diamonds, making sure of 10 tricks.

East could have saved the day by playing the right card at the first trick. Obviously his partner had opened a long club suit; nobody leads a short suit right into declarer's bid suit. Moreover, West would surely be wondering who had the lack of clubs. The one sure way to settle that problem was to play the jack of clubs immediately.

WEST'S ACTION

West would have no further doubts if he saw the jack of clubs on the first trick. He would continue clubs to force out the ace. West would regain the lead with the ace of diamonds in time to defeat the contract with his long clubs.

ART REVIEW

Don Graulich's Works Show Human Conditions

By ADA GARFINKEL

Larkspur artist Don Graulich is a young man of prodigious talent, mostly in the tradition of Leonardo da Vinci and Goya.

Very much an inner kind of person, and mostly self-taught, Graulich draws a good deal from fantasy.

In the recently established Obelisk Gallery in Fairfax, the one-man show of his drawings establishes his preoccupation with religion, metaphysics and the human condition. Both his feelings and his sensibilities are deep, complex and probing.

Graulich does not title his work. However, each one is numbered — and, according to his statement — each one is an extension of himself from the wellsprings of his being.

Some of the drawings are embellished with poems as an integral part of pis expression. In an existential vein, he comes to visual and verbal grips with God, the Devil, old age, and joy. This segment of the body of his work is mostly in pencil or penline and is the least developed. Other drawings are simple studies of a hand or foot, beautifully rendered and dramatically positioned.

In his most intense preoccupation with the human form, whether singly or in multiple interlocking complexity, it is in his use of charcoal that he is at his best. The sooty, velvety richness of sheen, modeled high-lights and textured shadows are well-sustained in a wondrous undulating admixture of figures interlocking in physical and psychic relationships. This is particularly manifested in his central 8-foot canvas — the only really large work in the exhibit.

The Obelisk Gallery is located at 737 Center Beoulvard. Gallery hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and to 9 p.m. on Thursday. This exhibit will continue through March 16.

San Rafael Approves Land Swap On Francisco Boulevard

After three months of working on it, the San Rafael City Council last night approved a land swap deal with auto dealer Hercules Viglienzone.

Passage to print an ordinance containing terms of the deal was unanimous, but an earlier vote leading up to it passed by only a 3-2 margin.

The council had approved the deal in generalS/terms Jan. 17 but on Jan. 31, voted 3-2 to hear further arguments against it by William H. McDevitt, co-owner of Dominic's restaurant, adjacent to the property involved in the swap.

The property is on the site of the city's old corporation yard on Francisco Boulevard, and under the agreement approved last night the city will pay Viglienzone $1 per year for a 40-foot strip of land through the middle of Viglienzone's property for access to city property on the San Rafael Canal, and Viglienzone will lease a 70-foot strip at the side of the property for $200 a month with an option to buy if and when a state claim to the property is relinquished.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini last night sought unsuccessfully to persuade the council to rescind its Jan. 31 action allowing McDevitt another chance to argue against the deal.

In a 20-minute talk, McDevitt called the proposed agreement "shortsighted, very bad planning and a decision not in the public interest."

He urged the council to hold onto the 70-foot strip and to use it for access to the city property on the canal, as well as for access across his restaurant property to property on the other side of the restaurant for which he proposed another restaurant and landscaping.

When no councilman would move to delay action on the agreement to give more consideration to McDevitt's new proposal, Fred E. Jensen moved that the council proceed with the agreement.

That motion passed, 3-2, with Councilmen Lawrence F. Mulryan and John A. Miskimen dissenting. Miskimen said it appeared "we're trying to do Mr. Viglienzone a favor."

The two dissenters gave up, however, and joined the unanimous approval of the agreement.

Viglienzone plans a car dealership on the site and said he needed the 70-foot strip to meet a demand by the Ford Motor Co. for more space.

Communities Get Road Users Funds

Marin County received $163,-419.96 as its share, and Sonoma County received $224,417.29 as its portion.

Cities in Marin County and the amounts they received are: Belvedere, $2,515.77; Larkspur, $9,232.68; Ross, $2,632.18; Sausalito, $5,413.06; Corte Madera, $7,436.83; Mill Valley, $10,-935.72; San Anselmo, $11,008.17; Tiburon, $5,454.58; Fairfax, $6,-636.60, Novato, $26,450.30 and San Rafael, $32,130.08.

Cities in Southern Sonoma County and the amounts they received are: Petaluma, $22,-998.66; Cotati, $1,645.66; and Rohnert Park, $5,828.73.

Far East Tour

LONDON (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth II, her husband Prince Philip and daughter Princess Anne took off today for Bangkok, Thailand, to begin a seven-week tour of the Far East, Buckingham palace announced.

Belvedere's Dog Policy Clears Test

The Belvedere City Council last night introduced a set of ordinances to cope with the city's dog problems.

The potential new dog laws, requiring control of defecation and restriction of roaming, would be enforced by the Marin Humane Society.

No argument against the ordinances was presented by last night's audience of 15, and if no challenge is made, the city council will adopt the ordinances at its March meeting, according to Mayor Thomas S. Price.

The city council last night also adoped a new amendment to its building moratorium, requiring a variance based on hardship for development of substandard lots. The city council will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Feb. 28 in the community center to discuss extending the moratorium for one year.

The new dog ordinances state that owners must remove their dog's defecation from someone else's property; that an unsupervised dog must be no more than 500 feet from the owner's property in the daytime and must be on a leash or at the heel of the owner at night.

The owner would also be guilty of a misdemeanor if the dog challenged a person or a moving vehicle while off the owner's property.

The ordinance states that a dog may be impounded after three violations.

Price said the material in the ordinance was compiled after several lengthy discussions and one special meeting had been devoted to the dog situation.

Hospital Reports Injury Accident

A San Francisco man was treated at Marin General Hospital Saturday for injuries suffered in a traffic accident.

The hospital said Barry Kaiser, 20, suffered a bruised leg in an auto-pedestrian accident in San Rafael, but San Rafael police had no accidents reported Saturday.

Buffet Dinner Concert Is Set Saturday

The Kengsington Trio's next program in its gourmet buffet dinner concert series will be at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Alexander Hall of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

The trio composed of pianist Wilbur F. Russell, violinist Stephen Golden and cellist John Bodo will play the Haydn Trio No. 24 (London); Beethoven's "Kakadu" variations' and Martinu's Trio in D Major.

Reservations may be made by calling the Tamal Food Service in San Anselmo.

New Sign Policy For Montecito

By C.P. McCARTHY

Sign standards for Montecito Shopping Center were set last night by the San Rafael City Council over objections of some Loch Lomond residents and two councilmen.

The residents objected to the standards because they were not as stringent as standards previously approved by the planning commission. And Councilman John A. Miskimen, who joined Lawrence F. Mulryan in voting against the standards, said they were exactly what the merchants at Montecito wanted.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini termed Miskimen's remarks "inappropriate," and accused him of playing to the audience which contained a group of Loch Lomond residents objecting to the proposed standards.

Bettini and councilmen Fred E. Jensen and Harry A. Barbier formed the majority to approve the standards.

A basic revision from the standards approved by the planning commission was the allowance of three free standing signs in addition to one identifying the shopping center and Montecito Theater.

Standards approved last night allow free standing signs at Thrifty Drugstore, Kettle restaurant and Purity Market, whose building and sign is being taken over by Standard Brand Paints.

Donald B. Edmondo, president of Loch Lomond Homeowners Association, urged the council to adopt the original standards Approved by the planning commission.

He said Montecito was a "local" shopping center, not a regional one, and that persons shopped there because they knew the merchants, not because of signs.

Robert C. Schoen, a member of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Center who lives at 10 Jewel Street, near the shopping center, said he lived closer to Montecito than the Loch Lomond residents and he hadn't "seen anything really objectionable" in the signs.

He criticized the Loch Lomond contingent for its criticism, saying "people in Loch Lomond who just drive past it" don't even have time to look at the signs.

One of the Loch Lomond residents, Elizabeth Falk of 40 Bonnie Banks Way, turned Schoen's argument around, saying the contention that people driving by don't even notice the signs proved they were not important.

Standards were set by the commission in December, but appealed to the council by Montecito merchants. Following a three-hour session last month, the council directed its planning staff to revise the standards and to include the allowance of the free standing signs.

Miskimen, who was absent from last month's meeting, accused Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner of talking only to merchants and giving them "exactly what they would want."

Streets To Become One-Way In March

After a four-month delay for the Christmas holidays, plans to make portions of A, B, C and D streets in San Rafael one-way were back on the track last night.

After receiving a report for Norris M. Rawles, director of public works, on relocation and loss of some parking meters in connection with the plan, the San Rafael City Council directed Rawles to proceed with the one-way proposal.

The plan was approved by the council last Sept. 13 for implementation around Nov. 15. It was then postponed until the new year because of sewer reconstruction work and Christmas season traffic.

Rawles said last night the streets should go one-way about the middle of March.

A Street will be northbound and B Street southbound between Second Street and Fifth Avenue, and C Street will be northbound and D Street southbound between First Street and Fifth Avenue.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

BIDS — Rejected 10 bids on an East San Rafael drainage project, called for new bids to be opened at 2 p.m. Feb. 29 in the city clerk's office and set a public hearing on the project for 8 p.m. March 13. The action was on the advice of Edwin N. Ness, bond counsel for the assessment district, which will finance the project, because of a discrepancy in the time for the bid opening Jan. 20.

APPEAL — Agreed to hear an appeal Feb. 28 by the Metromedia organization of Los Angeles of sign standards set by the planning commission for Northgate Mall. The company's triosks — three sided devices featuring art work and advertising — were banned by the standards. City Atty. Fred E. Robbins Jr. had questioned the company's right to appeal, as it was not a resident nor did it have interest in property or business in San Rafael.

PARKING — Approved an agreement with the State Division of Highways to lease for $500 a year property under the northbound viaduct of Highway 101, between Third and Fourth streets, for a city-operated, 40-stall parking lot.

PAY PLAN — Deferred until budget sessions a proposal by City Mgr. James H. McCown to establish a deferred pay plan for city employees which would allow employees to defer receiving portions of their salaries, and paying taxes on it, until retirement. Councilman Fred E. Jensen blasted the plan as "legal evasion of taxes just to benefit the high-salaried employees.

FUNDS — Authorized a $1,000 transfer, but referred to the parks and recreation commission the rest of a request by Parks and Recreation Director Andrew J. Snyder Jr. for transfer of a total of $4,287 among several parks and recreation budget accounts.

VEHICLES — Approved purchase from the State Office of Procurement of 10 new Dodge Polaras for the police department and one for the fire department.

POPULATION — Authorized paying the State Department of Finance $360 for an updated population estimate to be used as the basis for allocation of the city's share of state taxes.

PRISON — At the suggestion of Councilman John A. Miskimen, directed city staff to study what the city's attitude should be toward San Quentin Prison property when the state closes the facility.

FIRE COMMISSION — Agreed to interview applicants at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 28 for the fire commission seat vacated by Dr. Rafael G. Dufficy. McCown said two applications for the post had been received — from Dr. Dufficy's son, Daniel, and from Richard H. Miehling, secretary-treasurer of the San Rafael Volunteer FIre Department — and a third was expected.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned in memory of William R. Keaton Sr., a meter maintenanceman for the city who died last Thursday.

Vote Nixon Out — UROC President

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —The president of California's largest Republican volunteer organization says the time "is long overdue" to vote President Nixon out of office and replace him with "a very good man waiting in the wings."

Walter Hintzen, president of the 10,000-member United Republicans of California, said Monday he favors Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, who is challenging Nixon for the GOP nomination.

"A very good man is waiting in the wings," Hintzen wrote in a UROC newsletter. "And the time to remove the incumbent President is long overdue."

Sandy Duncan 'Woman of Year'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Sandy Duncan has been named "Woman of the Year" by the Hollywood Radio and Television Society.

Miss Duncan starred in one of the hits of the television season, "Funny Face," until the show was forced off the air after 13 episodes when she came down with an eye inflammation. She underwent surgery for a benign tumor, which left her blind in her left eye.

ONE-UPMANSHIP IS FOR THE BIRDS

What appears to be a kind of aerial ballet in Ayala Cove at Angel Island is really competition for a roosting place, a prize won and lost in a king-of-the-hill game played by seagulls. The rules of the game, which leaves the victor one up but not for long, are simple: A gull on the wing spots one of his brethren comfortably perched on a piling, wheels in midair and swoops in. The perched gull is invariably ousted and must either find an unoccupied piling or play the game himself if he wants to rest.

Angela Counsel Objects To Imposed Gag Rules

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Angela Davis' attorneys today vigorously protested two gag rules imposed Monday in her murder-kidnap case a few hours before she went on television to call for the destruction of American soiiety.

Defense attorneys said they were "shocked" and "overwhelmed" at the action of Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason Monday in banning further interviews with Miss Davis.

They also protested another ruling Monday by Judge James Scott, presiding Superior Court jurist of Santa Clara County, which prohibited Sheriff James Geary from making any public statements about the case.

Arnason's action vacated an order he had granted last July 28th permitting one press interview a week by Miss Davis while she awaits trial on charges of murder, kidnaping and conspiracy.

She is accused of furnishing the guns for the Aug. 7, 1970, Marin County Civic Center shootings in San Rafael in which a judge and three others were killed.

In taking the action, neither judge mentioned an hour-long television interview with Miss Davis, filmed last week at her jail cell, and broadcast Monday night by KPIX-TV (Channel Five) in San Francisco.

In the broadcast, she did not discuss the case but told why she had become a Communist and said racism will not be destroyed in America until "we've destroyed the whole system."

Defense attorney Leo Branton of Los Angeles said he was "shocked" at the fact that Arnason's order was made without the defense being represented and called it "highly improper."

"Who is running this case?" Branton asked.

Also defense attorney Howard Moore Jr. told Arnason in court he was "surprised and overwhelmed" that you would do this to us."

Moore also said if the sheriff was restrained from making public statements about the case, Gov. Ronald Reagan should be, too.

"The governor comments freely on many aspects of the case while the defendant herself is gagged," Moore said. "He is out to destroy her. He is out to destroy democracy in this country. He is out to destroy justice in the courts."

Moore also disclosed that the prosecutor, Assistant Attorney General Albert W. Harris Jr., saw the one-hour television interview in advance last week and wrote a letter to the television station about it.

Harris confirmed he wrote the letter, in which, he said, he told the station it should have considered the "timing" of such a broadcast —coming when the start of Miss Davis' trial may be imminent.

Moore said the prosecution objected to the telecast because they had been building an image of Miss Davis as "a nappy-haired, big-mouthed, firebrand" and this image was destroyed by the showing.

Tam Board Attacked On Teacher's Firing

Critics of the firing of teacher Kenneth A. Anderson last night accused the Tamalpais High School District of stalling tactics in the case and attacked removing him from teaching before his firing was weighed in court.

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins said that Alan W. Barnett of the Mill Valley branch of the Marin Alternative and about 25 student backers of the embattled English teacher wanted to discuss the board's tactics.

The board refused because Deputy County Counsel Richard V. Godino had warned it might prejudice the case against Anderson which is pending in Marin Superior Court.

Godino offered to meet separately with the critics to discuss procedure in the case, but they declined when the board refused to promise to attend, Hawkins said.

Hawkins said the concerns of those present were largely those expressed in a letter from Mrs. Herbert Briggs, chairman of the Mill Valley branch.

"The long delay and apparent reluctance of the administration to go to trial suggest that it is not confident of its case against Mr. Anderson. If this is so, let it quickly withdraw the charges, acknowledge its mistake and regain the credibility and the public trust," she wrote.

She charged that the case had been stymied at least six months because Hawkins has not presented detailed charges.

Mrs. Briggs questioned hiring another teacher to take over Anderson's duties at Tamalpais High School while he is still employed, calling it a devious aist form of censorship.

The 30-year-old Anderson, in his fourth year with the district, is a tenured teacher so his case must be heard in court. Among charges against him are that he failed to follow district grading and attendance policies, refused to obey district rules and encouraged antisocial attitudes among students.

Anderson countered that his firing was caused by his union activities and political beliefs.

Prepaid Health Plans Seen As Savings Feature

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Prepaid group health plans for the poor could save Medi-Cal $158 million annually, the state Department of Health Care Services has told the legislature.

Dr. Earl Brian, department director, said Monday that more than 280 firms have expressed interest in establishing the group health plans through Medi-Cal.

He said the use of prepaid health plans, the standardizing of care in all the counties and limits on the number of monthly doctor's visits will save $208 million in federal, state and local funds this year.

Limitations On Wealth Sought

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill to limit the wealth of millionaires and the amount an individual could inherit was reintroduced Monday by Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco.

The measure would restrict the amount any Californian could accumulate to $25 million and limit the amount anyone could inherit to $1 million, except for a surviving spouse. A similar Burton bill was defeated last year.

"In California about three-hundredths of 1 per cent of the people hold about 5 per cent of the total wealth," Burton said. "The excess which these people control could go a long way to alleviating the extremes of poverty through a variety of constructive programs."

Traffic violation Brings Dope Charge

Hans Jurgen Kissman, 21, of 205 Howard Street, Petaluma, was scheduled for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal court on charges of possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs.

Kissman was released on his own recognizance Friday after his arrest. Petaluma police said drugs were found in his car when it was stopped at Lauren and Cherry streets for a minor traffic violation.

Funds Received In Condemnations

The County of Marin, the Marin County Flood Control and Water Conservation District and the North Marin County Water District have received $295.56 in interest earnings from the Condemnations Deposits Fund investments during the last six months of 1971.

The county received $11.65, the flood control and water conservation district $18.46 and the water district $265.46.

Two Inmates Don't Show At Roll Call

San Quentin Prison was short two inmates at evening roll call yesterday, according to Joseph R. O'Brien, prison information officer.

One inmate, assigned to firehouse duty outside prison walls, walked away from his quarters sometime before the 10:30 p.m. count.

He was identified as Joe John Wilson, 28, serving a sentence for voluntary manslaughter in Los Angeles County in 1968. Wilson was to have been paroled on Aug. 20, O'Brien said.

Another inmate, allowed to go job-hunting in Oakland, failed to return to prison last night, according to O'Brien.

An all-points bulletin has been issued for Byron N. Freitas, 30, who was granted work-furlough privileges prior to being paroled next month. Freitas was sentenced to San Quentin from Santa Clara County in July 1969, On a six months to life term for attempted first-degree robbery, O'Brien said.

11:30 a.m., Kentfield — Fire in the men's restroom at Olney Hall, College of Marin. Minor damage.

3:30 p.m., Kentfield — Car fire on College Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. Fire burned wiring in car belonging to Leo Jacobson, 209 Railroad Avenue, Woodacre. Minor damage.

TODAY:

2:41 a.m., San Anselmo — Accumulating gas exploded and blew the door off the furnace at the home of Clyde Howard, 27 Sierra Avenue. Damage was confined to the furnace door. No injuries.

L.A. 'Quake Aftershock

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —One year ago Wednesday, one of the major earthquakes of modern American history rumbled through the Los Angeles area, doing millions of dollars in damage and killing 65 people.

The area still was getting aftershocks Monday night, but scientists finally agreed that the quake Feb. 9 wasn't quite so strong as first reported.

A sharp jolt registering 3.8 on the Richter Scale Monday night rocked portions of the San Fernando Valley, where last year's quake was centered.

Marin-Linked Co-Op Picks New Officers

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — Lawrence Duga of Berkeley was elected president last night of the Berkeley Consumer Cooperative, of which the Co-op Shopping Center in Corte Madera is a part.

The cooperative is operated by a nine-member board of directors, each serving a three-year term.

Three members elected to the board were Lewis Samuels, Robert Arnold and Cherie Gaines.

The cooperative operates 23 markets, service stations, and stores. The group took in $40 million in business last year, Rothenberg said, but wound up $18,000 in the red.

Survey On Library Needs Set

An informal committee, attempting to improve library service in the San Geronimo Valley, will send a questionnaire to all valley residents in about a week asking how the library can best serve the area.

Results of the questionnaire n will be transmitted to the staff of the Marin County Library.

The idea of the quEstionnaire was brought up at a meeting held last night at Lagunitas School where about 50 persons discussed the difficulties of library service in the valley.

Currently, two small branch libraries serve the area; one in Woodacre which is open three afternoons a week and one in Forest Knolls which is open two afternoons per week.

Residents of the area, at last night's meeting, expressed interest in having the library open longer hours, giving it more space, and increasing the delivery time for reference materials from the main library to oftener than once per week.

A second meeting will be held at the school at 8 p.m. on Feb. 15 to continue the discussion.

Man Fails To Show For Trial

I-J Special Report

REDWOOD CITY — A bench warrant was issued yesterday for a Novato man who failed to appear for a jury trial on a charge of burglarizing a motel room near San Francisco International Airport.

Judge W. Howard Harley issued the warrant after Joseph Edwin Tucker, 31, failed to appear for his trial which had been scheduled since Nov. 23.

Attorney C. V. Bengros, who has been representing Tucker, withdrew from the case.

Tucker was arrested last August when he allegedly tripped a burglar alarm in the Holiday Inn. He was chased by two bellboys and police, and arrested on suspicion of burglary.

A Pay Hike Of 5.5 Pct. Is Requested

A request for an across-the-board 5.5 per cent wage increase, plus other wage and fringe benefits, was presented to the Tamalpais High School District board last night by one of the district's teachers' unions.

Sidney Gordon, president of the Tamalpais District Teachers Association, presented demands that would cost the district an additional $531,724 next fiscal year, according to Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins.

Hawkins said the desired wage increase alone would cost the district $412,000. It is the maximum allowed by federal pay guidelines.

Hawkins said the teachers group, largest of the two teacher unions in the district, also asked for income insurance, pay for educating themselves, better dental provisions and $30-a-day pay for sick leave not used.

Hawkins said the association represents about two-thirds of the district 365 teachers. The Tamalpais Federation of Teachers, which speaks for the rest, is expected to offer its own proposal, Hawkins, said.

All demands will be negotiated by the board's salary negotiating team.

To Visit Israel

BONN (UPI)—West German Chancellor Willy Brandt has accepted an invitation from Israeli Premier Golda Meir to visit Israel, a West German government spokesman said today.

Contract For Office Awarded

The Rohnert Park City Council last night awarded the construction contract for a new city office building and approved a lease agreement with the Cotati School District to rent office space.

Page Construction and Lloyd Hunter received the contract at the low bid of $146,834. The building will include offices for both the city and school district as well as a central meeting room for both the city council and school board.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the debt service on bonds will vary from $17,000 to $26,000 per year. The school district will pay $4,800 per year in rent.

City Clerk Kathryn Logue said a standing-room-only audience jammed the council chamber to question the necessity of the new building. She said that most approved the action after seeing cramped conditions at city hall.

The City Council also awarded the contract for construction of 300,000-gallon water storage tank to Argonaut Constructors at the low bid of $79,536; granted $826 to support the Senior Babe Ruth League for boys between the ages of 16 and 18, and awarded the contract for city insurance coverage to Pacific Indemnity Co. at an annual cost of $15,160.

Marinite Charged In Cocaine

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Leighton M. Norton, 22, of Greenbrae, was charged yesterday in federal court with importing cocaine and conspiracy to import the narcotic.

Norton was arrested Friday with two Beverly Hills residents in what agents called one of the biggest cocaine seizures ever made in the Bay Area.

The three were arrested in a hotel near San Francisco International Airport after two women cooperating with authorities delivered 11 pounds of the drug, worth from $500,000 to $1 million, according to the U.S. Bureau of Customs.

The drug earlier had been found taped to the bodies of the two women when they arrived at Los Angeles International Airport on a flight from Lima, Peru.

U.S. Magistrate Richard S. Goldsmith yesterday set a preliminary hearing for Feb. 28 before Magistrate Owen E. Woodruff for Norton — Jan Goodman and Hillary Turner, both 22 and from Beverly Hills.

Goodman posted $10,000 bail: Miss Turner, $1,000, and both were released from city prison. Norton was expected to post $15,000 bail today, court clerks said.

Large Wave Sweeps Man, 20, To Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A large wave Monday swept a San Franciscan off a rock into the Pacific Ocean where he was drowned.

The victim was Robert Bepler, 20, who was sitting with three companions when the unexpectedly large wave washed him off the rock.

Hub Planners Aren't Always 'Bad Guys'

IN an effort to show that planning commissioners don't always have to be bad guys to property owners, the San Anselmo planning commission last night bestowed praise on the owners of two apartment buildings who had voluntarily upgraded their building.

Thelma Foster, commission secretary, said she was directed to write a letter commending the owners after Commissioner John H. Colteaux noted the commission is always quick to criticize what it doesn't like in the city, and said it should be just as quick to praise what it likes.

On the receiving end of the commendation were William D. Howey of 195 Laurel Drive, Fairfax, and his son, James W. Howey of 56 Ridge Road, San Anselmo, who own apartment buildings at 760 and 770 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

After they purchased the buildings last year, Mrs. Foster said, they repainted what had been a "garish exterior, which included yellow, orange and turquoise doors, shingled the buildings and redesigned the garage entrances for a more pleasing appearance.

The commission last night also granted variance applications from Mr. and Mrs. Graham Luce for a carport at 25 Echo Court; Dennis K. Shine for a swimming pool at 54 Yolanda Drive; William Rawlins for a cardeck on Summit Road, and E. P. Jagels for a cardeck at 79 Berkeley Avenue.

Consideration of a proposed ordinance regulating the keeping of large animals in San Anselmo was deferred pending rewording of the proposal by City Atty. John G. Buresh, and consideration of proposed minor zoning ordinance amendments also was deferred pending a report from Buresh.

The commission adjourned to 8 p.m. Feb. 28, instead of to its next regularly scheduled meeting date, Feb. 21, which is a holiday.

Antibypass Foes Will Make New Plea Friday

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — U.S. District Court Judge Robert F. Peckham will hear a new bid for an injunction to halt the Highway 101 bypass in Novato at 2 p.m. Friday.

The judge's ruling last week against an injunction pending an environmental impact study is to be appealed by attorney Douglas P. Ferguson, representing the plaintiffs, three Novato residents and Environmental Law Fund Inc.

Ferguson is now seeking an injunction pending appeal and Judge Peckham will decide Friday whether to issue it. If the judge doesn't grant an injunction, he will seek one from the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, Ferguson said.

The state Division of Highways, which opened bids last Wednesday on the $13.9 million project, east of downtown Novato, has 30 days to award the contract.

The state is proceeding toward awarding the contract, but an injunction could delay the project up to two years and jeopardize $10.8 million in federal funds, according to division of highways spokesmen.

U.S. Immigration Service Scored — 'A Shambles'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Immigration and Naturalization Service is in such a "shambles" that it has let 2 million illegal aliens remain in the country, according to Rep. Jack H. McDonald, R-Mich.

He said Monday that President Nixon should demand the resignation of the service's commissioner, Raymond F. Farrell, "before the Immigration Service collapses entirely."

A spokesman for the service said Farrell was unaware of McDonald's charges and would have no comment.

The service came under attack both from McDonald and from Lee G. Cremer, president of the local unit of the American Federation of Government Employes at the service. Both used the same figures and said the 2 million illegal aliens are sending $2 billion a year out of the country to relatives abroad.

ABAG Group To Be Chosen

Three Marinites to serve on the Association of Bay Area Governments' citizen task force will be selected at a meeting at 8 p.m. on Feb. 29 in the county planning commission's chambers in the Civic Center.

Three citizens from each of the nine counties in the region will be selected by the association's executive committee from the list of nominees. The 27-member task force will advise the association on how to form a permanent "regional citizens forum."

The nominees will be voted upon by all citizens attending the forum, which will be convened by the Marin Council for Civic Affairs.

Utility Firms' Audits Sought

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Sen. Alfred E. Alquist has introduced a bill requiring the state Public Utilities Commission to inspect and audit all major utility companies at least once every three years.

The San Jose Democrat charged Monday that over the last six years the PUC has "deliberately" cut back its auditing staff.

"Under the guise of efficiency," he said, "the commission has forced retrenchment of auditing personnel to the point where the quality of the auditing procedure has been definitely impaired."

Farm Exports At Record In 1971

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American farm exports totaled a calendar year record of nearly $7.7 billion in 1971, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Increased returns from overseas shipments of cotton, soybeans and animal products were chiefly responsible for pushing the total up from the previous calendar year record —nearly $7.3 billion in 1970.

By GEORGE NEVIN

Maurice D. (Mike) Lafferty, Tiburon's new police chief, wants to reverse a trend.

Over the past five years, with crime increasing almost everywhere, respect for police officers, he believes, has plummeted to a new low. Officers don't have community support; they're considered enemies instead of friends, persons to be avoided instead of sought out in times of trouble; "pigs" instead of people.

That's the trend that Lafferty, a 12-year veteran in police work, sees and wants to change. He'll attempt to do it with "an attitude of flexibility and adaptability," he said, that will make clear to Tiburon residents that "we're here to serve them and give them what they want."

When citizens realize officers take their orders from the people, that policemen are anxious to cooperate as much as possible, Lafferty said, the problem should solve itself.

Lafferty was an original member of the Novato Police Department, joining in 1960, and he observed the shifting attitudes during his rise through the ranks. He was named lieutenant in 1969, a post he held until he was hired for the Tiburon position last month.

The chief, whose boyish grin makes him look younger than his 40 years, said he will try to hire officers who are "conscious of the community and the people with whom they will work, flexible in their attitudes and ready to work on new and varied types of programs."

One of the first programs he'll set up after the new force takes over July 1 from sheriff's deputies — who have provided police service since Tiburon was incorporated in 1964 — will be a series of coffees designed to encourage the officers to mingle with citizens.

"There's been a big wall between the police and the community," he said. "Sme people seem to feel the police are a secret organization. That's not true. Police are members of the community and should be open to question by all."

In line with his theories on personal contact, Lafferty insists everyone address him as "Mike." Only on official documents, does he sign his full name.

Although the chief said he doesn't think the erosion of respect for police is as serious in Marin as in large cities, where one-man patrols have all but disappeared, he wants to nip such sentiment in the bud.

MAURICE D. LAFFERTY
'Attitude of flexibility'

When Marin Sheriff's deputies pull out at the end of June and Lafferty's 15-member force takes over, residents are likely to notice several changes, e said.

For one thing, there will be an immediate increase in the frequency of patrols, which Lafferty calls a "tremendous deterrence" to crime.

Lafferty also will assign one man as a combination youth and investigation officer, which will enable more thorough follow-up investigations than are possible through the sheriff's substation with its smaller staff, he said.

An important change will be in his department's attitude toward juveniles, a term which Lafferty dislikes. "We like to call them youths because juvenile is an emotional word," he said.

With one officer concentrating much of his time on youths, Lafferty said he hopes to cut down on juvenile crime, which he considers Tiburon's most serious law enforcement problem.

Just how serious was demonstrated last week when five teenagers were arrested in Tiburon in connection with six burglaries —all in the space of two days.

Lafferty said he intends to poll the community, through his officers, on what it wants regarding juvenile crime enforcement.

"They'll tell us how they want young people treated and then we'll explain why we can or can't do it. We can explain the alternatives that we can follow legally and then let the people pick the alternatives."

Singled out as another serious police problem in Tiburon was traffic, both along Tiburon Boulevard and as a result of the city's growing popularity with ferryboat tourists.

To cope with the ever-increasing influx, Lafferty will suggest a traffic safety committee to the city council. It will be made up of Tiburon city officials, representatives of Reed School District and local businessmen. They would study the problem and recommend solutions, he said.

Selected from among 25 applicants for the $17,400-per-year post by City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer, Lafferty said he will look first among Marin's police officers for the 12 uniformed men — including a lieutenant, two sergeants and nine patrolmen — he needs. Three civilian clerk-dispatchers also will be hired, he said.

He's already completed the first task — redesigning Tiburon's city council meeting room to expand police department offices. Council meetings will be shifted to Del Mar School when workers move in to convert the quarters.

During the month of June, Tiburon's new policemen will accompany sheriff's deputies on patrols to familiarize themselves with the city. The deputies, who operated on a $145,000 contract with the city, are pulling out because of the increasing burden.

Lafferty was born in Indianapolis, Ind., and moved to California 25 years ago. He graduated from Stockton College with a degree in police science. He since has taught classes at College of Marin.

He said he will continue to live in Novato, his home for the past 10 years, because he doesn't want to break his family's ties there.

New Water System Plan For Cotati

The Cotati City Council yesterday approved a three-phase proposal to improve the city water system.

City clerk Carol Bonfigli said the council told city engineer Paul Schoch to draw up plans to revamp an old well and its filter system. Schoch had told the council last week it would be less costly to repair the well then to drill a new one.

The council asked that an application for federal funds to finance part of the project be filed as soon as possible. Construction of a storage tank will be the second phase of the project to be followed by replacement of leaky water lines.

In other action at the adjourned meeting, the council visited the intersection of West Cotati and Maple avenues and asked Schoch to prepare cost estimates on improving drainage there. The council also accepted the resignation of Herbert R. Miller from the planning commission.

AMTRAK'S PROGRESS

Big Money Tree Needed

By ROBERT P. HEY
(Second of a two-part series)
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — Everybody agrees that if Amtrak is going to keep the nation's intercity passenger trains running at all, it must have more money.

Congress early this year almost surely will give it $170 million for the next year-and-a-half of operations. But this amount is nowhere near as much as the nation's highways get.

And the congressional gift will come grudgingly. Many in Congress — including some of Amtrak's biggest boosters in bygone months — aren't happy with the system's progress to date.

There even is a strong move on Capitol Hill to make Amtrak keep all its trains running for two years longer than originally required — until July 1, 1975, instead of 1973. Only that way, say some congressional critics, will Amtrak have time to improve itself enough to show whether Americans really will ride good passenger trains — or won't.

When the Senate surface transportation subcommittee approved the additional $170 million Amtrak subsidy bill last month, it added an amendment requiring that Amtrak run its current trains two extra years before reaching its conclusions.

The Senate may go along with this provision, but is is considered doubtful that the House will, especially in view of the reported opposition of the Nixon administration.

Early this session the Senate Commerce Committee is expected to approve the subsidy request "reluctantly," in the words of one committee source. Presumably the full Senate will concur, and then it will be the House's turn.

One great unknown which complicates any discussion of railroad passenger trains is the future of the railroads themselves. Several are in bankruptcy or close to it. The mammoth Penn-Central, which spreadeagles the Northeast, is bankrupt.

There is much concerned talk in Washington and elsewhere that many railroads will be unable to survive financially. In that case the government will be faced with an unpleasant dilemma: Watch all trains, freight and passenger alike, grind to a bankrupt halt in some parts of the country, or run some railroads directly — nationalize them, to use a much-hated phrase.

Should that happen, it is increasingly thought here, the government would have no choice but to nationalize those in trouble. And if it did, some ask, would it not want also to nationalize those which make money?

All these questions now are academic. But they would become instantly pragmatic should a judge running the reorganization effort of a major bankrupt railroad — as the Penn-Central is today — decide there was no realistic hope of its attaining solvency, and order the corporation to sell its equipment and go out of business.

One of the big arguments against any effort to nationalize the railroad industry would be one that repeatedly is thrown up against Amtrak: The government should not subsidize train travel. This argument makes almost everybody interested in rail passenger travel see purple. Federal subsidy of highways and airports in enormous, they point out.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. who wants to give Amtrak $250 million more in loans and grants that President Nixon does — says that in the next two years "approximately $10 billion will be spent on highways and $4 billion on airports." He wants to provide $420 million for railroad passenger service.

Others point out that the federal government originally gave Amtrak only a $40 million grant to last it 26 months, and charged Amtrak with determining whether Americans will or will not ride long-distance trains. Many in government at the time protested that the U.S. should not subsidize rail travel.

Yet this same federal government has spent an estimated $35 million on just one interstate highway interchange. It is the mammoth Bruckner interchange now being completed in the Bronx section of New York City — one of the most complicated of its type in the country.

The federal highway administration estimates that this one interchange alone will cost a total of $39,703,276. The federal share will be $34,676,705.

Nearly $35 million for just one highway interchange, but only $40 million initially for a nationwide network of railroad passenger trains. To many boosters of railroad transit this is an absurd misallocation of an increasingly critical federal resource — money.

Edwin Edel, Amtrak vice-president, flatly says he thinks "We're reaching a point in this country that we're running out of money, and we can't cover our problems with money any more.

"Now we have to say: 'Wait a moment. Is this the best way to go? Is this the way to get the most out of our money?' "

He thinks the nation will decide it gets the most from its transportation dollar by investing it in rail transit — especially given today's problems.

Antisecret Meeting Law In Legal Limbo

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The issue of whether committees composed of less than a quorum of public bodies are subject to the state's antisecret meeting law has been thrown into a legal limbo by conflicting interpretations of the law.

In the most recent ruling, Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger affirmed an opinion by his predecessor, Thomas Lynch, that a committee lacking a quorum of a public agency is not subject to the Ralph M. Brown Act. Younger's conclusion differed, however, with one reached some time ago by Legislative Counsel George H. Murphy.

Lynch's opinion was issued before several amendments to the Brown Act, but, said Younger: "There have been no amendments to the act nor case law (court test) since these letter opinions were issued which would change the views of this office."

Younger's opinion was sought by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

According to Murphy's opinion, the attorney general misconstrued an exemption from the act, applying to committees on which board members serve an exemption that actually applies only to advisory committees on which board members do not serve.

Murphy's interpretation of the exemption also has been backed by Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, who added the exemption to the law in 1968. Hayes wrote that year that the exemption was not intended to apply to the entire act.

His bill, Hayes wrote, was aimed at closing a loophole in the Brown Act under which public agencies had created temporary advisory committees composed of governing board members — but deliberately including less than a quorum in order to dodge the Brown Act.

Hayes stressed that the bill was "to erase this subterfuge."

Hospital Pay, Room Rates Rise

Marin Hospital District employees last night won 5.5 per cent pay raises which added up to bad news for patients at Marin General Hospital, where room rates will rise $4 a day to $62 effective today.

After a brief closed meeting with their representative on salary negotiations, board members voted in open session to grant the federally allowed amount of increase to all employees of the hospital and the Community Mental Health Center except psychiatrists and psychologists. Salaries for these doctors will be reviewed after a meeting with officials of the county, which owns the center.

The total pay increases will cost the district an extra $27,949 a month to be financed by the room rate increases.

Hospital Administrator Ray H. Bolinger explained that typcial new rates would be $62 for a day for double rooms (up from $58); $149 a day for the intensive care unit, as compared to $145; and $86 a day for double rooms in the heart unit as compared to $82.

Raises for employees will be effective on three dates, beginning yesterday and continuing through Feb. 16.

Behr Assigned To Key Senate Committee

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, yesterday won assignment to the key Senate committee handling environmental legislation.

Behr said his assignment to the natural resources and wildlife committee assures him "a voice and a vote in the major conservation issues facing the Legislature this year."

Behr, who had sought the new committee assignment, was renamed by the rules committee to the local government, health and welfare, and public utilities and corporations committees. He was dropped from the water resources committee to take the new assignment.

Behr will continue as vice chairman of the public utilities and corporations committee, which also handles mass transit legislation.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Welcome To Those Who Guard Our Funds

The men Californians elect to watchdog the public treasury are holding forth this week at San Rafael's Holiday Inn.

The three-day convention of the California County Auditors' Association got under way today with an event that has little to do with minding the public purse: a golf tournament. (Wonder whether those auditors have any trouble about one another's score cards?)

It was to get down to business this afternoon, however, with an address by State Controller Houston I. Flournoy.

Before they finish the three-day stint, the county auditors and controllers from throughout California will wrestle with some tough problems that also concern us all as taxpayers: new state tax legislation, the effect on the public finance picture of fringe benefits — particularly pension plans — for county employees, the problems presented by state and federal "matching fund" allocations, etc.

COUNTY AUDITORS and controllers (the jobs usually are combined, as in Marin County) play an important role in our system of government. At the county level, they provide "checks and balances" which are vital in keeping government from escaping from control of the people.

Boards of supervisors or school boards may get carried away with spending programs. But if the money isn't there, or if the program runs contrary to legal authorization, the auditor can call "stop!" He simply won't issue the warrants.

It happens every now and then. It has happened here in Marin, where we have an especially eagle-eyed auditor-controller in Michael Mitchell.

In many persons' minds, the job often is confused with that of county treasurer. Simply put, however, the difference is that the treasurer is responsible for getting the money in, while the auditor is responsible for keeping track of how it goes out.

It's a complicated job, as anyone listening in on that convention at the Holiday Inn will find out for himself. And it's a job of great importance to all of us as taxpayers.

NOW AND THEM we hear talk about efficiency of government being enhanced by making all jobs except the legislative appointive instead of elective. If there's one job where the electorate needs to keep a say more than others, though, it's in the auditor's office. He is responsible directly to the people. It's their money he's watching.

That's why we salute all the county auditors who are attending the convention here this week. They're keeping tabs on how our money —and the money of other taxpayers in other California counties — is spent. And that's a genuine public service.

Nature's Early Warning

Since man long ago thought of taking canaries into the mines as sensitive indicators of dangerous gases, birds have served as an early warning system.

Man is a part of the greater world of Nature around him. Marinites can take little comfort in the disappearance about a decade ago of the bay shrimp due to pollution, or the recent decline in pelican population, or any of half dozen unnatural calamities.

Man might be able to live without any animals, but how dull it would be! Perhaps by bumping from our lives some of our most interesting animals, we are being made aware of a dangerous trend.

Roll Call In Committee Harmful To Legislature

By EARL G. WATERS

The California Legislature operates on a committee system. This is usual for large deliberative bodies.

The function of committees is to screen proposals and recommend to the full body those which appear to have merit. Those which fail are either discarded or referred for further study.

The legislative committees are generally politically balanced with the party in power having a majority. In most cases sheer partisan votes are not made. Committee decisions are by voice vote with no record kept of the individual yeas and nays.

SEN. PETER H. BEHR, serving his firm term, has taken issue with this practice. He has proposed roll calls be taken on every committee action, with the votes being published in the journals. His position has received some support from the press.

Behr's contention is that committee votes are often the most important. Because of this he feels the roll calls would help keep the public informed.

To the uninitiated this sounds reasonable.

Each session the lawmakers are deluged with several thousand proposals. Many are so devoid of merit they fail to win a motion or a second. Without both there can be no vote. More than half of the bills introduced die in committee process. Committee votes on successful bills have little importance since the main test will occur on the floor of the full house.

THERE ARE TWO basic reasons for the high rate of bill mortalities. Many measures are proposed with no serious intent of passage. The author simply seeks to make political hay with an issue he privately knows is not valid. Most others fail because they are so poorly prepared, in thought and drafting, they would wreak havoc without extensive amendments.

It is for these reasons the legislators maintain graveyard committees such as the Senate Governmental Organization Committee, of which Sen. Ralph Dills is chairman.

THE PUBLIC'S AWARENESS of a legislative proposal is general. Through the media they learn the apparent intent of a measure. Unfortuntely it is not possible for them to know the details and all of the ramifications contained in what appears to be desirable legislation.

To compel members to go on record on every unrefined piece of legislation introduced would not only be a disservice to the legislators, it would be a tragedy for the public. Representatives would be judged on slogans rather than legislative content. Good legislators could be defeated for having the honesty to vote against poorly drafted laws.

As a practical matter the system wouldn't work anyway. Those who are in regular observance of the Legislature are aware of the difficulty chairmen now have in getting committee attendance. Under a recorded vote system members would stay away in droves.

And, as the fellow said, there is more than one way to skin a cat. Committee chairmen have great power. They could simply fail to set hearings on bills which the majority indicated they did not wish to vote upon.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Planning Could Have Avoided Tie-Ups

Your editorial of Jan. 27 about the Novato highway by-pass is grossly misleading.

You infer that a by-pass must demand devouring and flattening of wooded hills by earthcrushing equipment, and the smothering of marshlands and tidelands by fill.

This is not true.

Those of us who commute through Novato, shop in that locality, and have friends residing there, believe that good planning would have eased the monumental traffic tie-ups.

The environmental law fund, its many members and friends in Marin and other counties, believe that the State Division of Highways can plan a by-pass without demolishing the remaining beauty in this area.

We believe that the traffic situation in Novato can be handled intelligently. We believe that Novato can have its by-pass and its hills and marshlands too.

The question is: Why wasn't an environmental impact study made?

Redwood Newspaper Depot Cleaned Up

The RISE newspaper collection at Redwood High School has once again been cleaned up and I would like to appeal to the ecology minded citizens of Marin County to help us keep it that way.

Many newspaper collections in the county have closed down because of the difficulty in maintaining them and the flow of papers into Redwood has become mountainous.

The Early Risers, student organization of RISE, were so named because of preschool hour efforts to keep the huge wall of papers stacked into the bins. Yet their work went unnoticed as the supply replenished faster than they could store it. Some difficulty in getting storage bins in and out promptly compounded the situation.

Last week a meeting was held at Redwood with a salvage company representative, Redwood staff personnel, and RISE officers. The agreement was made to share income with the athletic department for help with keeping the papers loaded, and the salvage company promised prompt pickup of filled bins. We hope this will solve the problem, but we do need the help of the public.

Please: (1) Tie in bundles or bag all papers. (2) Stack papers in bin if possible, or in shed; or against bin or shed if both are full. (3) Do not leave exposed papers in the rain — bring them another day. (4) Do not leave magazines or trash of any kind.

With continued help we can make this ecological effort a success as well as provide funds for the exchange and athletic programs of Redwood High School.

President, RISF

Harbor Carriers States Its Position

Mr. Paul Peterzell's article in last week's Independent-Journal is totally misleading — and inaccurate — when he blatantly accuses Harbor Carriers of attempting to "thwart the bridge district's plans to build a fleet of luxury ferries."

This is careless journalism on this reporter's part. His article conveniently — and possibly, deliberately — overlooks the well documented litigation Harbor Carriers has with this same bridge district in which we categorically state that we do not in any way oppose such a ferry fleet to carry commuters between Sausalito and San Francisco.

What we do object to — and admittedly are battling — is this bridge district ferry fleet going into the sightseeing business in order to offset their subsidized losses . . .

The I-J reporter rather snidely wonders aloud why Harbor Carriers itself does not go into the ferry business vis a vis the Sausalito-San Francisco run. If this gentleman would review — carefully and constructively — back copies of his own I-J he will learn to his astonishment:

a. That we have offered the use of our boats whenever the Golden Gate ferry broke down.

b. That we have numerous times offered to lease our boats to the bridge district in order that their directors could conduct ferryboat fiscal studies without undue and unnecessary capitalization.

c. That we share our San Francisco ferry pier with the district despite a denial of a reciprocal arrangement on their part with respect to the Sausalito pier.

d. That we have long since disclaimed any desire to, on a private basis, provide our own ferryboat service on this run because it would prove to be a deficit operation.

Whether or not the ferry system can operate on a government subsidized "pay as you go" plan is evidently a subject of some concern to many Marin and San Francisco taxpayers (and a number of directors) who show real concern over the possible levying of taxes to offset the operating deficits predicted recently by the district's auditor, Mr. Dahlgren. That, of course, is a matter for the taxpayers to decide . . .

And just to keep Mr. Peterzell's facts straight — Harbor Carriers is its own entity which started out with only one boat over 20 years ago and grew to a fleet of five — and has won accolades both for the integrity and quality of its operation . . .

Unit Call Charges Increase Phone Bill

Have you looked closely at the unit charges on your telephone bill lately? Don't, unless you are prepared for a shock!

Jan. 25, 1971 — 58 units charge $2.35.

Dec. 25, 1971 — 53 units charge $2.49 — five units less, 14 cents more.

As a senior citizen with children and grandchildren living in the Belvedere area, I find that due to the Pacific Telephone raises on unit prices, my phone calls to the family are restricted to a minimum, which does not particularly enhance the joy of living . . .

Do take stock of your unit charges and be surprised.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Liberals Now Demand Reform In Place Of Deficit Spending

WASHINGTON — One of those classic contests betweeh Congress and the executive that come up as regularly as fight nights at Madison Square Garden is on the bill again. The contenders are all too familiary — the national debt with a jump of $50 billion versus a reform of the federal tax system.

This time the positions are reversed. In earlier rounds the left of center in House and Senate has invariably voted for raising the debt level. Conservatives on the right have fought, bled and died to hold down the debt as a symbol of fiscal responsiblity.

Today, led by Rep. Henry Reuss of Wisconsin, the liberals have served notice that the President must come up by April 15 with a tax reform program closing loopholes before they will vote to boost the debt limit. They demand a program for reforms in the federal income, estate and gift tax laws.

Last year a jump in the national debt of $35 billion was passed by 66 votes. A lot of that margin came from the same liberals issuing the ultimatum to the White House. Whether enough conservatives can be bought around to vote for the $50 billion jump, therby checkmating the reforms conservatives consistently opposed, is a burning question.

BETTER THAN probably anyone else in Congress, Ruess knows the complexities of taxes and debt. He is convinced that the President's economic advisors are groping in the dark for a way out of the recession-inflation maze. They seem bemused by the fact that the national rate of savings should be eight per cent instead of their goal of six per cent.

The obvious answer is that the one-fifth at the top of the economic heap gets an increasing share of the national income. If you have one big expensive car you don't need another, so the money goes into savings.

The figures on income distribution are startling. The top one-fifth gets 45.8 per cent of the national income; the top one per cent, 6.8 per cent. The bottom one-fifth gets 3.2 per cent. And this loopsided difference has been steadily growing as successive congresses have passed out tax relief to the higher brackets.

Reuss and his co-conspirators are trying to make it easy for the administration. They are saying that all you have to do is send up the tax reform program the Treasury Department drew up some years ago. This would yield an additional $20 billion to $30 billion a year by closing the loopholes.

Lyndon Johnson weaseled on that program as he blessed cuts for taxpayers in the middle and upper brackets.

Last year, as Reuss notes, Congress gave business an $8 billion cut and individuals $1 billion. That was on the trickle-down theory whereby business with tax-investment credits would create more jobs and reduce unemployment.

THE GROWING BURDEN of taxation, particularly the property tax, is producing a revolt that draws from presidential candidates all sorts of plans for relief. The White House is working up a value-added tax, which is a federal sales tax. It has the great advantage of being invisible. And while passing on more of the federal burden to middle-and-lower-income taxpayers, it confirms the upper one-fifth in their privileged position.

Whether the present Congress would pass a value added tax — whether the White House will send it up this campaign year — no one can say. Whether any tax reform will come is highly doubtful.

Treasury lobbyists are already working to persuade Republicans who voted against last year's jump in the debt to support the President. They have even approached some liberals on the Democratic side. The Reuss rebels are willing to grant a niggling $5 billion as a tide-over if the administration stands firm for the big jump and holds out against reform. They call for a program "comprehensive in scope and meaningful in amount."

In the swampy inertia of the House Ways and Means Committee and the calculated lethargy of Finance on the Senate side, tax reforms have been sunk without trace. That can happen again.

ERWIN D. CANHAM

Wallace Could Swing Convention — Or Dictate Terms To House

By ERWIN D. CANHAM

The enigma of American presidential politics is now George Wallace. He is bound to run well, everybody agrees, in the Florida primary on March 14. What happens then?

Governor Wallace tells the Monitor's chief political correspondent, Godfrey Sperling Jr., that he is dead serious in believing that he can capture the Democratic presidential nomination. He avers disinterest in becoming a third party nominee again.

This is, of course, the only possible strategy for Governor Wallace at this point. He cannot run seriously in Democratic primaries if his admitted intention is to ditch the party later on. If he is not nominated and it is past belief that he will be, he will still have his options open.

IN ANY CASE, he is bound to be a factor at the Democratic convention, with real bargaining power if the delegates are seriously split up. Yet Governor Wallace is not a likely ally for any other major candidate. He could not possibly join with the Democratic left — the McGoverns, McCarthys, Chisholms, Lindsays. He can scarcely find much in common with Hubert Humphrey, despite the stretchable quality of the party center, where Senator Humphrey is emplaced. That leaves Sen. Edmund Muskie, also in the center.

If by remote chance there should be a Muskie-Humphrey deadlock, Governor Wallace might possibly swing the balance one way or the other, counteracting the power of the party left to decide the choice. But if there is a deadlock at Miami, the possibility of Sen. Edward Kennedy coming back into the picture is not to be dismissed.

There are certainly many disgruntled pro-Wallace people in the United States today. Governor Wallace's strength starts in the rural south, and used to pave a racist base. This has been greatly broadened, until his program today is virtually Populist. It echoes notes of skillful demagoguery not heard since the days of Huey Long. It hasn't quiet caught fire, because the United States isn't in a depression these days. The kind of discontent that is strongest, and which Governor Wallace exploits, is fear of crime in the streets, frustration at inflation, misery of the poor and the near-poor, resistance to big government, opposition to school busing and realted measures: in general, the discontents of the "little people".

If, like the Populists of the last century, this discontent was backed by a substantial reform program, he would indeed be a serious challenge. There is no such program. The voice is emotional. The remedy is missing. Thus it is effective, up to a point. Other powerful Populist leaders, at this stage in their progress seemed to lack programs. The Nazi program in Germany was not impressive before Hitler came to power. But the discontents of pre-Hitler Germany were gigantic compared to what exists in the United States today.

THUS GEORGE WALLACE stands forth as a potentially effective politial spoiler. If he has a balance of power, he can push the Miami convention around. He can be very vocal anyway, raising Cain in the credentials and the platform committees.

But Governor Wallace's real power would come afterwrad, as a third party candidate, and he must know this very well. He could throw the outcome in several southern states in serious doubt. Whether he would help or hurt President Nixon's chances in the South is not too clear, as is almost always the case in a three-way split. Without Wallace, many feel, the Nixon Republicans would run very strongly. But the traditional Democrats are still helpless in the South, and their congressional representation has a big stake in holding the party in office. On the whole, the Wallace third-party candidacy would probably hurt the Nixon ticket.

The real threat, though, would be if Governor Wallace carries enough states to throw the election into the House of Representatives. He would demand major concessions from whichever side is willing to bid the most. It would be politics at its lowest level, distorted by battles within many congressional delegations to decide how they would vite. It could be the worst political disgrace in American history. It doesn't have to happen.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Feb. 8, 1962

Sunset International Petroleum Corp. disclosed plans for development of a 4,000-home "city" on the Freitas C Ranch adjoining Novato, to be known as Greenborough.

The United States set up a military command in South Vietnam, headed by four-star Gen. Paul D. Harkins; but the Defense Department insisted U.S. Troops in that country "are not in combat."

20 YEARS AGO

Feb. 8, 1952

Marin County Supervisor William D. Fusselman disclosed a plan for a county-wide flood control district.

Walter Gordon, chairman of the California Adult Authority, in a speech to the Sausalito Parent-Teacher Association attacked plea bargaining in the courts as "bargain counter justice" which made false the claim that "crime doesn't pay."

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By FRANK FARRARA

Preserving Environment High Among Novato Political Issues

It's small wonder the Environmental Law Fund, a group seeking to aid in legal battles concerning the environment, opened an office in Novato.

The freeway battle aside, the area has several matters in the offing that lend themselves to verbal duels: the Novato Creek flood control project by the Army Corps of Engineers, joint military-civilian use of Hamilton Air Force Base, and bigger and better pipelines to import water into North Marin.

The City of Novato is revising its general plan and Marin County is working on a county-wide master plan that probably will contain some type of open space between Novato and the north county line as a buffer.

There are occasional outcrys about housing density, townhouses and apartments, low and moderate income housing, and a call or two for a moratorium on building.

ALL THE RUMBLINGS are being heard because Novato, with more land available for development than any other city, is undoubtedly going to become the largest city in Marin.

The belief is that there is still time to act before environmental disaster envelopes the city, and that residents can retain a semblance of the life they sought when they moved to Novato.

In this light, many residents regard the upcoming city council election to be more important than usual, foreseeing council decisions in the next four years as setting the direction the community will take.

There is a wide field of candidates, including a woman attorney and a high school senior, but only one is an incumbent and he was appointed only last year.

Thus, no matter who is elected, Novato will have a comparatively inexperienced council. The veterans will be Wayne Sartain and George C. Quesada, elected two years ago.

When these two were elected, it was viewed as a victory of those with planning orientation over those who were oriented toward development.

The question yet to be answered is whether voters will continue that apparent trend, and elect councilmen whose philosophy matches that of Sartain and Quesada, or whether there will be a backlash that will see the return of those who lend a kinder ear to businessmen.

WITHOUT A CRYSTAL ball, it appears that the candidate who is moderate, middle-of-the-road, will wind up in a council seat.

The voting pattern in Novato seems to have changed and veterans such as M.E. (Babe) Silva can no longer ride in on the oldtimer vote. Yet there isn't any indication that the pendulum will swing completely to the other extreme and The three seats will be gained by extremism in defense of the environment.

If there were another Wayne Womack around, he probably would be elected, since the real Wayne Womack isn't running.

Bolinas Group Is Forming On Future Development

A Bolinas organization is now being formed to give all residents a voice in planning for the future development of their town.

"Our goal will be to keep Bolinas beautiful and rural and pretty much the same as it is today," said Judith Weston, press representative for the Bolinas Planning Group.

The group, which hopes eventually to develop a master plan for the area, will hold an organizational meeting on Feb. 21 at 7:30 p.m. at Bolinas Community Center.

Mrs. Weston stressed the organization is committed to representing "all the people, not just a few groups or factions."

To this end, she said, all of Bolinas's community organizations will be asked to nominate a rapresentative to serve on the group's board of directors. Asked to participate will be: the Bolinas Property Owners Association, Bolinas Community Public Utility District board, Bolinas Community Inc., Bolinas Beach Improvement Club, the Bolinas-Stinson School District's student-teacher-parent group, the Bolinas Rod and Boat Club and the Stinson Beach-Bolinas chapter of the Marin Conservation League.

Mrs. Weston said the group grew from informal discussion sessions held over the past few months to "talk about the need for community planning by local people."

"The Marin County Planning Department has neither the money nor the manpower to hire a separate planner to work strictly for Bolinas," she said, and consequently, we are kind of ignored out here."

According to Mrs. Weston, the group hopes to formulate, for submittal to the county, "a master plan that all residents can support. We are most interested in helping the county plan for our community and certain our assistance will be welcome," she said.

She said the group plans to meet regularly twice a month when organization is completed.

Young, wild turkeys require large quantities of insects to obtain protein as a supplement to their vegetable diet.

Trio To Play Benefit For Church School

The George Duke Trio will perform at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at St. Andrew's United Presbyterian Church in Marin City to benefit the church's beginning school.

The school formed last year, is a racially and economically integrated preschool and concert proceeds will go toward scholarships for low-income children.

Duke, a 26-year-old pianist, has played with such jazz and rock figures as John Handy, Gerry Mulligan, Dexter Gordon, Don Ellis, Frank Zappa and Lalo Schifrin and accompanied vocalits Dionne Warwick, Andy Williams, Carmen McRae and Joe Williams.

Repertory Theater To Present 'Mary'

Marin Repertory Theater's production of Jean Kerr's "Mary, Mary" will be presented at 8 p.m. on Feb. 25 and 26, and March 3 and 5, at the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

The comedy about a marriage gone sour is under the direction of Tom Farley. Michael M. Percy and his wife Mary have the lead roles.

Confessions Of Male Chauvinist At Women's Political Caucus

WASHINGTON — (I was asked to speak the other night at a fund-raising affair for the National Women's Political Caucus in Washington, D.C. It is very rare for a man to confess his sins publicly before such a distinguished group. I know the speech may finish me at the YMCA locker room or the tables down at Morey's, but I have to think of my future in case the women's revolution succeeds. Although what I said was "off the record," my political advisers have warned me that the speech may be taken out of context. Therefore, I have been persuaded to release the entire text.)

"GENTLEMEN AND sisters, this is indeed a historic occasion. We meet tonight in this dark cellar to Plot our plans for turning this country around.

"I know you are asking yourselves, 'Why has this man, who is known to his wife as a male chauvinist pig, agreed to partake in these subversive activities?'

"There are many reasons.

"I believe that this is a sex whose time has come. I have seen the future and it is women.

"I know what it's like to be treated as a sex object. I know when someone takes me out to dinner she has only one thing on her mind. I am sick and tired of being pinched and mauled and groped at — just because I have a pretty face.

"AND LET THE record read, if the revolution succeeds, that I was here on the platform tonight at your first $25-a-head cocktail party, and if you manage to overthrow those sexist politicians who now rule our nation, I would like to be put in charge of the telephone company.

"I have a confession to make.

"I am a sinner.

"And I come here tonight to ask your forgiveness and pardon.

"It's true that I was a male chauvinist pig.

"I studied it at school.

"But it wasn't all my fault. I discovered very early in life that during recess it was easier to fight with girls than boys.

"I also discovered at an early age that girls would do things for you that boys wouldn't — like lend you their roller skates or their homework.

"I FOUND OUT other things. I found out that girls could make me blush and boys couldn't. I discovered, and may the good Lord forgive me for this, that girls were nicer to touch than boys and they make my toes tingle all the time.

"I thought to myself, when I was maybe 9 or 10, that someday I'd like to have a girl of my own — someone who would cook for me and iron my shirts and shovel the snow out of the driveway and make my toes tingle at night.

"Now in retrospect these were terrible thoughts I had.

"But that's how we were all brought up. We thought of women as childbearers, car pool drivers, breakfast makers and bed warmers. And if they couldn't do those things, at least they could type and take shorthand.

"YES, SISTERS, I confess that I was no better than Hugh Hefner or Norman Mailer.

"I had hit bottom.

"But then one night, while I was reading Playboy and watching my wife scrubbing the floor, a light dawned on me and I said to myself, 'Is this really what I want out of life? How can I be free when this woman that I married is still in chains? What good is it to own the world when she has to stand in line at Safeway?'

"So I picked her up from the floor and said, 'Go get a job, I'll squeeze out the mop.'

"SISTERS, from that day forward, I have been one of you.

"Because of these revelations I can now live with myself. My floors are dirty, but my heart is pure.

"And so tonight, I ask your forgiveness for all of the terrible sexist acts I have perpetrated on women, overt and undercover.

"I appear humbly in front of this group to say that Gloria Steinem and Bella Abzug and Betty Freidan and Kate Millett and Germaine Greer have shown me the way.

"All I ask of you is to take me to your bosoms and say, 'I forgive you, Arthur. Go and sin no more.'"

Petitions Seek Toll Rate End

Petitions seeking elimination of the toll charge on telephone calls between Bolinas and Point Reyes Station are being circulated by the Bolinas Beach Improvement Club.

President Millard E. Bostock said two officials of Pacific Telephone Co. told the club Saturday that the petitions are the first step in revising the company's long-distance rates.

The elimination of the toll charge may result in slightly higher monthly service rates for subscribers, BOstock said the officials told club members.

The petitions will be brought back to the club's next meeting March 4, Bostock said, after which the telephone company will schedule a hearing.

New Cars Domestic—2905

Do You Want A BETTER Deal On The SAME New Car?

All new car dealers have the same models, styles, colors and optional equipment on their new cars. What is the difference between dealers on the same make of car?

THE ANSWER IS IN THE COST OF DOING BUSINESS IN ONE AREA AS AGAINST ANOTHER

Marin County new car dealers have a much lower cost of doing business that the dealers "over the bridge." This is why your new car will cost less in Marin County. WHY DON'T YOU CHECK AND SEE!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Aspirin's Effect On Blood Found An Unexpected Virtue

For decades aspirin and other salicylates have been used to relieve low intensity pain, such as that associated with headache, arthritis, neuralgia, and aching muscles. But in recent years, it has received some notoriety as a stomach irritant, and as a drug capable of causing painless bleeding from the stomach, and beneath the skin.

This bleeding tendency is a secondary reaction that might become an important adjunct in the prevention of clots and induce heart attacks and strokes.

One 5 grain aspirin tablet may be capable of preventing the initial phase of clotting within the arteries. The chemical prevents blood platelets from matting together to form clots.

NEW EVIDENCE shows that people with transient symptoms of small or minor strokes do not necessarqly have a reduced flow of blood to the brain because of narrowed arteries. The symptoms stem from small clots that have broken loose from ulcerated plaques in the hardened neck or brain arteries.

The usual anticoagulants prevent this and it is reasonable to assume that aspirin and other anti-inflammatory agents may do the same. Here may be another example of serendipity in which a valuable use, not known originally, is found for a drug.

REACTIONS TO ASPIRIN are variable. The following is a case in point. A middleaged woman developed hemorrhages under the skin for no apparent reason. Her most strenuous endeavor was golfing, and she could not recall bumping her arms or legs hard enough to produce the black and blue marks.

Blood tests showed no abnormalities in the bleeding and clotting mechanism. However, the capillaries were found to be fragile. When questioned about the use of drugs that influence bleeding, she admitted taking two aspirin every night for sleep. She was advised to stop taking salicylates, and has not had a black and blue mark since.

Aspirin is a time-honored drug that is safe for most people. It is used not only as a pain reliever, but also to reduce fever, and to alleviate malaise associated with viral infections. It has the advantage of being absorbed when taken orally.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

FLYING DEAFNESS

REPLY

Yes. In some instances, it is due to the noise whereas in others the eustachian tube is blocked. Holding the nose and exhaling with the mouth closed may open the tube making the ears "pop." Chewing a stick of gum often does the same. If none of these methods is successful, the ears, nose and throat should be examined to determine the cause.

BATS IN THE THATCH

B. A. writes: If a bat gets into your hair, does it have to be shaved off?

REPLY

Not the bat. All that is needed is to shampoo the hair. However, if bitten by the bat, antirabies shots are in order.

HOLLOW SPACE

H.S. writes: What is left in the space where a lung has been removed?

REPLY

The chest wall sinks in and the other lung pulls over toward the vacant side.

TB OF THE SPINE

D. E. writes: What is done for Pott's disease?

REPLY

Tuberculosis of the spine, or Pott's diesase, is treated with unusual antituberculosis drugs (PAS, streptomycin, rifampin, and isoniazid). Surgery and braces may keep the veterbras from collapsing and producing a serious deformity of the back. Today Pott's disease seldom is seen because of our health department's successful fight against tuberculous cattle and milk.

CRAWLING SENSATIONS

T. writes: Could a senations of ants crawling over the body be due to nerves?

REPLY

Yes. The symptom usually is of mental origin, or may stem from syphilis, hardening of the arteries, malnutrition, or a toxic condition, such as alcoholism.

BLOOD TEST

T. F. writes: Before surgery, why is blood take from the finger of the patient?

REPLY

To check the blood type and count. There are various ways in which this information is useful to the surgeon.

Mill Valley Library Has Exhibits

The pottery, on exhibit just inside the library entrance, is produced by Jonathan F. Jacobs of Mill Valley and his 5-year-old son, Benji. The father-and-son team composes Blithedale Pottery in Mill Valley.

More than 90 photographs, by members of the Canadian Society of Graphic Art, are on display in the library's gallery. The exhibit's theme is "Canada — A Year of6the Land."

Volunteers are being sought to sit with the shows during the hours it is open — 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday and 2 to 4 p.m. Saturday. Volunteers may call the library to sign up. The library — and the exhibits — will be closed Saturday (Lincoln's birthday) and Feb. 21 (Washington's birthday).

Trial Is Set For April In Big Pot Case

A trial for five persons accused of the sale of 20 kilos of marijuana in 1970 was set yesterday for the week of April 24 in Marin Superior Court.

Charged are Virginia Jane Lucan, 27, of San Anselmo, and John Albert Lucas, 28, of Sausalito, who are accused of possessing marijuana and cocaine; Eric De St. Aubin, 36, of no known address, Peter Lasoff, 25, of Mill Valley, and Gerald Keith Smith, 22, of San Anselmo, who are charged with selling pot.

Mother Fasts In Docks Protest

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI)—Mrs. Charles Hay has not eaten anything but orange juice and vitamins for 10 days and says she won't until the West Coast dock strike is over.

Mrs. Hay, 24, mother of two, started her protest fast Jan. 28 after she became concerned about the effects of the lengthy walkout on wheat ranches around Moscow, whose overseas shipments have come to a halt.

Her husband, Charles, said his wife has "lost a few pounds" but feels well enough to continue her part-time job at a restaurant.

'Passport' Continues

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House has voted to continue the "Golden Eagle Passport" —the $10 annual pass which allows the holder and everyone in his car to enter all national parks, monuments, historic sites and battlefields.

387 Demo Caucuses Set For Saturday

Caucuses to nominate delegates for the nine presidential candidate slates — which will compete in the June primary election for the right to represent the state at the Democratic National Convention — will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. In each of California's 43 congressional districts.

The air of the 387 caucuses is to allow grassroots participation in selecting the delegates, a reform triggered by demands by many youths and minorities that they had been frozen out of the system in the 1968 elections.

Legally, candidates can ignore nominations by their caucuses, and go the traditional route by filling delegations with professional politicians and big contributors, but practical politics are expected to discourage this.

Candidates generally have promised to attempt to include a representative share of women, minorities, young and the poor on the slates.

To participate in a caucus, a person must be a registered Democrat and sign a loyalty pledge to the candidate.

The candidates on the June 6 primary ballot are Sens. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Henry M. Jackson of Washington, George S. McGovern of South Dakota and Vance Hartke of Indiana, mayors John V. Lindsay of New York and Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York and former Sen. Eugene McCarthy.

State Democratic Chairman Charles T. Manatt of Los Angeles, predicting participation by 15,000 Democrats in the caucuses, contrasted the new system with the old practic when "three people meeting in a hotel room could select California's entire delegation."

Republican delegations to the GOP national convention will be handled as in the past — the traditional system the Democrats now have rejected with such fanfare.

All the new reform actually requires is that a candidate's organizing committee give "due consideration" to the grassroots nominees. The committee will choose 238 of the state's 271 delegates from the list of nominees "or from the names of any registered Democrats the committee may wish to consider."

The remaining 33 delegates will be selected by the committee after the primary so prominent Democrats who either did not choose up sides — or chose a losing one — will have a voice at the convention.

In the Sixth Congressional District, which now will include all of Marin, four of the caucuses will be held in Marin and five in San Francisco. Each candidate's caucus in the district will be entitled to nominate seven delegates.

In the First District, which includes Sonoma County, five of the caucuses will be in Santa Rosa and the remainder elsewhere in the district. Each candidates caucus in the district will be entitled to nominate six delegates.

The number of delegates was determined by how well Humphrey did in the district in 1968.

A pre-caucus meeting open to all registered Democrats will be held by the Muskie campaign at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Blue Rock Inn, Larkspur.

The only caucus for which no meeting place has been selected is the one in the Sixth District for Mrs. Chisholm. It had been planned for Alexander Hall at San Francisco Theological Seminary, San Anselmo, but reportedly was canceled by the seminary on the ground that the meeting could cost the seminary its tax-free status.

McCarthy's Sixth District caucus had been announced for the county's War Memorial Auditorium, but has been shifted to the home of Denise Holladay, 54 Knight Drive, San Rafael.

The other caucuses in the sixth and first congressional districts will be held at the following:

JACKSON — Simpson's Restaurant, 926 Clement Street, San Francisco, and Pete's Bella Vista Inn, 1300 Central Avenue, McKinleyville, Humboldt County.

McCARTHY — Private house at 54 Knight Drive, San Rafael, and private house at 560 Michael Drive, Sonoma.

Sausalito Ferry Plea Due Study

A proposal that the Golden Gate Bridge District ignore the City of Sausalito in locating a permanent ferry terminal will be considered by the district's building and operating committee at 10 a.m. tomorrow in toll plaza offices.

San Francisco Supervisor Robert E. Gonzales made the proposal, arguing the terminal should be in Sausalito's central waterfront area as originally envisioned by the district. The city has asked that the downtown terminal be in the same area as the existing landing.

Also on the committee's agenda will be a plea from San Francisco Supervisor John J. Barbagelata that the district proceed on its proposed suicide barrier on the span.

The finance-auditing committee will meet first at 9 a.m. to consider budgeting an as yet unspecified sum to buy surplus railroad right-of-way in Marin for future transit use.

The full board of directors will meet at 10 a.m. on Thursday, one day earlier than regularly because Lincoln's birthday will be observed Friday.

Design Board Will Rule On Car Agency

The Corte Madera Board of Design has called a special meeting for 7:30 p.m. today at town hall to consider plans for a large, foreign car dealership on Paradise Drive.

The Reynolds C. Johnson Co. of Pleasanton has applied to build a Porsche-Audi agency on four acres at 5711 Paradise Drive.

"He says we're sorry, but we don't consider a sore throat a prime time gripe."

Greenbrae Tax Area Debate Set

The Greenbrae Property Owners Association has scheduled a panel discussion of its much-disputed special taxing district at the group's annual meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at Adaline E. Kent School in Kentfield.

Meanwhile, opponents of the taxing district reported yesterday that they are nearing the final signatures on a petition to force a referendum. The district was approved by the county board of supervisors Jan. 25.

Bert D. Inman of 36 Manor Road said about 200 signatures have been gathered on petitions and about 50 more will be gathered for insurance before all are delivered to the county elections office next week.

Inman, former president of the homeonwers association, and other opponents must enlist 10 per cent of the approximately 2,000 registered voters in Greenbrae to force an election.

The district in dispute is to provide funds for maintenance and landscape of public areas. The association, which directs the work, claimed it could not make ends meet on the $14,000 a year it collects through deed covenants.

On the panel will be Kermit V. Speeg, association president, City Councilman William G. Fleckels of Larkspur, three county representatives and Ronald H. Marinoff, a director of the Lucas Valley Homeowners Association.

Bonds Sale On Dixie Board List

Trustees of the Dixie School District will consider selling $965,000 in bonds when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the administration office.

Sale would be used to finance the completion at the Miller Creek and Oak View schools. If sold, this would complete the sale of all bonds authorized by district voters. April 1 is the tentative sale date.

The board also will discuss new laws and court decisions on forced bussing of students.

Other agenda items include adoption of a calendar for the 1972-73 school year, a resolution to support the State School Bond Ballot Measure to replace schools not earthquake resistant, discussion of requiring board members to take training courses in board service and making several personnel changes.

Pizza Parlor Plans On Tap

The Larkspur Planning Commission will consider plans for a Straw Hat Pizza Parlor adjoining Corte Madera Creek at its regular meeting today.

The commission will meet at 8 p.m. at city hall.

The pizza parlor plan submitted by Design Services Inc. of Menlo Park includes a Spanish-style building to be built at 20 Bon Air Road next to the Bon Air Bridge.

Also to be discussed are a subdivision variance and a request for roof modification on a building at 1000 Magnolia Avenue.

Guilty Plea In Burglary

Clifford Lane Miller, 20, of Novato, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing Charlie's Market in San Rafael on Dec. 14.

Growth Report 1971

Thanks to our many good friends and customers for making 1971 the greatest growth year in the history of the Bank of Marin.

Resources of our bank at the end of 1971 amounted to $79,695,657, up over $23 million from the previous year, a gain of 42 percent.

During the year two new offices were opened; one in Sausalito and the other in the Larkspur-Kentfield area. Both offices have met with enthusiastic response in their respective communities.

We believe the continued growth of our bank is a direct result of providing people with financial services on a personalized basis from convenient and modern locations.

SPORT NOTES

Jim Sherbert Signs Cowboys' Contract

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Although Oregon State's Jim Sherbert was passed up by all 26 teams in last week's National Football League draft, he'll still get his chance and it will be with the world champs.

Sherbert, a 6-foot-2, 228-pound defensive end who starred as a linebacker at Terra Linda High School in his prep days, signed a free agent contract with the Dallas Cowboys over the weekend. He will get his shot at his old high school position for the Super Bowl champ Cowboys.

Prior to the draft he had been contacted by representatives of the Cowboys, Rams and New England Patriots and was surprised and let down when passed up in the draft.

"But I still think I have a good chance to make it as a free agent," he said this morning during a long distance telephone conversation from his Corvalis, Ore., apartment.

Sherbert said he is aware that the fine group of linebackers for the Cowboys are in their 30s and there will be a chance for some linebacking upstart to make the grade. The reason he wasn't drafted, the Cowboys told him, is that he is listed as a defensive end and his weight is too light. They didn't want to gamble on his linebacking ability, but he said he is not worried about the position change.

He expects to report to the Cowboys' camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif., in July weighing between 230 and 235 pounds. By then, he will be a father of two. His wife, Tina, is expecting the couple's second child next month.

LACROSSE, ANYONE? Another of Marin County's junior lacrosse players has made the grade in a military school, squaring things with all branches of the armed services.

Larry Simmelink, San Rafael High, has won himself an appointment at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md. He joins other graduates of the Marin Junior Lacrosse Association, Dick Tetu, now at West Point, and Bill Linn, at the Air Force Academy, who along with Marshall Roe (Brigham Young University), have made the grade.

CONTRA COSTA College, leading College of Marin throughout the basketball season, has finally overtaken the Tars on the California Junior College Sportswire rankings. The cagers from San Pablo are now ranked sixth and Marin is seventh. Contra Costa is 8-0 and Marin 7-1 in Camino Norte Conference standings, that one loss being one of CCC's eight wins. Marin will be taking on Canada J.C. of Redwood City tomorrow night, 8 o'clock, in Kentfield.

GYMNASTICS AT ITS finest will be the offer of San Rafael's Dominican College tomorrow night. Denmark's gymnastic team will present a program of folk dancing and rhythmical gymnastics at 7:30 in the school gym. The 16 men and women on the team are on a goodwill tour of five western states. The price seems reasonable enough: $1 for adults and 75 cents for student body card holders.

BETTER LATE THAN... Belated congratulations to Hal Roth and wife Margaret of Sausalito Yacht Club on their winning the Cruising Club of America's famed "Blue Water Medal," coveted yachting award for blue water cruising. The award was given at a dinner in the Roths' honor on Jan. 20 in New York, and was based on the couple's 18,538-mile cruise starting in 1967 from San Francisco to Hawaii, the South and Southwest Pacific Island groups, islands of Japan, Aleutians, Alaska and remote Canadian Queen Charlotte Islands, back to San Francisco, all aboard their 35-foot sloop, "Whisper."

Miss Evert Tips Billie Jean King

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Blonde, bouncy Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale used the occasion of her stunning upset victory over Billie Jean King in the Tennis Club Women's International Championship Monday to hint she may turn pro by next year.

"I haven't played in this kind of competition since Forest Hills and I was afraid I would be rusty," said the 17-year-old Miss Evert after the win. "I especially want to thank the fans. Next year I hope I get to keep the money."

If Miss Evert had been a member of the women's professional tennis circuit, she would have collected $4,400 first prize for her 6-1, 6-0 conquest of the formidable Mrs. King, whose $100,000 total winnings made her the top earner on last year's pro tour.

As it was, the top prize money went unclaimed and Mrs. King collected $3,000 runnerup money, with Judy Dalton of Australia receiving $2,300 for third place and Wendy Overton of Chevy Chase, Md., getting $2,000 for fourth.

With her win in the Tennis Club International, fourth stop on the Virginia Slims pro circuit, Miss Evert avenged her loss to Mrs. King in the semifinals of last fall's U.S. open tournament in Forest Hills, N.Y.

Miss Evert broke Mrs. King's service three times in the first set, signaleg the start of a bad day for the 28-year-old Californian. Time after time, Mrs. King used her underspin backhand, but each time it landed in the net or within easy reach of Miss Evert.

Mrs. King exhausted her collection of top-spin lobs, twisting drop shots, twist services and overspun forehands. But the calm Miss Evert turned them back with little trouble, relying heavily on her steady two-handed backhand.

In the final game of the second set when Mrs. King fought off five set points, someone in the crowd of 3,500 yelled, "Get it over with!"

"I'm trying," shouted Miss Evert, and the crowd applauded. Mrs. King, No. 2 ranked women's tennis player in the world, seemed tight and nervous in the opening games and faltered on ground strokes. She also was irked by three disputed calls during the match.

In the second game of the final set Mrs. King missed a passing shot from Miss Evert and halted play to demand that the umpire turn off the lights on the still-sunny court. It took about three minutes to shut off the lights and the umpire called the point a let, directing that it be replayed.

Both Mrs. King and Miss Evert grimaced and one spectator stood up in the stands and shouted, "Give the electrician a let."

Gibson Selected For Hall

NEW YORK (UPI)—Josh Gibson, known as the black Babe Ruth, and Walter (Buck) Leonard joined their old friend, Satchel Paige, in baseball's Hall of Fame Tuesday after a special vote by a committee formed last year to give recognition to stars of the Negro Leagues.

Gibson, reputed to be the greatest hitter ever in the Negro Leagues of the 1930's, never made it to the majors and died a frustrated man at 35, just a few months before Jackie Robinson broke the color barrier in 1947.

POWER

Gibson, a solidly built catcher with enormous power, is said to have once hit 84 home runs in one season and 623 lifetime. He is also rumored to have hit the only fair ball out of Yankee Stadium.

"Josh was the greatest hitter I ever pitched to," said Paige recently, "and I pitched to everybody. There's been some great hitters — Williams, DiMaggio, Musial, Mays, Mantle. But none of them was as great as Josh."

TWO MEN

"He was as strong as two men," said Monte Irvin, a Negro League star who made it to the bigs with the New York Giants and has since joined the staff of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. "He had a classic swing, like Ted Williams. He attacked the ball. He was the best hitter in the black leagues."

Hall of Famer Roy Campanella, the Brooklyn Dodger great who had his career cut short by a near fatal automobile accident, also paid tribute to Gibson. "They said I was a good catcher," said Campy, "but everything I could do, Josh could do better."

GRAYS

Leonard, who was the first baseman on the Grays while Gibson was behind the plate, earned the title the "Lou Gehrig of Negro baseball."

He received seven of th nine votes while Gibson was a unanimous choice of the committee which voted on players with a minimum of 10 years in the old Negro Leagues.

LEFT HANDED

Leonard, who attended the press conference when the announcement was made, is now 64. He began his career in 1934 and continued until 1945. He was 48 when he hung up his spikes.

TOO OLD

Leonard was once asked to try out for the major leagues in 1952 by Bill Veeck but declined because "I was too old."

Leonard is now vice president of the Rocky Mountain Leafs baseball club of the Carolina League, a Class A affiliate of the Detroit Tigers.

Leonard said he used to play 210 games during the regular season and then 80 more in the Winter Leagues in Mexico, Puerto Rico and Cuba.6

TIRED

He said, "come summertime, I used to get pretty tired but I had to keep playing."

Leonard and Gibson will be inducted into the Hall of Fame this summer. Leonard is the first player from the old Negro Leagues to make the Hall who isn't generally known around the country.

Tiburon Sloop Meltemi Leads Acapulco Race

The 39-foot sloop Meltemi of the Corinthian Yacht Club in Tiburon was adjudged the overall corrected time leader in the biennial Acapulco yacht race at yesterday's 9 a.m. radio roll call.

At that point, Bill Jonas' little craft had covered 177 miles of the 1,430-mile course from San Diego to Acapulco in about 15 hours. Of course, Meltemi also was the class C leader.

The 73-foot sloop Windward Passage had gone the greatest distance, 229 miles, putting it six miles ahead of arch-rival Blackfin. Windward Passage's distance was a first-day record.

Miss Nadig In Ski Upset

By MARTIN LADER

SAPPORO, Japan (UPI) — Marie-Therese Nadig, a 17-yearold Swiss schoolgirl, may emerge as "Ski Queen" of the 11th Winter Olympics.

Miss Nadig, only in her second year of international competition, pulled off her second major upset of the Games Tuesday as she skied to victory in the giant slalom. It was the second gold medal in three days for Miss Nadig, who won the women's downhill Sunday.

Scheduled for later today were the pairs free skating, with Kenneth Shelley and JoJo Starbuck of Downey, Calif., placed fourth behind World Champions Irina Rodnina and Alexei Oulanov of Russia following the compulsory figures, and the men's compulsory.

Mark and Melissa Militano of Dix Hills, N.Y., were eighth and Barbara Brown and Doug Bernut of Denver 12th following the compulsory phase of the pairs competition.

The victory by Miss Nadig, a 5-foot-4 dynamo, gave Switzerland all three Alpine titles thus far contested. In addition to Miss Nadig's twin triumphs, Bernhard Russi won the men's downhill.

American hopes faltered badly as Barbara Cochran, the top U.S. hope, could manage only 11th in the heavy snowstorm. Her sister, Marylin, was 20th and Karen Budge of Jackson Hole, Wyo., was 23rd. Sandra Poulsen of Olympic Valley, Calif., fell on the difficult course and did not finish.

Miss Nadig covered the 4,-045foot Mt. Teine course in 1:29.90 minutes, almost a full second faster tnan Annemarie Proell, the World Cup points leader from Austria, who had also been second in the downhill. Wiltrud Drexel of Austria was third.

Miss Nadig will try for the triple crown in Friday's special slalom, but she doesn't feel she has the necessary qualifications to match the feat accomplished by France's Jean-Claude Killy in the 1968 Olympics at Grenoble, France. Andrea Mead Lawrence of Rutland, Vt., was the last women's triple crown winner, taking all three events at Oslo, Norway, in 1952.

"I refuse to make predictions about the special slalom," she said. "I don't like the slalom very much. I have not had any luck in this discipline and have fallen of missed gates several times this season." She will start in the second-seeded group for the special slalom.

U.S. Women's Coach Hank Tauber was disturbed with his girls' finish. "We are disappointed with our results," said Tauber. "The weather conditions were difficult with three to four inches of new snow on the course but the difficulties were equal for all the girls."

Strong Cited By Guevara

OAKLAND (UPI)—The eight area Northern California college basketball teams hope the current week can match the 13 wins and five losses racked up during the seven days gone by.

Three of the losses were among area foes—Stanford and California split two games and San Jose State upset Pacific.

SJS coach Ivan Guvara Monday pointed to senior guard Don Strong as the main factor for the Spartans' recent wins.

"Don is the only newcomer, so I'm singling him out as the adhesive factor," Guevara told Northern California Basketball Writers at their weekly luncheon.

Strong was named co-player of the week by the writers, along with California's senior center Ansley Truitt, who scored 54 points and grabbed 36 rebounds in the weekend split with Stanford.

It was Strong who picked off a UOP ball and drove for a layup to give the Spartans' their 72-70 upset victory. That was the Spartans' fourth upset win in the last five games. The other contest was a narrow loss to powerful Long Beach State.

Truitt is within 32 rebounds of Cal's conference rebound record. Former Bear Bob McKeen set the record with 411 rebounds in four seasons. Truitt is only in his third year.

Conference action this week will be highlighted when Santa Clara hosts USF in a battle of unbeaten West Coast Athletic Conference leaders Saturday. Cal and Stanford host Oregon and Oregon State on successive nights.

Warriors To Host Bullets

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors host the National Basketball Association's lame duck division leaders, the Baltimore Bullets, tonight at Oakland Arena.

The Bullets lead the Central Division, where no team is winning very often. Baltimore has 24 wins and 30 losses for a .444 mark.

Golden State is far back in second place of the Pacific Division, with a .596 percentage. The Los Angeles Lakers are batting .870 with 47 wins and seven losses to lead the Pacific clubs.

Indestructible forward Clyde Lee was expected to see at least a few minutes action for Golden State tonight, in spite of a pulled hamstring muscle against Phoenix last week.

The 6-10 Lee has appeared in 266 consecutive games as a Warrior since Dec. 27, 1968.

Volleyball Loop Registration Held

Registration will be conducted through Feb. 16 for the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department men's adult volleyball league from 9 a.m.-12:30 p.m. in the department's office, room 209 of City Hall, 1400 Fifth Ave.

Registration is on a first-come, first-served basis and will be cut off after 12 teams are accepted. Two six-team leagues will be formed. Entry fee is $50 per team. Games will be held Monday and Thursday evenings at San Rafael High School.

ECONOMIC REASONS

USF Abandons Football Again

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The University of San Francisco, which sent six starters from its 1958 team into the pro ranks, has dropped footballin favor of a heightened program of soccer, basketball and intramural sports.

The Dons' powerhouses of the early 1950s produced all-pro standouts such as running back Ollie Matson and linemen Dick Stanfel, Bob St. Clair and Gino Marchetti. Quarterback Ed Brown and coach Joe Kuharich also went to the National Football League from the Dons.

START

USF started footballin 1890 as St. Ignatius College but canceled the program 22 years ago. The sport was resumed in 1964 and went to a major college level in 1969.

The announcement of the demise of football for the second time at USF came Monday at a press conference with the Rev. Albert Jonsen, who also announced basketball coach Bob Gaillard was named athletic director to replace the late Pete Peletta.

TRINGALI

Football coach Vince Trinigali, who took over as head man in 1969 had a 3-25 mark and lost 23 games in a row.

"I'm not bitter toward the administration," Tringali said after the announcement. "I just feel that if we had four enlightened people in it, it would recognize that our society today is emphasizing more health and athletics. In dropping one of our major sports it does not seem to me that the administration has any balance with respect to the main stream of American thought today."

CUTBACK

Jonsen, president of the Catholic school, said football was not the only area to feel the budget ax. "This is part of a cutback dictated in several other major areas ... a decision based on the university budget," he said.

A task force began examining the athletic situation last September, Jonsen said. The group was made up of three alumni, three faculty and three administrators.

RESOLUTION

On Feb. 5 the board met on the campus and passed a resolution terminating intercollegiate football.

"I can tell you that we plan to lengthen and strengthen our tradition of strong performance in basketball and soccer, two sports that have brought a great deal of visibility to USF," Jonson said. The Dons have won national titles in both sports.

Intramurals will be an "exciting part of the future of sports at USF," he said.

ABANDONED

Jonson said the estimated $100,000 savings from the abandoned football program would be funneled into an expanded intramural program.

"There were two determining factors in the decision. One was the cost of football, the other was conviction basketball and soccer, eqecially, and baseball too, are where emphasis belongs," Jonson said. "They are much more likely to help USF wear a happy face, athletically speaking."

Soviet Squad In Berkeley

BERKELEY (UPI) —The spearhead of Russia's Olympic track and field team—15 top athletes—are in Berkeley and seven were scheduled to perform Saturday in the Athens Invitational at Oakland Arena.

The Russians sent the 15 to Berkeley to train and compete because that country's own indoor season doesn't begin until mid-February. Eight planned to go on to Louisville for Saturday's Mason-Dixon Games.

Olympic Trial Set For J.C. s

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — California junior college basketball players, which includes those from College of Marin, could quality for berths on the United States' 1972 Olympic team, based on a new ruling.

TOURNEY

Olympic berth hopefuls can now participate in a national Amateur Athletic Union tournament in March to find a spot on the squad.

The California Junior College Association (CJCA) announced Monday plans to enter the AAU tournament March 24-28 at London, Ky. Approximately eight players will be chosen from the tournament to compete in the 66-man U.S. Olympic trials at the Air Force Academy in Colorado June 1024.

JOINT TEAM

In 1968 the National Junior College Athletic Association and the CJCA fielded a joint team in the Olympic trials. But the U.S. Olympic committee gave a single JC berth solely to the national organization this year.

"We wanted access and this was the only way to get it this year," said Dr. Lloyd Messersmith, executive director of the Sacramento-based CJCA. "In an Olympic year, it's not fair for any athlete to be cut off."

SEVERAL LEVELS

The AAU tournament will draw representation from sevéra levels of amateur basketball —with an NAIA team from the senior college ranks, the armed forces All-Star team, two national amateur basketball league squads, plus teams from the 11 AAU regions.

"We've also selected a teaming (during the AAU tournament) to represent the U.S. in the Soviet Union, April 20-May 10," said James Fox, basketball administrator for the AAU.

Willamette Names Schaffeld As Coach

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—Joe Schaffeld has been appointed head football coach at Willamette University, succeeding Tom Ogdahl, who retired to complete his doctorate studies at Oregon State.

Schaffeld has been defense coordinator for the Bearcats for the past six seasons.

Much 'Adoo' In Cage Tilt

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

North Carolina State's dream of playing the spoiler role in the Atlantic Coast Conference lasted just about as long as it took Robert McAdoo to warm up.

The Wolfpack, which dropped one-point decisions to Maryland and Virginia last week, two of the top-ranked clubs in the nation, played North Carolina evenly for about 10 minutes. Then McAdoo went to work.

McAdoo scored 17 points as the Tar Heels moved from a 23-23 tie with 10 minutes left to a 54-39 halftime lead. He finished with 31 points as North Carolina moved back into a first-place tie with Virginia for conference honors.

Tom Burleson, State's 7-foot-4 sophomore center, led the Wolfpack with 20 points.

In other action involving highly ranked clubs, South Carolina (6) ripped DePaul 91-67, Virginia (9) clobbered Virginia Tech 107-85, Florida State (11), crushed South Alabama 104-81, Southwestern Louisiana, tied for 11th, beat Eastern New Mexico 75-64, Kentucky (14) stopped Auburn 78-72 and Missouri (15) downed Iowa State 77-72.

Kevin Joyce had 21 points and Tom Riker 20 as South Carolina beat DePaul and Barry Parkhill, the ACC's leading scorer, and Jim Hobgood combined for 52 points in Virginia's victory over Virginia Tech.

Ron King's 23-point effort paced Florida State over stubborn South Alabama and Dwight Lamar hit 30 points in leading Southwestern Louisiana over Eastern New Mexico. Soph guard Ronnie Lyons scored 22 points as Kentucky beat Auburn in Southeastern Conference play and Missouri kept his Big Eight title hopes alive by beating Iowa State behind Greg Flaker's 23 points.

Elsewhere, Dwight Davis scored 25 points and grabbed 11 rebounds as Houston routed Denver 98-69 and Temple, led by Mike Jones' 24 points, beat Penn State 68-66. Soph Lionel Billingy scored 21 points as Duquesne beat Murray State 72-66 and Dave Paynor's 27 points helped Kansas beat Georgia Tech 93-65.

Mike Edwards' 30 points lifted Tennessee to an 81-75 triumph over Vanderbilt and Marshall Wingate hit 17 as Niagara topped St. Francis (Pa.) 82-72. Tommy Hess hit four points in the last 26 seconds to give Louisiana a 62-60 triumph over Mississippi State and New Mexico State, led by John Williamson's 27 points, romped past Portland 108-50.

Hoppe Falls In Marin Tourney

June Heimann swamped Don Hoppe in the finals Saturday, 247-185, at Greenbrae Lanes to win the annual handicap bowling tournament between the women's 600 Club and the Marin County Bowling Association Board of Directors (men).

Eight men and eight women reached the finals following early rolloffs and were paired off in match games. Mrs. Heimann defeated Mel Sjohlom, 188-182, Frank Gloistein, 205-180, and Anne Maillard, 197-179, to reach the finals.

Ted Wensloff, who rolled the highest series in the qualifying, was knocked out in the first round by Penny Tauscher, 207-190. Mrs. Tauscher advanced as far as the semifinals before falling to Hoppe, 252-193. Hoppe's game was the highest of the night.

The 600 Club also announced that Marilyn Epidendio is the bowler of the month for January. A 194-average kegler, she rolled 216-258-193 for a 667 series, the month's highest.

Hamilton Boxers Back Instant-Replay Machine

By RON LENT

This is one fighting machine heavyweight champion Joe Frazier can never lick.

It would exploit Frazier's mistakes immediately. Just ask the Hamilton Air Force Base boxing team members training for this year's summer Olympics tryouts in Munich.

"Before," the technical sergeant began, "I would tell a fighter, 'you are doing this wrong or that,' but now when I tell him I also show him on film. That way, he sees his own mistakes right there on the television hookup."

The video tape recorder, or VTR, is actually a lightweight camera mounted on a tripod. The camera has two basic parts — a view finder and a picture-taking unit. The latter part changes the pictures from light to electrical energy. The converted energy is subsequently sent by cable to a recorder for storage. When the recorder is plugged into a regular television set, the stored tape can be played back.

"This device is as old as television, but it is new to us up here," Woods added.

The veteran trainer believes the $1,700 item will aid the Hamilton boxing program three ways: it will point out a fighter's mistakes, enabling him to improve his performance; it will cut down injuries by showing a pugilist's defensive shortcomings; and it will reduce training time.

The VTR, which will be used primarily during sparring matches or controlled boxing sessions, will enable a fighter to see in fast or slow motion "his mistakes which could cost him a fight or an injury," Woods stated.

For example, he cited the problem of a boxer who drops his right hand below his jaw when punching with his left. "He can be tagged with a hard blow to the head, and, even though a head gear is worn, he could possibly be hurt. Such blows can drastically influence a fight's outcome."

When a fighter sees such mistakes on the VTR film, two of the machine's aforementioned purposes are achieved, notably the safety and performance improvement factors.

Thus, when the fighter is made aware of his deficiencies, the errors are, hopefully, not repeated and the practices can be devoted to smoothing out the fighter's skills.

"I've seen my fighters on the VTR, and from what I can tell, there is little I can teach Jesse Valdez," the squad's sensational 142-pound tiger.

Valdez, a veteran of some 224 amateur fights, is unbeaten in the last five years. He is a very mature 24-year-old fighter.

Though Valdez is considered to be among the best amateur fighters in the world today, he has plenty of company on the perennially powerful Hamilton team. Jerry Otis, the 165-pound five-year boxing veteran is another claimant for the best-of-the-amateurs title.

Woods commented that "Otis could go all the way and become an Olympic champion at Munich this year." Currently, Otis, Valdez and a host of others are stationed at the Marin County air base to train for the Olympic tryouts.

Valdez and Otis head an all-star cast which also features 125-pound Joe Rivera, 119-pound Richy Carreras, 106-pound Claudio (Chicky) Rivera, 179-pound Chuck Brumley and heavyweight Nick Wells.

Chicky Rivera was an All-Service champ in his division last year. Joe Rivera is an Inter-Service king and the North American amateur champion.

Brumley and Wells are potential future stars, according to Woods.

Wells and Brumley are two more reasons Woods concluded that "we (the American Olympic boxing delegation) have the talent to put on quite a show at Munich this year."

Another Duquesne Cager Banished

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Duquesne's basketball team, bidding for its fifth straight tournament invitation, has won 15 of 17 games, but Coach Red Manning only hopes the Dukes can run out of games before they run out of players.

Duquesne, which has lost 10 players through various means in the past year, suffered its latest setback Monday when Dave Roddy, the team's top substitute, was Declared ineligible by the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

The talent-thin Dukes hardly missed a beat, however, coasting to a 72-66 victory over Murray State Monday night, proving, according to Manning, "They seem to be adjustable to anything that happens."

Roddy was set down by the ECAC because he was playing in his fourth varsity season, which is one too many. He played the first half of the 1968-69 season at Miami (Fla.), then transferred to Duquesne, sat out a year, and played the second half in 1969-70. The 5-foot-11 Roddy was a substitute on last year's NCAA tournament team but did not come into his own until this year when the roster was depleted to seven players. He averaged six points a game and was third on the squad in assists.

Neither Manning nor Clair Brown, the athletic director, wanted to finger the blame for using Roddy this season. But the mistake in his eligibility appearntly was made by the late Louis Skender, the former athletic director, when Roddy first enrolled at the school.

Brown said no decision has been made whether to offer forfeits of the 14 victories in which Roddy played, a move that "is up to the institution," according to Robert T. Whitelaw, associate commissioner of the ECAC. Chances are slim the games will be forfeited.

Redmond Moves Up As Scorer

NEW YORK (UPI) —Right winger Mickey Redmond of the Detroit Red Wings is the hottest scorer in the National Hockey League with 21 points in his last 15 games.

The outburst has enabled Redmond to gain a three-way tie for eighth place in the NHL scoring race, according to statistics released Monday by the league office.

Redmond's hot streak — which includes 12 goals and nine assists —has enabled the revived Red Wings to vault from last-place in the East Division to fourth place, a point ahead of Toronto in the battle for the division's final playoff spot.

Detroit acquired Redmond a year ago along with Bill Collins and Guy Charron for veteran Frank Mahovlich.

Phil Esposito of Boston continues to lead the points derby with 88, but his lead has dwindled to two points over Jean Ratelle of New York. The Bruins center, connecting for only one goal in four games last week, still holds a huge advantage in goals scored with 44.

Rod Gilbert of the Rangers holds down the fourth spot with 76 points, one more than linemate Vic Hadfield. Bobby Hull of Chicago is sixth with 69 points followed by Richard Martin of Buffalo with 60.

The Black Hawks continue to dominate the race for the Vezina Trophy as Tony Esposito and Gary Smith have a combined goals-against average of 1.88. Esposito's seven shutouts have helped fashion a 1.75 average —the lowest individual mark among NHL goalies. Smith has allowed 2.10 goals a game.

Schranz Ban 'Justifiable'

Russia's Winter Olympics team literally looked like sabled aristocrats as they paraded before Emperor Hirohito and Avery Brundage at the opening of the XI Olympiad at Sapporo for, in fact, they were garbed in full length sable coats and sable hats.

If an American athlete ever appeared at the Olympics in a sable coat and hat, Brundage undoubtedly would inquire whether it was an under-the-table gift from a sponsor. And if Brundage, as president of the International Olympics Committee, found that to be true the sabled athlete would be barred as a professional.

BUT EVERYONE knows, including Brundage, that the sable coats and hats of the Russians were not under-the-table gifts by the U.S.S.R. which openly sponsors its Olympic athletes, not just on a once-every-four-year basis when Olympiads are held, but on a day-to-day and year-end-year-out basis.

By American standards that makes Russian Olympic representatives professionals because they make their living out of sports. And there is nothing Brundage can do about that. He may be a cantankerous 84-year-old guardian of Olympic amateur standards but he is no fool who would create an international incident.

WHEN BRUNDAGE led the IOC fight that banned Karl Schranz from the XI Olympiad by a 28-14 vote, the fuss created by the Austrian skier's ouster blew over in a couple of days. Austria doesn't carry the international weight Russia does.

Schranz now may openly endorse skiing equipment which Brundage charged he had been doing all along for $40,000 to $50,000 a year Remuneration.

IT'S NOT difficult to justify Brundage's action against Schranz. After all, Schranz repeatedly refused to confirm or deny that he was endorsing skiing equipment for a handsome annual income. It's impossible to justify Brundage's lack of action against the sabled Russians by logical reasoning but very easy to do so on practical grounds, the avoidance of an international incident.

Brundage defines an amateur in strict Victorian terms — a competitor who plays without remuneration, directly or indirectly. But he goes too far when he criticizes former Olympic champions, such as Peggy Fleming, for taking advantage of her 1968 Olympic victory at Grenoble to sign a $500,000 professional contract.

MISS FLEMING didn't commit herself to a life of amateurism when she began working very hard, even before she was a teen ager, to become the most graceful and best skater in the world. And she waited until six months after her Olympic triumph before signing a professional contract.

Even the immortal Bobby Jones, the personification of amateurism, didn't wait that long to cash in on his Grand Slam in 1930 when he won the U.S. Amateur, U.S. Open, British Amateur and British Open — the four top titles in golf.

Two months after completing his Grand Slam, Jones at age 28 announced his retirement from the game and accepted an offer of $250,000 from Warner Brothers to make a series of films on golf.

FISH AND GAME

Stories Worth A Laugh Or Two

By AL GIDDINGS

The flu bug got me again over the weekend. Twice now in the last month! But I do have some stories you may enjoy. These are stories Of odd ball happenings in Fish and Game work over the years, and they are all true.

One of the first that I remember concerned two fellows who came driving up to the abalone checking area out at Pierce Point. As wardens, we checked their abalones which they had in sacks on the backseat floor of the car. They were legal, but as an after thought, we questioned them about any possible abalones in the trunk. One of the fellows said, "It's open, take a look." I almost didn't. The trunk was loaded with abs! I asked the driver, still sitting on the seat, about this. He slowly got out, took a look, and said, "Now, how did those get in there?"

Russ Ild and I were watching two fellows digging cockles. Usually, two people will dig 50 each, placing them in their buckets. At the end of the digging, the cockles are usually dumped back into the water, washed and recounted. It's fairly easy, even from a distance to check a cockle digger. After counting their fifty clams, the extras and undersized are usually reburied.

This day,these two fellows gave us the whole act, but instead of putting the extras and small ones back they put them in a paper bag, then packed them up to The brush area along the highway where they could grab them as they passed with their car. (Boy! We had them!) After this they walked back to their car where we drove also, checking their 100 cockles. Russ took off to get the bag of evidence. When he came back he had a peculiar look about him. Why? Those two had baited us with a bag of rocks — no cockles at all. That's not the end of it. The following week, the full story was duly logged in the local small town newspaper.

HOW WOULD YOU like to be this fellow? I was watching a duck hunter on a small duck pond one day. The hunter had decoys out and was keeping down in his blind giving the ducks a chance to work. I was, perhaps, a half mile away. All of a sudden, I see a second hunter come over a knoll. He was 200 yards from the pond and had a gun. Suddenly, he raised the gun and proceeds to shoot. He had a .22 automatic and fired about 16 shots; the hunter in the blind was petrified, it happened so fast. As I remember it, he could only sue that character for the loss of his shot up decoys!

ABOUT TWO years ago, one of my close fishing friends came up and said he had a bone to pick with me. He described how he had shot a buck on private property years ago, but was discovered before he got the poached deer out. He had to take off. He later came back, and there I was taking the deer away at the ranchers request. It was a real trophy. We didn't know each other at the time. Now 15 years later, he was filling in the loose pieces of that episode. You know, a few weeks later, I received a call about a big four-pointer that had been shot at Nicasio, and again the poacher had been routed. I called my friend, who has long since reformed, taking him and his deer tags with me and giving him the four pointer. You don't think that in the next 15 years, I am going to have a second poacher with a bone to pick with me in the background. (I hope he reads this article.)

THEN THERE was the time I was sitting in a blind with my decoys out, when in the early morning fog, here comes an illegal power boat shooter zeroing in on my decoys. He didn't shoot, he recognized the difference at the last minute! That's always been a "Too bad" episode that he'd never have lived down!

My dad never ceased to amaze me. I guess he must have been 80 years old at the time. I shot a buck, knocking both horns off the deer. I wondered what Dad would say if I told him that I had accidently shot a doe. True to form, without batting an eye, his comment was, "We can't eat the horns." It floored me. Fish and Game has been a lot of fun over the years. It's been a series of many interesting things.

THE OCEAN salmon season opens next Saturday — a good season is expected! Better get your gear ready.

Coaches Clinic Saturday

A dozen football coaching luminaries will participate in the San Francisco Coach of the Year Clinic Saturday and Sunday in the Jack Tar Hotel.

Corte Madera's Bob Troppmann, clinic manager, disclosed that the head coach participants include: Bob Devaney, Nebraska; Bug Wilkinson, formerly of Oklahoma; Duffy Daugherty, Michigan State; Chuck Fairbanks, Oklahoma; Eddie Crowder, Colorado; Bill Battle, Tennessee; Jim Sweeney, Washington State; Lynn Waldorf, formerly of California; Dewey King, San Jose State; Jack Christiansen, Stanford; Mike White, California; and Vic Rowen, San Francisco State.

The American Football Coaches Association and The Eastman Kodak Company cosponsored event begins Saturday at 8 a.m. with registration.

Troppmann will present welcoming remarks before San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto discusses "National Football Coaches Day in San Francisco."

Coaches Daughterty, Wilkinson, Devaney, Fairbanks, Crowder, Battle and Sweeney will explain various aspects of football, such as quarterback preparation and game plans.

White, Christiansen, Waldorf, King and Rowen will act as topic moderators.

Troppmann added some 1,400 coaches are expected to attend this clinic, one of 12 such nationally sponsored affairs.

Hockey League Picks Executive Milkes

NEW YORK (UPI) —Marvin Milkes, a former executive of three different major league baseball clubs, was appointed Monday as general manager of the New York franchise in the newly-formed World Hockey Association.

WHAT IS A TWENTIETH CENTURY NATURAL SHOULDER MAN?

He is a Self-assured, Aggressive, Alert Individual. A man who takes pride in his Individuality. He is a man to whom style, not fashion, is important; Believing in himself, he expresses this in his outward appearance.

He is one that prefers the quiet evolution of Traditional Styling with its sensibly paced development.

AS WARRIOR COACH

Al Attles Accepts New Role

By LUIX OVERBEA
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

"It's kind of tough to just sit and watch —and not be able to do a thing about it."

The speaker was Al Attles, coach of the National Basketball Association Golden State Warriors. Attles, dressed in a three-button dark olive mod knit suit, gave all the outward appearance of a young junior executive.

This is only Al's first full year as a pro coach and so far his team has played spectacular but streaky basketball.

"Coaching? Well, the final score is not in on that," he said. "I still don't know whether I like coaching. This is the first time I haven't worn some kind of a cage uniform in 15 years."

Fighting bench splinters is a new experience for Attles and one he's not sure he likes. When he was elevated to player-coach of the Warriors part way through the 1970-71 season, he only considered it an interim appointment.

But when owner Franklin Mieuli asked him to stay — well, then he sort of had to rethink things.

"Now I have a new respect for what a coach has to go through," he explained. "But, as I said before, I haven't formed an opinion about how long I'll be a coach. Right now I just plan to take things a year at a time.

"Patience is not a virtue of coaching in the NBA," he continued. "It is not coaching in the purest sense, either. True coaching is a teaching process, and the real teaching is done in junior high and high school. Up here it's more or less a matching-up process. We have no time to teach.

"Most teams play their top seven or eight men. They can't wait for the others to learn. The job is to win today, not teach for tomorrow."

Attles says that no coach should enter his profession with any delusions of grandeur. He emphasized that players win the games and most coaches get blamed for the losses.

When the Warriors played the Celtics in Boston late in December, Al's team was in a horrible slump, having lost 12 of its previous 15 games.

"I wish I had all the answers," he said. "because slumps are part of the game. I just hope this isn't a sustained thing. I know we're better than this. And I know it because we played great basketball at the beginning of the season."

Since then the Warriers have turned around and achieved Attles' first goal —to climb within striking distance of Seattle for second place in the NBA's Pacific Division. His second goal is to catch up with the Los Angeles Lakers and move into first place.

Al was unusually calm after the Boston game, even though his team lost. "Coaching has made me calmer," he said. "I've had so many techs (technical fouls) called on me, I've had to make the judgment and stay put."

As a player in the all-black Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association with North Carolina A&T in his college days, Attles was known as a fiery player — the first man down court on the break, the first man to oppose an official's call. He is the first black coach to be selected from a black college in NBA ranks.

Fans have treated him very well, he said. He claims he has had no critical problems with his players.

COWBOYS' BACK

Duane Thomas Hearing Set In Texas

GREENVILLE, Tex. (UPI)— Duane Thomas, the Dallas Cowboys sphinx-like running back, today was to have broken his self-im posed silence to answer charges of marijuana possession.

The outcome of that Hunt County grand jury hearing could seriously affect the controversial running back's return to the Cowboys backfield this fall. Marijuana possession under Texas law is a felony with possible imprisonment of up to 30 years.

Thomas, 24, and his younger brother Burtrand, were stopped Jan. 30 in Greenville, Tex., when their car they were driving was allegedly mistaken for one believed stolen from a Dallas car lot Jan. 11. The car was not stolen, however, but loaned to Thomas as a courtesy car by a car dealer in Dallas.

Arresting officers Norman Gray, a deputy sheriff in Hunt County, and W. E. Jeter, a state highway patrolman, said when they stopped the car, they detected the odor of marijuana.

They said they found a small quantity of marijuana —about the amount to fill two matchboxes —in the car.

Thomas and his brother were charged with possession of marijuana before County Judge Gale Garden and were jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond. He refused to talk to the news media about the incident.

Thomas' sophomore season with the Cowboys was tempestuous from the start.

He got into a salary dispute with the club and then in a news conference which came after his teammates had already reported to training camp, Thomas verbally attacked the Cowboys management, including Coach Tom Landry. He, however, patched up his disagreements and returned to the team at midseason.

But Thomas, although his performance on the field more than matched his outstanding rookie year, refused to give interviews to the press.

The Cowboys have refused to comment on Thomas' charge and arrest.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

A Query Regarding The Air West Deal

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I owned 800 shares of Air West which was bought out by Howard Hughes interests. At that time I received $8 per share with $1 to $2 to be paid in about one year. As of this date I have heard nothing more on the settlement. Could you please help me?—D.M.

A. On April 1, 1970, Air West adopted the title A W Liquidating after assets were sold to Hughes Air Corp. An initial liquidating dividend of $8 per share was paid with the balance to be retained until contingent liabilities not presently known were determined. In November, A W announced its intention of distributing $1 per share by year end.

However, a suit filed by a Pacific Air Line debenture holder against A W and Hughes Air resulted in a temporary restraining order on the payment. Debts of Pacific — Air West's former name — had been assumed at the time of the takeover. Settlement of this case will delay, if not prevent, the distribution.

Q. Would you please give your opinion whether I should hold Garan, Inc. (ASE), Royal Industries (NYSE) and Town & Country Mobile Homes (ASE)? Garan pays a small dividend and the others no cash dividends. All three issues were bought at peak 1969 prices.—A.G.

A. From the caliber of your investments I would judge that capital gain rather than income was your primary goal. In this case I would advise holding all three issues for recovery.

Royal Industries managed to turn earnings around in 1971 — management indicated sales would reach $100 million and earnings about 85 cents a share. Garan has a healthy financial position, about $10 million in working capital and only $1.1 million long-term debt.

Outside financing will not be required to finance expansion plans. Town & Country earned 21 cents per share in the October period, a quarterly record. Sales of the Arizona plant and concentration on larger, higher margined mobile homes were primarily responsible.

S. Americans Travel In U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI) — South American travelers are coming to the United States in ever-increasing numbers.

Argentina, Brazil, Colombia and Venezuela provided the greatest number of travelers in 1970 — 206,410 of a total of 319,202 for all South America, says Paul Hildebrandt, General Manager North America of Argentine Airlines.

There were 63,816 travelers from Venezuela, this perennial number one country in total visitors to the United States from South America.

New York Exchange Stocks Close Mixed

Shortly before the closing bell, the Dow Jones Industrial average of 30 selected blue-chip stocks rose 1.89 to 905.86. It had been off more than a point at the outset. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index gained 0.11 to 104.65.

Declines held more than a 100-issue margin over advances among the more than 1,700 issues crossing the tape.

Investors were cheered near the bell by news a settlement had been reached on economic issues in the 123-day West Coast dock strike, the longest dock strike in the nation's history.

Profit taking was a major factor throughout the session as it has been for the past several days.

Steels and motors pointed downward. Chemicals and oils were mixed. Natomas was an upside feature in the oils.

Rails and airlines were fractionally mixed. Braniff, in the airlines, benefitted from a higher 1971 earnings report. General Dynamics was a popular feature in the aircrafts.

IBM, Westinghouse, Control Data, Honeywell and Texas Instruments helped keep the electronics and computers firm. Burroughs and Motorola were softer.

New San Rafael Real Estate, Construction Office Opens

A new office in real estate and construction, known as Moran Realty and Construction Co., has opened at 1330 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

It is a joining of forces of Lance Moran of Terra Linda, who previously had his real estate office in San Francisco at 420 Market Street, and his parents, John and Estelle Moran, who have had Moran Construction in Greenbrae. The senior Morans have been active in this work in Marin since 1946.

Services will include real estate investments, land development and general contracting.

NEW NAME for Deming and Granger Marin Tire and Brake in San Rafael is Deming Tire and Brake. Harold E. Granger of Novato has withdrawn from the firm and plans to open a service station.

JACK K. HOWARD of Mill Valley has been elected vice president, corporate development, by Consolidated Freightways, Inc., where he has been director of that division since 1967. He is also a director of CF Air Freight, Inc., a subsidiary of Consolidated.

JOHN R. WEISS of Kentfield has been named wholesale sales manager of the Northern California dairy region for Foremost Foods Co. Previously he held a similar post in the company's Bay Area district. He first joined Foremost in 1942 as a route driver in San Francisco. After three years of Army service he returned to the company and has held a succession of sales and management posts. He will be headquartered in San Francisco.

LEONIDAS MEHELIS of Corte Madera has been promoted to assistant vice president of Crocker Bank's credit department in San Francisco. He has been with the bank since 1963, serving in credit capacities.

R. TORMEY HEROLD of Larkspur has been named assistant vice president of Wells Fargo Bank's 447 Sutter Street office in San Francisco, where he has been manager for the past year. He joined the bank in 1948 and has served in several San Francisco offices, including the Golden Gate office as manager!

THREE MARINITES, Arthur Gensler and Harold Edelstein of Tiburon and Steven C. Thompson of Corte Madera, are sharing honors received by their firm, Gensler Associates in San Francisco, for an award-winning office building in that city. All participated in the structure's design.

The building, known as the Western States Bankcard Association Building at 100 North Point Street, received the John L. Merrill Award for excellence in design and site, presented by the San Francisco Planning and Urban Renewal Association.

A SERIES OF THREE Wednesday afternoon classes for women on stocks and bonds will be held at the Dean Witter and Co. offices at Fourth and C streets, San Rafael, starting tomorrow, from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. They will be conducted by Mrs. Kit Tappan Cole of Ross.

Tomorrow's session will deal with "How to Pick a Stock." Next week's subject will be "How to Read the Financial Section" and in two weeks "How to Buy and Sell." Further information may be secured from Mrs. Cole at the Dean Witter office.

STOCK LIST ON SATURDAY

Also included in the special two-page stock roundup is a list of the week's most active stocks, the Standard & Poor 500 Stocks Index and a weekly news summary of Wall Street action from United Press International.

Wants Opening Of School Switched

CADILLAC, Mich. (UPI) — The West Michigan Tourist Association is hoping that school officials will do something about it before next Labor Day rolls around.

The association contends opening the schools before the long Labor Day weekend is harmful to Michigan's tourist business. It says resort owners lose a weekend of trade when schools open early and student employees in the tourist industry lose a week's work.

Tourist Budget

MANILA (UPI) — A budget of $1 million for Philippine tourism promotion in Japan has been approved by the government. The money will be charged against the 16th year schedule of Japanese World War II reparations payments to the Philippines and will cover the cost of Japanese technical services and equipment necessary to promote Filipino tourist spots.

A Good 1972

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Continental Airlines' domestic passenger and cargo traffic set new records in 1971 as they increased 6.2 and 61.3 per cent over 1970, according to Charles A. Bucks, senior vice president-marketing.

WARDS RIVERSIDE® PASSENGER TIRE GUARANTEE

If the tire fails due to such defects, Montgomery Ward will replace the tire FREE during the first 20% of original tread life, and for a prorated charge based on tread wear received during the remainder of the tread life. If the tire fails due to road hazards (excluding repairable punctures) during the original tread life, Montgomery Ward will replace the tire for a prorated charge based on tread wear received.

Prorated charge is based on the current price in effect at the retail store to which returned or the current catalog price in effect at the store or agency to which returned, in either case including F.E.T. Original tread life is to the top of the tread wear indicator.

For service under this guarantee return tire with evidence of date of purchase to any Montgomery Ward branch.

IMMEDIATE REPLACEMENT BATTERY GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees this battery to be free from defects in material and workmanship. If this battery fails to hold a charge Montgomery Ward will: 1. For 90 days from purchase, replace the battery free. 2. After 90 days, to the end of the guarantee period specified, replace the battery, charging a prorated amount—based on time since purchase—of the regular no trade-in selling price then in effect. Batteries used in commercial vehicles are guaranteed on a similar prorata basis for half of the normally specified term. For service under this guarantee, return battery with evidence of date of purchase to any Montgomery Ward branch.
